Walker Blasts Mass Media

General Says Press Sways Officialdom

Tells Committee He Is Victim Of Red Conspiracy

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edwin A. Walker, far-right ex-general, told a Senate committee Wednesday that both he and the American way of life are victims of dark forces in "collusion with the international Communist conspiracy."

From President Kennedy down, Walker raked high officials and even suggested that a onetime ghost writer for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would bear looking into. He didn't name the writer.

As for the state of the armed forces, he said that with the nation's survival at stake they are "paralyzed by our national policy of 'no win' and retreat from victory."

The big Senate caucus room was crowded with spectators, many of them Walker admirers, as the former major general came to defend himself against charges that he tried to sway votes of his troops in the 1960 elections, in violation of Army regulations.

Admonished By Army

The Army admonished the general, who was then in command of the 24th Division in Germany, and he later renounced his pension rights and resigned to battle in private life against forces that he said "endanger the security of our country."

Walker now is seeking the Democratic nomination for the governorship of Texas.

The tall ex-general showed a bit of tension as he read his 9,000-word prepared statement. His hands shook a bit at the start and he frequently stumbled over words — converting "subservient" into "subversient" for example, and "inequity" into "iniquity."

Two associates sat by his side, occasionally correcting his pronunciation and prompting him. After they had done this for a while, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., had them stand up and identify themselves — attorney C. J. Watts of Oklahoma City and Medford Evans, of Dallas, a consultant.

Denounces Mass Media

Walker's use of the word subservient was in connection with a denunciation of the press and other mass media. Government officials are knuckling under to the press, he said, but: "The media men will not do much when the shooting starts — except write graphic accounts of the retreat."

"My experience and observation," he said, "indicate that control (of the military) has been taken from the hands of those legally responsible for it and placed in hands not fully identifiable, but which operate through the media of mass communication, the U.S. Department of State, and the information offices of the services.

Says PIOs Controlled

"In soldier language, the 'Pios' run the Army. What the average soldier does not realize is the extent to which outside media run the PIOs, and unidentified forces run the media."

Outside the hearing room, he remarked on television that he believes what he regards as the sins of the press are "becoming more evident to the American people."

"When trouble starts, with respect to riots, etc.," he said, "the press always becomes the victim."

As for his own troubles, he said much of it stemmed from the Overseas Weekly, a privately owned paper which criticized his troop-in doctrination program. He called this a "repulsive tabloid," a "scandal sheet," an "agency of the left," and said some of its staffers were not above trying to blackmail Army officers.

Defends Birch Society

As the long hearing went into late afternoon, Walker launched into a defense of the John Birch Society.

8 Divisions Involved In Elimination

Priority Ready Units To Face Emergency Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has decided to eliminate four National Guard and four Reserve infantry divisions in a major revamping of Reserve-Guard manpower, it was learned Wednesday.

Informed sources said the four National Guard divisions to be reconstituted into independent brigades are: The 34th of Iowa and Nebraska, the 35th of Kansas and Missouri, the 43rd of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont, and the 51st of Florida and South Carolina.

The four Reserve divisions were identified as: The 79th of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland; the 94th of Massachusetts, the 96th of Arizona, Idaho, Washington, Utah and Nevada; and the 103rd of Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

First Line Reserves

At the same time, the Army is planning to place six National Guard divisions in a priority reserve, ticketed for call-up first in event of a future emergency.

It was understood the Army does not now plan to name the six, but it was believed four of them would be the 26th Infantry of Massachusetts, the 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania and two National Guard divisions now on active duty—the 32nd Infantry of Wisconsin and the 49th Armored of Texas.

To Achieve Readiness

The plan to reshape the Reserves, to achieve maximum readiness, has been in the making for about a year.

It was spurred by the experiences in last year's Berlin crisis call-up which showed up weaknesses in the present organization in terms of equipping, training, and manning.

Reds Offer Bonus To Aid Production

Pravda Endorses Idea Of More Pay For Better Work

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the voice of the Communist party, came out Wednesday for individual bonus payments and incentives to workers to speed production.

It means scrapping the system of incentive payments to work brigades and other groups. Bonuses for the individual worker have not been general.

Incentive payments to groups have been made to encourage team spirit and collective morale.

The Pravda article, written by A. Volkov, said current leveling of payments in many places was bad.

Is A Directive

The article, in effect a directive to get more production through individual incentives, followed demands by Premier Khrushchev that more pay be offered for more work, especially on farms where harvests have been lagging for three years.

As a matter of fact many factories already have been paying individual and group bonuses for piece work, but these resulted in draining off most skilled labor from farms to cities.

Volkov condemned the magazine Economic Gazette for publishing an article encouraging payment on a collective basis instead of individually.

Cite Confusing

The magazine writer said payment for individual productivity cultivates individuality and weakens the strength of the collective. The same views were expressed in a book recently and in an article by the popular big circulation magazine Light.

Oddly, Light is put out by the managers and publishers of Pravda.

Pravda said such articles introduce harmful confusion in workers' ranks.

Engineer Describes Huge Moon Rocket

NEW YORK (AP) — A space rocket as tall as a 36-story building — the one that may carry three Americans to the moon in 1970 — was described Wednesday by a U. S. space agency engineer.

The rocket is called Nova — a three stage monster standing about 360 feet tall with its moonship payload, and 50 feet in diameter at its base.

So reported Alfred G. Orillion of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration before a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The first stage of Nova, carrying six million pounds of propellant and standing 115 feet high, will produce a thrust or push of more than 12 million pounds.

The second stage, also 115 feet high, would have a two-million-pound push. The third stage, standing 82 feet high, will have one or more one-million-pound thrust engines.

That's a total of some 15 million pounds of thrust — enough to carry three men in the Apollo space craft to the moon and back. It dwarfs the Atlas rocket used to boost John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit. The Atlas stands about one-fourth as high as Nova and develops only 360,000 pounds of thrust.

Development of the Nova rocket begins this year and should have its first test flight perhaps as early as 1966, said Orillion, of NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center.

Bob Kennedy To Testify In Court

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr., has issued an order for U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and three of his aides to answer questions to be put to them by an attorney for the prosegregation Citizens Council.

Dawkins issued the order Tuesday.

W. M. Shaw of Homer, attorney for the Ouachita Parish Citizens Council, said he would ask Kennedy the motive behind filing a civil rights suit against May Lucky, registrar of voters in the parish, and naming the Citizens Council and the state of Louisiana as defendants in the case.

The suit filed last June, Shaw said, alleged Mrs. Lucky discriminated against Negro voting applicants.

Others ordered to submit to depositions were Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general, and St. John Barrett and Frank Dumbaugh, attorneys in the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department.

Shaw said he wrote to the Justice Department in February and asked the officials to give him the depositions voluntarily, but was refused.

Dawkins told Shaw to make arrangements to take the depositions in Washington at a time convenient to all parties.

Judy Garland, Sid Luft Separate

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Judy Garland confirmed Wednesday a studio spokesman's announcement that she and her husband, Sid Luft, have separated again.

"It is true that my husband and I are living apart," the 38-year-old singer-actress' statement said. "I have retained (attorney) Grant Cooper to represent me."

"At the present time she is contemplating no legal action at all," the spokesman said after talking to Cooper. Tuesday night the spokesman had said she would seek a legal separation.

The studio spokesman said Miss Garland moved to a hotel last week. Luft, 45, couvd not be reached for comment.

Martin Get Big Weapons Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has obligated an additional $20,854,505 to the Martin Marietta Corp. of Baltimore for research and development of the Titan II weapons system.

Florida members of Congress were informed the new money made available raises the amount of the contract to $230,705,505. The work will be done at Baltimore, Denver and Cape Canaveral.

French Entertainer Held For Smuggling Dope Into New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Jacques Angelvin, 34, an entertainer on French television, was indicted with three other men Wednesday on charges of smuggling $3.3 million worth of heroin into this country.

Despite protests of his lawyer, Angelvin was held in $100,000 bail in Kings County Court. He was master of ceremonies on a popular French television show, "Paris Club."

Similar bail was set for three other defendants, Francois Scaglia, 47, of Paris, and Joseph Fuca, 60, and his son, Pasquale, 31, both of Brooklyn.

The state charged that the four men were members of a dope ring operating in France, Canada and the United States, with Lebanon as its source of supply.

Atomic Ship Arrives At Guantanamo

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—The U.S. Atomic-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise arrived here Wednesday from training exercises in the Caribbean and anchored in the bay off this U.S. base in eastern Cuba.

Along with the Enterprise were another carrier and two guided missile destroyers. Several other destroyers and a submarine were cruising in training operations off the mouth of the bay.

About 3,000 laborers and household servants still arrive from Cuba outside the base fence to work here each day and return at night. Their wages and American payments for water and electricity still result in about $6 million a year going to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The Cubans are taking precautions, however, to prevent any refugees from jumping the fence onto the American side.

The Cubans have started to grow a "cactus curtain" which later will become a thorny tangle. They also have cleared away brush and trees in a 100-yard belt back from the fence and built a parallel road, apparently to speed any movement of troops.

Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell, base commander, said Cuban workers who come in each day "are valuable and needed by us They are good workers."

Mrs. Gaillot Pushes Stand On Segregation

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A 41-year-old Catholic mother vowed Wednesday to accept excommunication rather than back down on her belief in racial segregation—unless the clergy shows her error in the Bible.

"If the Bible is not brought into the picture or discussed," said Evelyn Gaillot, "then I will have to bow down gracefully and accept excommunication rather than desert my belief in God."

She faces an interview—probably Thursday — with Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, the 85-year-old prelate whom she said threatened her with expulsion from her Church.

The threat, said the dark-haired mother of two children in Catholic schools, came in a letter she received late Saturday night.

The archbishop's chancery called the letter a "paternal admonition."

The letter, she said, contained accusations and statements which are not true.

"My statements (about segregation) and my defense has always been the Bible," she continued, "and while I am not revealing the contents of the letter, it contains no mention or accusation against the Bible."

"I will not waste their time or

Kennedy Plans Visit To Brazil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday he will go to Brazil this year to return the visit of Brazilian President Joao Goulart to the United States.

Kennedy, after completing two days of talks with Goulart, said he was "looking forward to visiting" the Brazilian sometime later this year. No date for the trip was mentioned. Kennedy also has a trip to Mexico set for the latter part of June.

The President described his conversations with Goulard as "most useful" and said the United States was delighted to welcome Goulart as the leader of a powerful nation not only in Latin America, but in the rest of the world.

Earlier, Goulart told a joint meeting of Congress that "peaceful coexistence" between the West and the Communist bloc would work to the advantage of the free world.

U.S. Missile Sites Report 492 Strikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has told Congress there have been 492 strikes at missile sites during the past five years, causing serious defense problems, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Previously - secret testimony released by the House defense appropriations subcommittee showed that in the 2½ months of 1962, there were 45 such strikes.

"The current rate on man-days (of work) lost is approximately 430 per cent of that experienced during the last eight months of 1961," defense officials said.

They said Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg has held meetings with contractors and union representatives "to stress the seriousness of the problem" but the strikes continue.

Officials told lawmakers the main trouble has been jurisdictional disputes between the building trades unions as to assignment of work. "Management practices and working conditions follow in order of importance," they said.

Kim Novak Flees From Hotel Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Kim Novak, wearing a sable coat over a nightgown, fled along with several hundred other guests Wednesday when a kitchen fire sent smoke swirling through the exclusive Plaza Hotel.

Two persons were treated for smoke poisoning, but no one suffered any other ill effects in the Fifth Avenue blaze.

Connie May Seek Job In Office

By ROBERT D. LEWIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Connie Nicholas walked through the gate at the Indiana Women's Prison Wednesday a free woman, and burst into tears as she did frequently during her trial for killing her millionaire lover.

Mrs. Nicholas, 47, had served the minimum two-year sentence on a manslaughter conviction for the fatal shooting of Forrest Teel, 54, vice president of Eli Lilly & Co. She said Teel spurned her for a younger woman after a 15-year illicit love affair.

With her head bowed, she walked briskly from her prison cottage to the gate. As she walked down a sidewalk to the administration building, tears filled her eyes.

Seeing newsmen she recognized from the trial, she raised her head for the only time, wiped away the tears and said: "It looks like old home week, doesn't it."

Those were the only words she spoke.

Mrs. Nicholas has said she hopes to return to work as a secretary, probably in Indianapolis, but indicated she is a little worried about publicity.

Kennedy Wants Stiff Tax On Pleasure Boats

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has proposed a stiff tax on pleasure boats and other new revenue measures to finance the purchase of land and water areas for public recreation.

Kennedy sent Congress a bill Wednesday to carry out his recommendation that the government create land conservation fund to expand existing recreational resources to meet present and future needs.

In an accompanying message, Kennedy noted that Americans have traditionally considered the outdoors as free.

"In fact, however, outdoor recreation programs have been supported through a combination of general revenues and special levies such as national park admissions, fishing and hunting stamps and licenses, and federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and sporting arms and ammunition," the President said.

"This bill broadens the application of established principles as a means of assuring continued outdoor recreation opportunities."

Kennedy had discussed methods of paying for additional land for outdoor recreation in his conservation message to Congress a month ago.

The revenue would amount to more than a billion dollars. Kennedy also proposed advance appropriations of up to $500 million to the fund over the next eight years to get the stipulated sources of revenue.

Burton Assures Wife Of Love And Devotion

LONDON (AP) — Friends said actor Richard Burton cabled his wife Wednesday assuring her of his love despite his public kissing with Elizabeth Taylor. He followed this up with a telephone call.

This cheered up the blonde, Sybil Burton, 32, who had been so upset by the news out of Rome that a doctor had to give her sedatives, the friends reported.

Another friend said Burton may fly home this weekend from Rome where he is playing Antony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra on movie location.

Molly Williams, wife of actor Emlyn Williams and a close friend of Mrs. Burton, told a reporter: "I am sure Sybil has made no plans at all to go to Rome. She only arrived here about 10 days ago with the two children and she wouldn't like to upset them by leaving again."

Williams himself, who is godfather to one of the Burton children, said he believed everything is fine between Burton and his wife.

Miss Taylor came under fire of the Italian press and Vatican radio for the breakup of her marriage with singer Eddie Fisher.

Without mentioning her name outright, a Vatican radio commentator condemned "caprices of adult children" which he described as "an insult to the nobility of the hearth which millions of married couples judge to be a beautiful and holy thing."

The Corriere della Sera of Milan suggested a 24-hour press moratorium on the subject in a feature article headed "Too Much Liz."

Eichmann's Wife Will Be Permitted To Pay Him Visit

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Premier David Ben-Gurion's government has decided to let Adolf Eichmann's wife come to Israel for a brief visit with her imprisoned husband, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

Mrs. Vera Eichmann will be permitted to visit Israel for 24 hours only after the supreme court hands down its decision on Eichmann's appeal against his sentence of death for the mass murder of Jews in World War II.

The former Nazi SS official has not seen his wife since he was captured by Israeli agents in his Buenos Aires home nearly two years ago and spirited to Israel to stand trial for the exterminations of 6 million Jews.

New York Times Earns Two Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Times Co. and its subsidiaries Wednesday reported 1961 net income of $2,212,709 compared with $1,652,392 a year earlier.

Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher, said in the report that "readers spent over $40 million in 1961 to buy the Times. Of this amount the Times received $24 million, the balance going to wholesale distributors, newsdealers and home delivery carriers."

U.S. Proposes Study To Eliminate Nuclear Warheads

By TOM OCHILTREE

GENEVA (AP) — The United States urged the general disarmament conference Wednesday to start an immediate search for ways to eliminate safely the world's nuclear warheads and other weapons of mass destruction.

An experts' group should be organized at once to seek methods of halting the production of nuclear material for war purposes and the conversion of existing stockpiles to peaceful uses, the U.S. delegation said.

As part of this sweeping program, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean introduced a partial draft treaty looking toward complete disarmament. This would be carried out by safeguarded phases to protect the security of all nations.

Each arms cut step would be balanced, the document specified, so that at no stage could any state or group of states gain a military advantage.

Dean also directed a firm appeal to the Soviet Union to accept a nuclear test ban treaty with adequate international controls. The Soviets gave him a negative answer and accused the Americans of wanting to spy out military targets.

Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin clashed over which of their countries was responsible for the four-year failure to write a nuclear test ban treaty.

Dean charged the Soviet Union showed bad faith by conducting nuclear tests last autumn after long preparations undertaken while three-power negotiations were in progress.

The United States, Dean said, was astonished by this development, as was much of the rest of the world.

So great was the surprise, he explained, that it has taken scientists half a year to prepare for a possible series of American atmospheric tests.

Those nuclear blasts are due to be touched off in mid-Pacific later this month unless the Soviets accept a treaty in the meantime. Zorin declared the Soviet government will never agree to an international control system to police a test ban. He said if the Americans test, the Russians will fire off another series of their own.

After the three-hour conference session, Dean and Zorin met with about 100 women from 10 countries who demanded that there be no more nuclear tests and that the American and Soviet governments show more flexibility and agree to a general disarmament treaty.

Despite protests of his lawyer, Angelvin was held in $100,000 bail in Kings County Court. He was master of ceremonies on a popular French television show, "Paris Club."

Similar bail was set for three other defendants, Francois Scaglia, 47, of Paris, and Joseph Fuca, 60, and his son, Pasquale, 31, both of Brooklyn.

The state charged that the four men were members of a dope ring operating in France, Canada and the United States, with Lebanon as its source of supply.

Atomic Ship Arrives At Guantanamo

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—The U.S. Atomic-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise arrived here Wednesday from training exercises in the Caribbean and anchored in the bay off this U.S. base in eastern Cuba.

Along with the Enterprise were another carrier and two guided missile destroyers. Several other destroyers and a submarine were cruising in training operations off the mouth of the bay.

About 3,000 laborers and household servants still arrive from Cuba outside the base fence to work here each day and return at night. Their wages and American payments for water and electricity still result in about $6 million a year going to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The Cubans are taking precautions, however, to prevent any refugees from jumping the fence onto the American side.

The Cubans have started to grow a "cactus curtain" which later will become a thorny tangle. They also have cleared away brush and trees in a 100-yard belt back from the fence and built a parallel road, apparently to speed any movement of troops.

Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell, base commander, said Cuban workers who come in each day "are valuable and needed by us They are good workers."

Mrs. Gaillot Pushes Stand On Segregation

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A 41-year-old Catholic mother vowed Wednesday to accept excommunication rather than back down on her belief in racial segregation—unless the clergy shows her error in the Bible.

"If the Bible is not brought into the picture or discussed," said Evelyn Gaillot, "then I will have to bow down gracefully and accept excommunication rather than desert my belief in God."

She faces an interview—probably Thursday — with Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, the 85-year-old prelate whom she said threatened her with expulsion from her Church.

The threat, said the dark-haired mother of two children in Catholic schools, came in a letter she received late Saturday night.

The archbishop's chancery called the letter a "paternal admonition."

The letter, she said, contained accusations and statements which are not true.

"My statements (about segregation) and my defense has always been the Bible," she continued, "and while I am not revealing the contents of the letter, it contains no mention or accusation against the Bible."

"I will not waste their time or

Kennedy Plans Visit To Brazil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday he will go to Brazil this year to return the visit of Brazilian President Joao Goulart to the United States.

Kennedy, after completing two days of talks with Goulart, said he was "looking forward to visiting" the Brazilian sometime later this year. No date for the trip was mentioned. Kennedy also has a trip to Mexico set for the latter part of June.

The President described his conversations with Goulard as "most useful" and said the United States was delighted to welcome Goulart as the leader of a powerful nation not only in Latin America, but in the rest of the world.

Earlier, Goulart told a joint meeting of Congress that "peaceful coexistence" between the West and the Communist bloc would work to the advantage of the free world.

U.S. Missile Sites Report 492 Strikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has told Congress there have been 492 strikes at missile sites during the past five years, causing serious defense problems, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Previously secret testimony released by the House defense appropriations subcommittee showed that in the 2½ months of 1962, there were 45 such strikes.

"The current rate on man-days (of work) lost is approximately 430 per cent of that experienced during the last eight months of 1961," defense officials said.

They said Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg has held meetings with contractors and union representatives "to stress the seriousness of the problem" but the strikes continue.

Officials told lawmakers the main trouble has been jurisdictional disputes between the building trades unions as to assignment of work. "Management practices and working conditions follow in order of importance," they said.

Kim Novak Flees From Hotel Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Kim Novak, wearing a sable coat over a nightgown, fled along with several hundred other guests Wednesday when a kitchen fire sent smoke swirling through the exclusive Plaza Hotel.

Two persons were treated for smoke poisoning, but no one suffered any other ill effects in the Fifth Avenue blaze.

Connie May Seek Job In Office

By ROBERT D. LEWIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Connie Nicholas walked through the gate at the Indiana Women's Prison Wednesday a free woman, and burst into tears as she did frequently during her trial for killing her millionaire lover.

Mrs. Nicholas, 47, had served the minimum two-year sentence on a manslaughter conviction for the fatal shooting of Forrest Teel, 54, vice president of Eli Lilly & Co. She said Teel spurned her for a younger woman after a 15-year illicit love affair.

With her head bowed, she walked briskly from her prison cottage to the gate. As she walked down a sidewalk to the administration building, tears filled her eyes.

Seeing newsmen she recognized from the trial, she raised her head for the only time, wiped away the tears and said: "It looks like old home week, doesn't it."

Those were the only words she spoke.

Mrs. Nicholas has said she hopes to return to work as a secretary, probably in Indianapolis, but indicated she is a little worried about publicity.

Kennedy Wants Stiff Tax On Pleasure Boats

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has proposed a stiff tax on pleasure boats and other new revenue measures to finance the purchase of land and water areas for public recreation.

Kennedy sent Congress a bill Wednesday to carry out his recommendation that the government create land conservation fund to expand existing recreational resources to meet present and future needs.

In an accompanying message, Kennedy noted that Americans have traditionally considered the outdoors as free.

"In fact, however, outdoor recreation programs have been supported through a combination of general revenues and special levies such as national park admissions, fishing and hunting stamps and licenses, and federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and sporting arms and ammunition," the President said.

"This bill broadens the application of established principles as a means of assuring continued outdoor recreation opportunities."

Kennedy had discussed methods of paying for additional land for outdoor recreation in his conservation message to Congress a month ago.

The revenue would amount to more than a billion dollars. Kennedy also proposed advance appropriations of up to $500 million to the fund over the next eight years to get the stipulated sources of revenue.

Burton Assures Wife Of Love And Devotion

LONDON (AP) — Friends said actor Richard Burton cabled his wife Wednesday assuring her of his love despite his public kissing with Elizabeth Taylor. He followed this up with a telephone call.

This cheered up the blonde, Sybil Burton, 32, who had been so upset by the news out of Rome that a doctor had to give her sedatives, the friends reported.

Another friend said Burton may fly home this weekend from Rome where he is playing Antony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra on movie location.

Molly Williams, wife of actor Emlyn Williams and a close friend of Mrs. Burton, told a reporter: "I am sure Sybil has made no plans at all to go to Rome. She only arrived here about 10 days ago with the two children and she wouldn't like to upset them by leaving again."

Williams himself, who is godfather to one of the Burton children, said he believed everything is fine between Burton and his wife.

Miss Taylor came under fire of the Italian press and Vatican radio for the breakup of her marriage with singer Eddie Fisher.

Without mentioning her name outright, a Vatican radio commentator condemned "caprices of adult children" which he described as "an insult to the nobility of the hearth which millions of married couples judge to be a beautiful and holy thing."

The Corriere della Sera of Milan suggested a 24-hour press moratorium on the subject in a feature article headed "Too Much Liz."

Eichmann's Wife Will Be Permitted To Pay Him Visit

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Premier David Ben-Gurion's government has decided to let Adolf Eichmann's wife come to Israel for a brief visit with her imprisoned husband, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

Mrs. Vera Eichmann will be permitted to visit Israel for 24 hours only after the supreme court hands down its decision on Eichmann's appeal against his sentence of death for the mass murder of Jews in World War II.

The former Nazi SS official has not seen his wife since he was captured by Israeli agents in his Buenos Aires home nearly two years ago and spirited to Israel to stand trial for the exterminations of 6 million Jews.

New York Times Earns Two Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Times Co. and its subsidiaries Wednesday reported 1961 net income of $2,212,709 compared with $1,652,392 a year earlier.

Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher, said in the report that "readers spent over $40 million in 1961 to buy the Times. Of this amount the Times received $24 million, the balance going to wholesale distributors, newsdealers and home delivery carriers."

U.S. Proposes Study To Eliminate Nuclear Warheads

By TOM OCHILTREE

GENEVA (AP) — The United States urged the general disarmament conference Wednesday to start an immediate search for ways to eliminate safely the world's nuclear warheads and other weapons of mass destruction.

An experts' group should be organized at once to seek methods of halting the production of nuclear material for war purposes and the conversion of existing stockpiles to peaceful uses, the U.S. delegation said.

As part of this sweeping program, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean introduced a partial draft treaty looking toward complete disarmament. This would be carried out by safeguarded phases to protect the security of all nations.

Each arms cut step would be balanced, the document specified, so that at no stage could any state or group of states gain a military advantage.

Dean also directed a firm appeal to the Soviet Union to accept a nuclear test ban treaty with adequate international controls. The Soviets gave him a negative answer and accused the Americans of wanting to spy out military targets.

Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin clashed over which of their countries was responsible for the four-year failure to write a nuclear test ban treaty.

Dean charged the Soviet Union showed bad faith by conducting nuclear tests last autumn after long preparations undertaken while three-power negotiations were in progress.

The United States, Dean said, was astonished by this development, as was much of the rest of the world.

So great was the surprise, he explained, that it has taken scientists half a year to prepare for a possible series of American atmospheric tests.

Those nuclear blasts are due to be touched off in mid-Pacific later this month unless the Soviets accept a treaty in the meantime.

Zorin declared the Soviet government will never agree to an international control system to police a test ban. He said if the Americans test, the Russians will fire off another series of their own.

After the three-hour conference session, Dean and Zorin met with about 100 women from 10 countries who demanded that there be no more nuclear tests and that the American and Soviet governments show more flexibility and agree to a general disarmament treaty.

Two Bad Fires Hit Baltimore Business Area

Three Firemen Slightly Hurt

BALTIMORE (AP) — Separate fires early Wednesday morning destroyed the top two stories of Dickman's Restaurant and burned out a warehouse in midtown Baltimore.

Mrs. Beatrice Dickman, owner of the restaurant, estimated damage at $150,000 in the four-alarm blaze. No estimate of damage was given in the warehouse fire. The building is owned by Western Maryland Railway and leased to a grain and feed supply business. Six alarms sent 33 pieces of equipment and 200 firemen to the burning structure.

Later in the day three firemen engaged in clean-up work at the scene of the warehouse fire injured slightly when a 25-foot section of roof cornice crashed down on them. They were taken to Mercy Hospital.

Officials speculated that spontaneous combustion of grain or an electrical defect might have started the warehouse fire. They said they did not know the cause of the restaurant blaze.

The restaurant fire for a time threatened the neighboring Lyric Theater, Baltimore's opera house. Some smoke seeped into the building but the theatre manager said the symphony would go on Wednesday night as scheduled.

General Says

He started off by saying the Communists aim to infiltrate and undermine the U.S. armed forces. Then he said that segments of the "ultraliberal press" are attacking the Birch society.

This attack is merely a diversionary one, he said, a "propaganda front" to cover up the real intent—to weaken the armed services.

He said "they didn't dare to attack the military services" directly.

In a discussion of communism, Walker said, "We are curious about Mr. Adam Yarmolinsky," an aide to Secretary of Defense McNamara. He said that if he were McNamara he would fire Yarmolinsky.

He denied once calling former President Harry S. Truman and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson pinks, but acknowledged he had applied that description to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

State Court Of Appeals Faces Heavy Case Load

ANNAPOLIS (AP) —Maryland's Court of Appeals, working under its heaviest case load in history, may be headed for an even bigger one next term.

J. Lloyd Young, clerk of the court, said Wednesday that 38 cases have already been docketed for the term which will begin next September.

They were entered since March 1 and total 10 more than for the same period last year.

At the current term, for which the docket closed Feb. 28, the high court is hearing appeals and making decision on 356 cases appealed from lower courts. The load is a six per cent increase over the previous term.

Young said criminal cases seem to be on the increase along with civil suits as the state's population mushrooms.

Ninety-seven of the cases being heard at this term involve appeals from the criminal courts and include a record of 13 which carry death penalities. The total for previous years has been 4 to 6 cases carrying the extreme penalty.

Seven of the capital punishment cases were rape convictions and the other six were for first degree muder.

The high court, which cannot alter a death sentence but affirms or reverses the conviction of the person concerned on the basis of evidence or trial procedures, has already disposed of nine of the capital cases. It affirmed eight and reversed one for a new trial.

Still to be heard at the current term, which ends this summer, are three capital cases involving rape and one involving muder.

Young said that of the criminal cases, 85 per cent were filed on behalf of indigent persons, with the state paying all the costs. Last year these costs totaled $48,979 for 82 appeals.

5 Crewmen Hurt As Trains Collide

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Five train crewmen were injured on Wednesday in a violent collision of two Pennsylvania Railroad diesel engines near Harmarville, about 10 miles northeast of here along the Allegheny river.

Fifteen cars were derailed and two engines of each of the three-unit diesels which were towing a total of 145 freight cars. Two of the cars were submerged in a coal company canal and one overturned on Route 28, blocking one lane of the busy highway between Pittsburgh and New Kensington.

Track speed at the wreck site was 30 miles per hour, the PRR said.

The announcement report will avoid using the word "eliminate" in referring to the eight divisions, but Army officials acknowledged that this is what will happen.

Court Rules On Question By Candidates

Legal To File For Two Offices

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel County Circuit Court ruled Wednesday that three Republican candidates can seek nomination to both a party office and a public office in the May 15 primary election.

Chief Judge Matthew S. Evans directed that a writ of mandamus be prepared ordering the board of supervisors of elections to include the candidates on the ballot.

The board had previously refused to do so on grounds they violated a 1957 state law providing that no person shall be a candidate for "more than one office."

In arguments before Judge Evans Tuesday, the candidates relied chiefly in an opinion by the attorney general in 1958 that the law was intended only to bar running for two public offices and not a party office and a public office.

AEC Sets Aside Huge Area For Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission set aside Wednesday a huge testing area in the Pacific Ocean in case the United States decides to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The commission said establishment of the 600-mile wide, 800-mile long area surrounding Christmas Island will become effective April 15 "in preparation for such actual tests as may be ordered later in the month."

"The establishment of the area," the AEC announcement said, "is part of the preparations for testing which are going forward. A preparatory measure which the United States has always considered essential for the public safety in any test series is public warning several weeks in advance to mariners, aviators, and others who might be in or plan to use the testing area.

"The purpose is to assure that every person, even in remote places with infrequent communications, is warned well in advance of the proposed tests to remain clear of the area."

The AEC said official notices to mariners and aviators are being issues through normal operational channels.

Sixteenth Victim Of Tornado Found

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—The body of the 16th victim of last Saturday's tornado was recovered Wednesday.

The body was that of a 70-year-old Milton Negro, Solomon McLean. An extensive search had been under way for him since shortly after the storm struck this northwest Florida town of 10,000.

Sheriff Wade Cobb said the body was found amid wreckage in a wooded area about 100 yards from where McLean was last seen.

County Civil Defense Director Ben Henry Pooley estimated damage at about $1.85 million.

mine," she said of the interview she requested, adding she had no idea who would be present with the archbishop.

"I only pray that God gives me the grace not to weaken where His word is concerned, nor shall I compromise," she said.

"But if they can show me from the Bible where I am wrong, then as I said before, I will get down on my knees before Archbishop Rummel and beg his forgiveness," she added.

The chancery said she would be allowed to take two witnesses into audience, as she requested, but they must have chancery approval. Church authorities refused her request that two members of the press accompany her, she said.

Mrs. Gaillot heads a segregation group — Save Our Nation — and picketed the archbishop's residence last week, only hours before he ordered an end to segregation in parochila schools next fall.

Meanwhile, state leaders slapped at U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright's ruling Tuesday ordering desegregation of new Orleans schools through the sixth grade and outlawing application of Louisiana's pupil placement act in New Orleans.

Wright's decision agreed with 102 Negroes who told the court the New Orleans School Board was not complying with an original order several years ago that schools desegregate "with all deliberate speed."

State Rep. John Garrett branded Wright's ruling as a "cowardly act for a man who is leaving the state of Louisiana to hand down such a decision, leaving it up to someone else to enforce it."

Garrett is chairman of the Louisiana legislative committee on segregation, created to preserve segregation practices and customs.

Elkton Wants State To Build By-Pass Around Town

BALTIMORE (AP)—Elkton and Cecil County officials asked the State Roads Commission Wednesday to make a traffic and engineering study on the possibility of building an Elkton by-pass or beltway.

"We feel that when the Northeastern Expressway is completed, the volume of traffic leaving the expressway at (Maryland) 279 makes it imperative there be some kind of by-pass," said Elkton City Attorney Ralph Crothers. The expressway is to be completed by November, 1963.

Thomas N. Kay, a member of the SRC from North East, said the beltway is needed to move traffic from the expressway to U.S. 213 down the Eastern Shore.

"I believe it's necessary we get into it as quickly as possible to keep traffic out of the town of Elkton," Kay said. "There's more traffic there now than it can handle."

SRC Director John B. Funk said the commission would be glad to work with Cecil County and Elkton on the problem. He said the 1962 General Assembly directed that the SRC analyze needs for municipal-county and state-secdary highways every four years and report to the legislature with financing recommendations. Work already has begun on the job for the 1963 session, he said.

"We feel that all the communities along the Northeastern Expressway will receive a growth impetus," Funk said. "Unless it is a controlled sort of thing you may find yourself with a town you don't like five years from now, 10 years from now."

Funk also said the word "by-pass' is becoming obsolete, noting that the by-pass planned for Frederick, for example, became a thruway instead.

mine," she said of the interview she requested, adding she had no idea who would be present with the archbishop.

"I only pray that God gives me the grace not to weaken where His word is concerned, nor shall I compromise," she said.

"But if they can show me from the Bible where I am wrong, then as I said before, I will get down on my knees before Archbishop Rummel and beg his forgiveness," she added.

The chancery said she would be allowed to take two witnesses into audience, as she requested, but they must have chancery approval. Church authorities refused her request that two members of the press accompany her, she said.

Mrs. Gaillot heads a segregation group — Save Our Nation — and picketed the archbishop's residence last week, only hours before he ordered an end to segregation in parochila schools next fall.

Meanwhile, state leaders slapped at U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright's ruling Tuesday ordering desegregation of new Orleans schools through the sixth grade and outlawing application of Louisiana's pupil placement act in New Orleans.

Wright's decision agreed with 102 Negroes who told the court the New Orleans School Board was not complying with an original order several years ago that schools desegregate "with all deliberate speed."

State Rep. John Garrett branded Wright's ruling as a "cowardly act for a man who is leaving the state of Louisiana to hand down such a decision, leaving it up to someone else to enforce it."

Garrett is chairman of the Louisiana legislative committee on segregation, created to preserve segregation practices and customs.

Elkton Wants State To Build By-Pass Around Town

BALTIMORE (AP)—Elkton and Cecil County officials asked the State Roads Commission Wednesday to make a traffic and engineering study on the possibility of building an Elkton by-pass or beltway.

"We feel that when the Northeastern Expressway is completed, the volume of traffic leaving the expressway at (Maryland) 279 makes it imperative there be some kind of by-pass," said Elkton City Attorney Ralph Crothers. The expressway is to be completed by November, 1963.

Thomas N. Kay, a member of the SRC from North East, said the beltway is needed to move traffic from the expressway to U.S. 213 down the Eastern Shore.

"I believe it's necessary we get into it as quickly as possible to keep traffic out of the town of Elkton," Kay said. "There's more traffic there now than it can handle."

SRC Director John B. Funk said the commission would be glad to work with Cecil County and Elkton on the problem. He said the 1962 General Assembly directed that the SRC analyze needs for municipal-county and state-secdary highways every four years and report to the legislature with financing recommendations. Work already has begun on the job for the 1963 session, he said.

"We feel that all the communities along the Northeastern Expressway will receive a growth impetus," Funk said. "Unless it is a controlled sort of thing you may find yourself with a town you don't like five years from now, 10 years from now."

Funk also said the word "by-pass' is becoming obsolete, noting that the by-pass planned for Frederick, for example, became a thruway instead.

Fashion Designers Criticize First Lady But Believe Her Sister Most Elegant

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three well-known fashion designers who met here to discuss what makes a best - dressed woman decided that, whatever it is Jacqueline Kennedy doesn't have it.

The First Lady, who has twice led the world's best-dressed lists, could learn a lot about being truly elegant from her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, John Moore told women attending the third annual Fashion Forum.

The forum was sponsored by the Philadelphia Museum College of Art.

"Princess Radziwill is always immaculate. She frequents French dress houses and her clothes are well-lined. They hang beautifully," Moore said. "Her hair is flatteringly styled for her face and her shoes suit her legs."

But about Mrs. Kennedy, Moore said: "Her clothes are ill-fitted. In photographs I have seen, they are pulled and twisted, which would not happen if they fitted her figure properly. Her skirts are much too short, her feet are too big for that type of shoe, and she has a big face, far too much hair."

Clare Potter, a veteran fashion designer, added, "I agree."

Kenneth Lane, shoe designer for Christian Dior, conceded that the First Lady has done a great deal for fashion and, indeed, he thought she dressed well But he believed she should forget some of her own style preferences such as short skirts and bow to public preferences while she is the President's wife.

"Princess Margaret is much better dressed for her position," he said.

The lone dissenter on the four-member panel was Tina Leser. "I don't think our First Lady should be criticized," she said.

State Negro Family House Is Target Of Rocks, Oil

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — The house into which a Negro family moved last Thursday has been the target of rocks and an arrow, Anne Arundel County police reported Wednesday.

The Negro family is the first in the development of 500 homes known as Sun Valley located off the Baltimore-Annapolis boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wallace, their three children and Wallace's sister are living in the house. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace work at Fort Meade.

Alice Johnson, Wallace's sister, said that Sunday "someone threw a stone through the picture window in the living room.

"Then on Monday, we were watching television when an arrow came whizzing through the cardboard covering the broken window."

And Tuesday night, she said another stone was thrown and a milk bottle filled with oil splattered over the front porch.

Police said that Wallace hid in his automobile in the driveway with a loaded shot gun Monday and Tuesday nights. They said when objects were thrown at the house, he fired into the air, but did not see anyone.

To speed the basting-thread pulling operation, wrap cellophane tape around your finger, sticky side out. Use it to pick the threads from the garments.

Gen. Van Fleet Accepts Position

NEW YORK (UPI) — Retired Army General James A. Van Fleet has been named a director of Central Foundry Co., it was announced Wednesday.

Gen. Van Fleet commanded the United States Eighth Army during the Korean War period. Central Foundry is one of the nation's large producers of cast iron soil pipe.

Czech Tomb Closed

VIENNA (UPI) — Czech newspapers received here Wednesday said that former Czech President Klement Gottwald's tomb had been closed to the public for an indefinite period. The tomb had become a symbol for the Stalinist "personality cult" in Czechoslovakia.

Maryland Physicians Favor Integration Of State Health Staffs

BALTIMORE (AP) — A resolution asking racial integration in the staffs of Maryland health facilities was introduced Wednesday at the 164th annual meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty.

The resolution defines integration in health facility staffing as "equal opportunities regarding admission to medical schools and equal opportunity in the availability of internships, residencies and hospital staff appointments."

It was submitted by doctors Bernard Harris Jr. and Emerson C. Walden, both of Baltimore. Action is expected at a House of Delegates meeting Friday.

The resolution stated that "the practice of full racial integration in the staffing of Armed Forces, Public Health Service and Veterans Administration health facilities has proven favorable to the development of professional skills and the full exchange of medical knowledge."

It also stated that racial integration contribues to the "efficient and economic operation of these community services."

The Faculty itself has been integrated for approximately 20 years.

Another resolution recommends periodic re-examination of licensed motor vehicle operators. Sponsors of the measure believe there are many persons licensed to drive who are not physical, mentally or emotionally able to do so.

The four-day convention is being held at the Alcazar. The discussion topic at the first scientific session was "Progress in Gynecology," presented Dr. Joe V. Miggs of the Harvard Medical School.

Maryland News In Brief

By The Associated Press

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — C. Neill Baylor, general manager of the Hagerstown Daily Mail and Morning Herald since 1945, will become a special consultant to the two newspapers after supervising publication of a special edition this summer.

An announcement Tuesday by Franklin D. Schurz Sr., president of the newspapers, said William Preston Lane Jr., publisher and a former governor of Maryland, will become chairman of the board. Franklin D. Schurz Jr. will become publisher.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland and the Martin Co.'s Research Institute for Advanced Study will begin joint publication of a series of books on mathematics next winter.

The series, entitled "Contributions to Differential Equations," will contain original and expository papers on differential equations in English, French, German, Italian or Spanish. It will be published in soft-cover journal form, then in hard cover, by Interscience Publishers.

MANILA (AP) — A former Silver Spring, Md., woman and her husband are going to teach English in the Philippines with the Peace Corps.

Mrs. Anne I. Wilson, 23, and her husband, Thomas, 24, will help Filipino teachers teach English after a month of orientation. They were among 41 Peace Corps volunteers arriving in the Philippines last week.

First Born Favored

LONDON (UPI)—A survey of 7,000 children made by London University students has concluded that the first born, whether boy or girl, tends to be the most clever and successful child in a family.

Brothers Again Identical Twins

DENVER (UPI) — Two 30-year-old brothers were once again identical twins Tuesday — each had only one kidney.

One twin recently volunteered to have one of his kidneys removed by surgery and transplanted to his brother to replace a diseased kidney.

Monday, surgeons removed the other kidney from the afflicted brother to keep the newly transplanted one from becoming diseased.

A surgeon said both brothers, about 30 and Korean War veterans, should be able to live normal lives with one kidney each. Their names were withheld at their request.

Methodists Continue To Be Most Singing Protestants

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Methodism is a singing religion.

John Wesley, founder of what has become the largest single Protestant body in the United States, issued no fewer than 56 song tracts and hymn books in his day.

American Methodist bodies have issued nearly 30 books containing hundreds of hymns.

But there is a need for still another hymnal, and so a Methodist committee of 29 experts is putting one together.

The first new Methodist hymnal since 1935 will be a long time yet in the making. Work on it [illegible] in 1960, and the finished product will not be in the hands of [illegible] goers until at least 1965 or 1966, for it is a gigantic task to put a new hymnal together.

Nine other denominations have issued new song books since World War II. These and 51 other volumes are under study by the Methodist Committee.

Expect Rough Draft

The Methodist committee is scheduled to have a draft completed in time for the 1964 general conference of the Methodist church. At that time, Methodist leaders will study the contents and make revisions. It will be another year or two before the hymnal rolls off the presses.

Experts on the subject always are careful to point out that the hymn is the verse that is sung. The music is called the hymn tune. Some hymns are passages from the scriptures, others poems written by religiously inspired persons.

Polls Ministers

At the outset of its project, the committee conducted a poll of Methodist ministers and members to find out what they wanted in the new hymnal. The results showed that many persons were dissatisfied with the present book because it contained too many unfamiliar hymns and tunes. Sixty-two per cent wanted the so-called gospel hymns retained. These include such hymns as "The Old Rugged Cross," which have been dropped from some recent hymnals published by other denominations.

Man Sentenced In Assault Case

An Oldtown area man was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction Tuesday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt sentenced the man, Harry V. Long, about 40, of RD 1, Oldtown, after finding him guilty of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Mary L. Long, on Saturday, March 31.

Long entered a plea of guilty to the charge. He was taken into custody by Tfc. Joseph Helmstetter of the Maryland State Police.

World's Biggest Ear Picks Up Whisper Six Miles Away In Test For Global TV

ANDOVER, Maine (AP) — The biggest ear in the world successfully picked up a whisper six miles away Tuesday in a major step toward worldwide television satellite communication.

Bell Telephone scientists in this remote western Maine village bounced a signal off a target "satellite" on Black Mountain. Then a 340-ton, horn-shaped antenna caught the echo, built up a million times in intensity.

When a Telstar satellite is launched from Cape Canaveral late in May, the same giant ear will catch shortwave signals from space picked up and relayed by the artificial moon.

Scientists here said it would only be a short step further to bounce signals to Europe and open the door to global television.

Nearly $15 million worth of complex electronic equipment has been concentrated atop a small hill here ringed by mountains.

The huge antenna or ear—it can either receive or send out signals—is housed in the biggest inflated structure in the world, a 15-story high bubble of plastic and fabric.

Engineers picked this village because it is far from most of the electronic distractions of civilization.

Shortwave signals travel best in straight lines, so satellites give promise as the best means of spanning the oceans of the world to make global television a reality.

The first European station expected to relay signals from Andover via a satellite is now nearing completion in Cornwall, England. The British Broadcasting Company will then relay the signals to millions of homes throughout the continent.

Young Inventor Waging War On Bum Checks

By KENNETH INOUYE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 25-year-old business school graduate stands today as one of the foremost fighters against an epidemic that annually costs U.S. businessmen an estimated $1 billion and possibly more.

Some 70-80,000 persons in Los Angeles County alone are afflicted—either deliberately or negligently.

The ailment: bum check writing.

Ronald Katz, youthful co-founder and vice president of Telecredit Ind., became interested in the problem while he was an assistant to the dean of students at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Katz parlayed his idea and $400 with Robert Goldman, a 35-year-old engineer, and International Business Machines to come up with his electronic check approval service—a reality to him and a nightmare to would-be bad check passers.

Today Telecredit Inc., operates out of a new building with $500,000 worth of computers and electronic equipment, a staff of 28, and 400 clients in Southern California.

What appears to be the key to the company's success is that it can virtually wipe out bad check losses for merchants within seconds by either validating or rejecting the check passer's credit.

It works on the principle that driver's licenses are the most widely accepted identification for persons paying by check.

The procedure begins at the checkstand or cash register. When the customer presents a check, the clerk then calls Telecredit for clearance. Within four seconds, Katz said, special memory discs in computers analyze the customer's driver's license and past check record. If negative, a check is made to see if the customer is wanted by the police.

The impact of the electronic check approval system, which the company has a patent pending, is keenly felt in the food industry, where for each rubber check passed the market must take in 130 times the bad check amount in good business to erase the loss, Katz said. For example, a bad $100 check requires $13,000 in sales to make up the loss.

Since November of last year, Katz said, 40 passers have been arrested and six convicted through the computer.

Siegfried Line Remains Nazi Pile Of Junk

By JOHN A. CALCOTT

BONN (UPI) — Adolf Hitler's vaunted Siegfried Line now is nothing but a troublesome mess of derelict ruins mostly overgrown with grass and trees.

The 500-mile long line of reinforced concrete bunkers and man-high tank traps cost millions to build and today is costing millions to demolish.

It was a complete waste of money, anyway, because American troops advancing into Germany in 1945 just went around the West wall, as the Germans called it.

The Siegfried Line begins near Aachen on Germany's border with Belgium and Holland and runs all the way along the French border to Switzerland.

Its destruction began immediately after the war but still is far from complete. Some 300 above-ground and underground bunkers have been blown up, with 200 more to go. It costs between 10,000 and 30,000 marks ($2,500 to $7,500) to destroy one bunker, government officials said.

Blowing up bunkers is only half the problem. Between each of them run 20-yard wide strips of "dragon's teeth" tank traps, all firmly entranched in the ground.

Each concrete fang takes time to demolish. The massive chunks of broken concrete then must be removed or broken into smaller pieces for road building.

Adding to the present-day cost of demolishing the Siegfried Line are demands for damages from hundreds of farmers through whose land the fortification runs.

One farmer in Wahlheim, on the Belgian border, has a permanent wartime souvenir in his back garden. A six-lane row of tank traps runs right behind his house, the nearest just a few feet from the back door. If the traps were blown up, the farmhouse also would be demolished.

Daniel Beard organized the Sons of Dan'l Boone, which later became known as the Boy Scouts of America.

World's Biggest Ear Picks Up Whisper Six Miles Away In Test For Global TV

ANDOVER, Maine (AP) — The biggest ear in the world successfully picked up a whisper six miles away Tuesday in a major step toward worldwide television satellite communication.

Bell Telephone scientists in this remote western Maine village bounced a signal off a target "satellite" on Black Mountain. Then a 340-ton, horn-shaped antenna caught the echo, built up a million times in intensity.

When a Telstar satellite is launched from Cape Canaveral late in May, the same giant ear will catch shortwave signals from space picked up and relayed by the artificial moon.

Scientists here said it would only be a short step further to bounce signals to Europe and open the door to global television.

Nearly $15 million worth of complex electronic equipment has been concentrated atop a small hill here ringed by mountains.

The huge antenna or ear—it can either receive or send out signals—is housed in the biggest inflated structure in the world, a 15-story high bubble of plastic and fabric.

Engineers picked this village because it is far from most of the electronic distractions of civilization.

Shortwave signals travel best in straight lines, so satellites give promise as the best means of spanning the oceans of the world to make global television a reality.

The first European station expected to relay signals from Andover via a satellite is now nearing completion in Cornwall, England. The British Broadcasting Company will then relay the signals to millions of homes throughout the continent.

Young Inventor Waging War On Bum Checks

By KENNETH INOUYE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 25-year-old business school graduate stands today as one of the foremost fighters against an epidemic that annually costs U.S. businessmen an estimated $1 billion and possibly more.

Some 70-80,000 persons in Los Angeles County alone are afflicted—either deliberately or negligently.

The ailment: bum check writing.

Ronald Katz, youthful co-founder and vice president of Telecredit Ind., became interested in the problem while he was an assistant to the dean of students at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Katz parlayed his idea and $400 with Robert Goldman, a 35-year-old engineer, and International Business Machines to come up with his electronic check approval service—a reality to him and a nightmare to would-be bad check passers.

Today Telecredit Inc., operates out of a new building with $500,000 worth of computers and electronic equipment, a staff of 28, and 400 clients in Southern California.

What appears to be the key to the company's success is that it can virtually wipe out bad check losses for merchants within seconds by either validating or rejecting the check passer's credit.

It works on the principle that driver's licenses are the most widely accepted identification for persons paying by check.

The procedure begins at the checkstand or cash register. When the customer presents a check, the clerk then calls Telecredit for clearance. Within four seconds, Katz said, special memory discs in computers analyze the customer's driver's license and past check record. If negative, a check is made to see if the customer is wanted by the police.

The impact of the electronic check approval system, which the company has a patent pending, is keenly felt in the food industry, where for each rubber check passed the market must take in 130 times the bad check amount in good business to erase the loss, Katz said. For example, a bad $100 check requires $13,000 in sales to make up the loss.

Since November of last year, Katz said, 40 passers have been arrested and six convicted through the computer.

Siegfried Line Remains Nazi Pile Of Junk

By JOHN A. CALCOTT

BONN (UPI) — Adolf Hitler's vaunted Siegfried Line now is nothing but a troublesome mess of derelict ruins mostly overgrown with grass and trees.

The 500-mile long line of reinforced concrete bunkers and man-high tank traps cost millions to build and today is costing millions to demolish.

It was a complete waste of money, anyway, because American troops advancing into Germany in 1945 just went around the West wall, as the Germans called it.

The Siegfried Line begins near Aachen on Germany's border with Belgium and Holland and runs all the way along the French border to Switzerland.

Its destruction began immediately after the war but still is far from complete. Some 300 above-ground and underground bunkers have been blown up, with 200 more to go. It costs between 10,000 and 30,000 marks ($2,500 to $7,500) to destroy one bunker, government officials said.

Blowing up bunkers is only half the problem. Between each of them run 20-yard wide strips of "dragon's teeth" tank traps, all firmly entranched in the ground.

Each concrete fang takes time to demolish. The massive chunks of broken concrete then must be removed or broken into smaller pieces for road building.

Adding to the present-day cost of demolishing the Siegfried Line are demands for damages from hundreds of farmers through whose land the fortification runs.

One farmer in Wahlheim, on the Belgian border, has a permanent wartime souvenir in his back garden. A six-lane row of tank traps runs right behind his house, the nearest just a few feet from the back door. If the traps were blown up, the farmhouse also would be demolished.

Daniel Beard organized the Sons of Dan'l Boone, which later became known as the Boy Scouts of America.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Make The Most Of Your Beauty Assets

There is no such thing as an unattractive woman . . . the only exception is the woman who does not make the most of her natural self.

When you have read this column, get out pencil and paper. List your best features.

Then make another list, this time the features you might like to "turn in" for new models—a long neck, blemished skin, drooping shoulders, or a figure bulge. These are the things to play down, as the ugly duckling does in the following story.

This girl, as a teenager, couldn't recognize in herself one single point of beauty. Now in her late twenties, she is frequently complimented on her good looks, and is sometimes mistaken for a reigning cinema queen. The secret of her transformation is merely that she has learned how to accent some points while softening others.

She has blonde hair, without natural curl, so she chose a short cut, varying it little from year to year .She knows this style is becoming, so instead of bowing to fads in hair styling, she continues to abide by one — and keeps her locks gleamingly clean.

She has a junior figure, with far-from-perfect proportions . . . yet you'd never detect its shortcomings. She coordinates the lines of her clothes with those of her figure, selecting basic styles which she enlivens with colorful accessories proportionate to her stature.

She accents her eyes, outlines her lips in narrower contour than her own, always wears a hat that lessens the roundness of her face. She reads a great deal to improve her mind, and talks with many people to freshen her viewpoint.

You'd think this girl spends a fortune on her clothes, and on professional beauty treatments . . . she doesn't! She knowingly capitalizes on what she was born with in looks and personality.

Woman Given Suspended Term

A 35-year-old Cumberland woman was given a two-year suspended jail sentence and placed on strict probation yesterday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Louis Fatkin issued the probation conditions after finding the woman guilty of contributing to the neglect of her five minor children.

Magistrate Fatkin said testimony revealed drunkeness and warned the woman that she will be under constant supervisions of his court.

The magistrate informed the woman that she must discontinue associating with several of her "friends" and "If you cannot abide by the conditions of your parole, I will personally see that these children are removed so they may have a better place in which to live."

Antarctica's First Nuclear Reactor To Operate In '63

HONOLULU (AP) — Antarctica's first nuclear reactor—to be in full operation next year—will make possible waetr distribution and sewage disposal at McMurdo Sound.

That was the report Tuesday of Rear Adm. David M. Tyree, commander of Operation Deep Freeze, the U.S. naval support force in Antarctica. Tyree stopped in Honolulu en route to Washington at the end of six months on the ice pack.

Deep Freeze is an annual naval expedition providing logistical support to America's scientific probings in Antarctica.

The reactor, first of four planned for Antarctic stations, was installed in mid-February.

The admiral estimated each reactor will replace as much as 500,000 gallons of fuel now shipped in each year.

The first reactor will be used for water distribution and sewage disposal, in addition to providing some heat and power for other functions. The second will replace all the fuel heat, Tyree said.

There is no water distribution now. Water, produced by melting snow in boilers, is available only at central locations.

$417 Million In Unnecessary Stockpiling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators have disclosed that the government has $417,278,500 worth of stockpiled materials which do not meet required standards for any of the national stockpiles.

The figures were presented to a Senate armed services subcommittee on stockpiling by Franklin J. Gutchess, a special assistant to the defense materials commissioner in the General Services Administration (GSA). The GSA, which handles stockpile contracts, compiled the figures.

Gutchess also said the government had on hand at the end of last year, 26 items with a total value of $304,159,100 for which there were no national stockpile objectives. They ranged all the way from $128,416,300 worth of cotton to $600 worth of poppy seed.

However, Gutchess said, four of the categories have been sold entirely since Dec. 31, including the poppy seed, and the government is moving to dispose of most of the others.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D - Mo., was told by another GSA witness that the government still has obligations which could cost it up to $340.5 million in six unneeded items.

Louis Brooks, deputy assistant comptroller of GSA, said the total included firm commitments to buy $12 million worth of unneeded items.

However, he said, GSA estimates that "probable deliveries" on the unneeded items will run to a total cost of only $104.9 million.

Birth Control Pill Termed Successful

CHICAGO (UPI) — Three researchers have reported a new birth control pill was a complete success in a four-year study with not one unplanned pregnancy.

The oral contraceptive was given experimentally, they said, to 210 women in San Antonio, Tex.

Drs. Joseph W. Goldzieher and Louis E. Moses, of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, and Lucy T. Ellis—all of San Antonio's Planned Parenthood Center — summarized their study in an exhibit presented at the annual clinical meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The new tablet, Norethindrone, they said, is a synthetic substance resembling the pregnancy hormone, progesterone. It acts by inhibiting ovulation, they said.

The researchers said the study and exhibit suggested that "other fertility - controlling mechanisms must be active" because there was evidence that ovulation might have occurred in some cases.

Twenty-four women withdrew from the test, they said, and 17 pregnancies were recorded within 90 days among 16 women who wished to become pregnant. Thirteen women had given birth to date, they said, all with full-term, normal infants.

"Side effects were minimal," the study said.

Gifts To U.N. Range From Cash To Peacepipes

By DONALD JOHNSTON

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—During a heated debate in the United Nations, a delegate remarked that "maybe we should try smoking a peacepipe."

Whether this old tribal practice of settling disputes would work in the U.N. is a moot question but the world organization at least has some peacepipes it could fall back on.

The pipes are gifts sent by tribal groups in Africa and elsewhere as signs of support and solidarity with the U.N.

They are deposited in the U.N. archives along with tribal masks, small canoes, religious symbols, silk screens, candelabra and other token gifts which flow into the U.N. regularly.

"These gifts have little monetary value, but they are expressions of support, faith and hope in the United Nations by peoples all over the world," said David B. Vaughan, Director of General Services, the department which deals with U.N. property and possessions.

"We have had some offers of land, but these almost always are impractical from our standpoint and must be rejected," he said. "We have private contributions of money coming in all the time, and of course the material donations to headquarters buildings run into tens of thousands of dollars."

Perhaps the most notable gift is the new $6.2 million library. Named for the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, the library was constructed with funds donated by the Ford Foundation.

Many cash gifts are small—$1, $5, or $10, and come unsolicited from average people who merely wish to express their belief in the U.N. Large numbers of Quakers, however, donate 1 per cent of their incomes as a pledge of faith in the United Nations.

This idea of "self-tax" was originated by Mrs. Thorton M. Price, wife of a University of Arizona professor, in 1959.

Last November, Mrs. Wayne Elwood of Palo Alto, Calif., sent a $1,000 check, saying she preferred to give the money to the United Nations rather than spend it on a fallout shelter. A month later, a group of private individuals in Chapel Hill, N.C., sent $1,600 as the first installment of a sum which ultimately will add up to what a fallout shelter would have cost each of them to build.

The regular Quaker donations, and other cash gifts are set aside for technical assistance or Children's Fund projects.

The U.N. recently turned down with thanks and regret a parcel of Wisconsin farmland offered by Emil Matalek, a 32-year-old bachelor who thinks greed causes many world problems.

"We certainly appreciated his generosity and spirit," Vaughan said, "but the United Nations just could not use a piece of land in the Wisconsin countryside."

U.N. headquarters is full of gifts, both practical and decorative. Some have been donated by organizations and individuals, such as 178 flowering cherry trees from Mrs. Albert D. Lasker and $50,000 for a plaza fountain pool from school children through the American Association for the U.N.

Most of the gifts have come from governments, however, ranging from furnishings for a whole conference room from Britain to an "unbreakable" olive wood gavel from Tunisia for the President of the General Assembly.

Smallpox Hits Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—Twenty-two persons, most of them children, have died of smallpox in the west Java village of Kuduengang since February, the Indonesian news agency PIA said Tuesday.

John Bunyan wrote part of his famed "Pilgrim's Progress" while jailed in Bedford, England, for unlawful preaching.

The battle of Chapultepec virtually ended the Mexican War. It was the high fortress that blocked the entrance of the Americans into Mexico City.

Baluba Camp Holds 42,000 Africans As Political Pawns

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (UPI)—Forty-two thousand Africans who live in squalor on the outskirts of Elisabethville have become pawns in a complicated political chess game.

They are residents of the notorious Baluba refugee camp, the vast majority of them simple tribespeople caught up in the Congo conflict. They fled to the camp from the African communes of Elisabethville six months ago when Katanga President Moise Tshombe's police began arresting their political leaders. The Balubas are traditional enemies of Tshombe's Lunda tribe and they have never accepted Katanga's secession from the rest of the Congo.

The tribesfolk are bitter and helpless and their once temporary refuge is taking on a permanent appearances. Solid-looking brick walled huts are beginning to replace the crazily-angled mud, tin and blanket shanties of last year. The muddy, rutted streets are lined with hole-in-the-wall stores, bars and even barber shops.

Camp Commandant Major Arne Forslund of Sweden, who has won the confidence of the Balubas through patience and kindness, now tours the camp alone and unarmed. He sees his charges as victims of the Congo confusion and pooh-poohs the popular view of the Balubas as a vicious band of cannibals.

In spite of the present calm, few people here want the camp to continue, least of all the camp residents themselves. Swedish officers say the vast majority would leave voluntarily for the Baluba tribal domains of North Katanga and Kasai Province if given the opportunity.

The refugees speak longingly of their former life in the communes, once the showpiece of Belgian colonial native policy. But when one suggests that they should return to their well-built concrete homes and neat gardens in the African suburbs the reaction is a firm "Never!" the Lundas (or the Bembas, or Bahembas, or any other pro-Tshombe tribe) would kill me."

The tragedy of the Baluba camp is, in a sense, the tragedy of the entire Congo. It is a harrowing example of tribalism versus nationalism. It is also a political, economic and security problem. But above all it is a human problem. As long as the camp continues, 42,000 semi-tribal Africans will be forced to live in far worse conditions than anything they experienced under the colonial regime.

The Baluba camp issue has become a convenient weapon for various pressure groups. On the one hand are the Tshombe supporters who realize that virtually all the political opposition to his regime in Elisabethville is concentrated in the camp. To them the early liquidation of the Baluba camp is essential. On the other hand are the supporters of the Central Congolese government, who feel removal of the camp would be a major political victory for Tshombe.

In the middle stands the United Nations, faced with the task of administering the camp but hamstrung by differences of opinion within its own ranks on the best way of tackling the problem.

"The camp is being made permanent for dirty political motives," a senior official said. "Some people in New York and elsewhere are willing to let thousands of innocent women and children suffer if they think they can use the camp as a weapon against President Tshombe."

But the chief U.N. refugee coordinator here, Nils-Goran Gussing of Sweden, denies this. "We do not force anyone to stay in the camp," Gussing said. "We are ready to help anybody who wants to leave."

Meanwhile the camp dwellers are sinking deeper roots. Several thousand of the menfolk now work in Elisabethville, returning to the mud and misery at night. But many thousand others sit around all day in complete idleness. They rely on the twice-weekly U.N. food distributions to keep themselves and their families alive.

These food distributions are an expensive item in the U.N. budget. An estimated $120,000 a week is spent on transporting staple African foodstuffs from Leopoldville more than 1,000 miles away. Most of the food could be obtained locally but the Katanga government has banned the sale of basic African foods to the U.N. because they say it only encourages the Balubas to remain in the camp.

Fake Art Racket

OTTAWA (AP)—Manufacturers or dealers trying to sell fake Eskimo art as the real thing may be prosecuted. Eskimo art has hit new heights in Canada, and fake works have begun to pour into the market.

The disproportionately long tail of the thrasher is as long as its whole body.

Airports Top All Users Of Air Conditioning

NEW YORK (UPI)—Perhaps it's only logical, but airports are the leading users of air conditioning, according to a survey.

All but 10 of the nation's 62 major terminals are fully air conditioned, a ratio higher than any other type of structure, reports the Carrier Information Service.

The first complete air conditioning system in air terminals was installed at Washington National Airport in 1941 by industry pioneer Willis Carrier, the report said. Only nine other full systems were set up by 1956, but 27 were built in the next five years and another 15 now are in the works.

Largest of all is the cooling system at New York's Idlewild Airport, where nine machines in one utility building serve 10 other terminal structures scattered over 65 acres. Idlewild, with 6,300 tons of cooling capacity, has expanded so rapidly that another 3,000 tons is being added.

Class To Plan Reunion Tomorrow

The reunion committee of the Class of 1947 of Ridgeley High School will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Isabelle Bradley, 10 Jones Street, Ridgeley.

Officers elected at the group's last meeting include Jimmie D. Flanagan, chairman; Mrs. Edith Maiers Mulligan, treasurer; Mrs. Bradley, corresponding secretary; Joseph Jewell, memory book, and Mrs. Virginia Beck Blankenship, decorations.

The committee decided on July 21 as a tentative date for the reunion.

Flanagan said all members of the class residing in the area are urged to attend Friday's meeting and help to contact other members.

Two Women 'Pen Pals' For 40 Years

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Two women "pen pals" have been writing letters to each other for 40 years—since they were 16-year-old girls.

Mrs. Clarence West, of St. Louis, the former Eva Marie Belanger of New Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. Ralph Sheppard of Tulsa, Okla., the former Marie Hetrick of Nowata, Okla., are the persevering letter-writers.

The two were introduced to each other in a "pen pal" column which appeared in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in May, 1922.

"A pen pal can be a great comfort," said Mrs. West. "It's good knowing someone will answer your letter."

As young girls, their letters gave a chronological account of their lives. Mrs. Sheppard was married in 1928, and Mrs. West in 1939. Each invited the other to her wedding, but neither was able to attend.

Mrs. West recently moved to St. Louis, "the closest Marie and I have been."

"I feel that we are getting old together," she said. "My whole family knew Marie and felt she was one of the family."

The two women have never spoken a word to each other. But now that they are the closest in distance they've ever been, Mrs. West says: "I'm going to pick up the telephone and call Marie sometime."

Executives Go To 'School'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young man on the way up is getting a fresh boost these days by going to "school" right where he works.

Some leading industrial concerns have adopted a new method of training their junior and middle level executives for top management posts.

It's called the Conference Management Training Plan and consists of weekly conferences after business hours. The executives, working from texts supplied by the Alexander Hamilton Institute, executive training specialists, discuss facts supplied by the texts in the light of their own company's activities and are assigned tests.

The programs are conducted without instructors. At each session a member acts as the conference leader. The program is directed and administered by the company on an in-plant basis with each participant paying at least part of its cost.

Firms running such "schools" include Caterpillar Tractor Co., General Aniline & Film Co., and Brunswick Pulp and Paper Co.

Spring Sing Coming Soon

The executive committee of the Queen City Girls' Barbershop Chorus and the Queen City Kings' Barbershop Chorus are completing plans for the Spring Sing the Recreation Department sponsored groups will present Saturday at 8 p.m. in Carroll Hall for the benefit of the American Cancer Society. They are, left to right, Gwen Harris, Joseph Footen, Joseph Crabtree, Frank Fleckenstein; J. E. Sell, president of the male chorus; R. Monroe Harris, director for both groups; Mrs. Shirley Tindal, president of the girls' unit; Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant recreation director, and Mrs. Cora Hardin, secretary-treasurer of the chorus.

How To Make Students Value Studying

CHICAGO (UPI)—Schools need to polish the image of scholarship if today's teen-agers are to figure that learning earns them status.

So said James S. Coleman, associate professor and chairman of social relations at Johns Hopkins University.

Reporting on a study in 10 American high schools Coleman said he found basic interest in learning declining—even among adolescents where a majority of the students were looking toward college.

Coleman, in a report in the PTA magazine published by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said he had expected to see an expressed interest in learning among brilliant students in the suburban schools studied.

He related his findings of teen-agers' lack of interest in scholarship to the following pattern of family life.

Teen-agers associate scholastic achievement with adult domination, studiousness with obedience to adult demands. They distinguish sharply between achievement in schoolwork and achievement in areas they regard as more nearly their own—athletics and extracurricular activities.

"Unless something changes," warned, "the adolescent community will turn more and more against the scholastic preparation that is so important to the future of many of its members."

The educator suggested that schools may reverse this trend "by providing rewards for greater and greater accomplishment" in scholarship.

As a single, practical step he recommended the scholastic fair, rather like current science fairs, with competition between schools and with students representing their schools on the egghead front just as athletes represent the school in sports.

Such competition, as he saw it, would interest teen-agers and their crowd and could mobilize and direct the energies of adolescents on the brain front to a degree unimagined by adults.

Embassy Life 'Like Running A Hotel'

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — Running the U. S. Embassy in Paris some days is like "running a hotel."

So says attractive Jean Duncan Gavin, the former general, arrived in 1961 to represent the United States in France.

Gavin's appointment lifted some eyebrows. The Gavins then didn't speak French and President Charles De Gaulle reportedly doesn't enjoy the company of other generals.

Now, one year later, the Gavins apparently are well installed in the French community. They take French lessons daily, which reportedly pleases their many French guests. The town of St. Mere-l'Eglise, which Gavin's men liberated in World War II, has named a street for him. Paris newspapers often describe the blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. Gavin as "charming," and the ambassador's own paintings recently decorated a French magazine.

Most of all, the affable Gavin and his chic wife have become durable host and hostess to many Frenchmen at their three-story mansion on the Rue Iena, near the river Seine.

"One week recently we had a reception for some French deputies (members of Parliament) who were going to the United States and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy," said Mrs. Gavin briskly.

Huge Coffee Sessions

"The next day I had 197 women to tea, a group called American Women's Activities in France. The next day 80 French and American employes of our embassy came for coffee. I hold this coffee once a month so I can get to know them.

"My husband had a stag luncheon every day that week — for ministers of the French government, French writers, scientists and so forth. We have a couple of dinners a week, mainly for prominent French people with some other ambassadors invited.

"The other nights we go out to dinner. Our calendar is filled through March and most of April now."

Mrs. Gavin took me on a tour of the stone house where the Gavins live with their four children and a collie named Laddie. Like Mrs. John Kennedy in the White House, Mrs. Gavin has added her own touches to the home. And she has hung six paintings borrowed from the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

"There was hardly a picture in the house when I arrived, except this painting of Lafayette in the dining room," said Mrs. Gavin, indicating an oil painting of the famous French general. "The French who come to dinner usually notice it."

The mansion's three living rooms can be connected for parties she sometimes gives for as many as 750 guests.

Busy Day

Mrs. Gavin's day begins at eight. By nine, she is conferring with her secretary regarding invitations and other details of the day, by nine thirty with her housekeeper on everything from the day's menus to leaky faucets. At 10, she has a French lesson. Her husband takes his lesson at his office each morning.

Then, the ambassador's wife is off to the hairdresser, to a lunch, or to a dress designer — one of her favorite couturiers is Fierre Balmain.

She tries to be home when the children return from the American School of Paris. They are Caroline, 16; Patricia, 12; Aileen 10, and Chloe, 7.

The Gavins also travel throughout France.

"How busy I thought I was in Boston and Wellesley in Massachusetts, where the Gavins still have a home," said Mrs. Gavin.

"Here you are an executive, absolutely. It's a matter of organizing your time."

Committee To Meet

LONACONING — A committee meeting of the Class of 1957 of Valley High School will be held on Saturday, at 1 p.m. at the VFW home. Members of the Valley class are urged to attend to plan for the fifth anniversary class reunion.

Some cut flowers and leaves contain a milky substance or juice. This can be sealed into the stem by quickly dipping stem ends into boiling water. Protect upper leaves and flowers from steam with thicknesses of paper.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 111

Basic artillery piece of the land forces on both sides was the "Napoleon," a smooth-bore, muzzle-loading 12-pounder howitzer.

"Rifled cannon played a secondary role in field artillery operations, and their use diminished further as the war progressed." The principal rifled piece was the Ordnance gun (3-inch). There were eight other standard types of field artillery and a dozen additional types of field rifles," Lieut. Col. Mark M. Boatner III particularizes.

The smooth-bore Napoleon type, adopted from the French, was in common use by the U.S. Artillery before the war. Consequently, a number of these cannon were obtained by the Rebels in seizures of Federal fortifications and arsenals in the Southern and border states early in 1861.

Most were made for the government in commercial foundries—Alger of Boston and Ames of Chicopee—to War Department specifications. The commanding general appointed by Lincoln in the autumn of 1861, George McClellan, and the quartermaster general, Montgomery C. Meigs, an old field artilleryman, decided that the Napoleon was and would be the most useful cannon, and contracts were let accordingly. Hence two-thirds of the field artillery provided the army were the light twelve-pounders.

Napoleons loaded with heavy charges of canister proved terribly effective in breaking up or turning back infantry or cavalry.

The 3-inch ordnance gun, sometimes called the Rodman rifle, was developed by the U.S. Ordnance Department to replace 3-inch Parrott guns (the invention of R. P. Parrott) that had proved ineffective in Union hands. Larger Parrott guns, in which structural defects were corrected, were more effective.

The Confederates also came into possession of these. Thus there were battles in which both Union and Rebel gunners fired away at each other with Napoleons and Parrotts.

Report Progress

TOKYO (AP)—In Red China's Mongolia, many people now have radios, fountain pens, sewing machines, clocks and more than one suit of clothes, the New China Agency says. Things are so advanced, the agency reported, peasants have bank accounts.

Yellow fever made its first recorded appearance in North America in severe epidemics in New York and Philadelphia in 1668.

Hazelwood Awarded Garrett Project

The Maryland State Roads Commission yesterday announced the awarding of six contracts, including one for construction of a four-span bridge over Bear Creek on relocated U. S. Route 219 near Accident, Garrett County.

The Garrett contract was awarded to the George F. Hazelwood Company on a bid of $198,289.50. Work on the project is expected to get started within the next two weeks.

SRC spokesmen said the contracts are part of Gov. Tawes' program of accelerated road construction.

Painter Thinks Churches Should Have Art Galleries

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—A leading modern painter who specializes in religious subjects is conducting a one-man crusade to persuade churches to establish art galleries as well as recreation rooms.

Fred Nagler, noted for his Madonna and Child and Last Supper paintings, feels liturgical works belong in churches, not in private homes or museums. He is convinced that if churches made a place for paintings and sculpture, they would receive such works as gifts.

"In the old days, a church would have its walls decorated by one artist," Nagler said in a recent interview. "What they ought to do today is to have art galleries, to interest the intelligentsia in religion.

"I know lots of churches have swimming pools and gymnasiums but ignore culture. To hold the people they have to try to bring in, the intelligentsia through art, music and dancing. If there were galleries in churches, paintings bought by wealthy people would be given to churches instead of museums. They would be put in church galleries, where they really belong.

"Twenty million people went to major museums in the United States last year. A lot of these same people would go to churches if they had exhibitions. Religious leaders do not know the value of art. They are so involved with the word that they don't see the power of the picture."

Nagler has managed to get a few of his works hung in religious institutions. Two are at Notre Dame University. Two are in the Church of the Redeemer in Reading, Pa., and one is in the chapel at Yale University. But most are in private collections or museums.

His most recent work is based on the Biblical account of the replacement of the murderer Barabbas by Jesus at the Crucifixion. Nagler and five other artists were paid commissions by Columbia Pictures, which has made a film on Barabbas for release later this year. Since nothing further is known of Barabbas beyond his release from the sentence of death, the movie is an imaginary account of what happened to him later. The six artists were given equal license in their paintings, one of which is an abstraction. Their paintings are being sent on a nationwide tour of art galleries during the spring and summer.

New Optimist Chapter To Be Formed

An Optimist Club is being organized in the Bowling Green-Potomac Park areas, according to W. Lester Hudson, president of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Hudson said the new club is being sponsored by the Cumberland club and has set a target date of April 16 for its birthday.

Plans have been made to hold its dinner meetings at the Bowling Green Fire Hall and a membership campaign is under way.

Temporary officers have been selected to serve until the club is officially chartered. Bernard DeLisle is chairman and Carl Winfield Jr. is secretary-treasurer.

Gene Carithers is heading the membership committee and William O'Neal the house committee. Drawing up the constitution and by-laws are Carl Balsley and Chester Mackereth while Garland Chaney and Paul Ross will head the nominating committee to select permanent officers for the new club.

At a meeting Monday night, Frank Beachley, Braddock Heights, lieutenant governor of District 33, Zone B, comprising Frederick, Washington and Allegany counties, spoke to the prospective members on the history and objectives of Optimist International. William Grove, Bowling Green, a charter member and past president of the Optimist Club of Frederick, gave a talk on the boys work aspect of Optimism. They and Hudson answered questions during a discussion period that followed.

The charter of the new club will remain open until its organizational meeting. Persons interested may contact the temporary officers or members of the Cumberland club for further information.

New Optimist Chapter To Be Formed

An Optimist Club is being organized in the Bowling Green-Potomac Park areas, according to W. Lester Hudson, president of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Hudson said the new club is being sponsored by the Cumberland club and has set a target date of April 16 for its birthday.

Plans have been made to hold its dinner meetings at the Bowling Green Fire Hall and a membership campaign is under way.

Temporary officers have been selected to serve until the club is officially chartered. Bernard DeLisle is chairman and Carl Winfield Jr. is secretary-treasurer.

Gene Carithers is heading the membership committee and William O'Neal the house committee. Drawing up the constitution and by-laws are Carl Baisley and Chester Mackereth while Garland Chaney and Paul Ross will head the nominating committee to select permanent officers for the new club.

At a meeting Monday night, Frank Beachley, Braddock Heights, lieutenant governor of District 33, Zone B, comprising Frederick, Washington and Allegany counties, spoke to the prospective members on the history and objectives of Optimist International. William Grove, Bowling Green, a charter member and past president of the Optimist Club of Frederick, gave a talk on the boys work aspect of Optimism. They and Hudson answered questions during a discussion period that followed.

The charter of the new club will remain open until its organizational meeting. Persons interested may contact the temporary officers or members of the Cumberland club for further information.

The next dinner meeting will be held on Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the Bowling Green Fire Hall. Guest speaker for the evening will be George Barthel, District 33 Boys Work Chairman.

Judges Order Rapist Executed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Judges Joseph L. Carter and Anselm Sodaro of the Supreme Bench have ordered the execution of Clifford Earl Hazel during the week of May 5.

Hazel was convicted in August of 1959 for the rape of a Baltimore housewife, but his execution date had been postponed on two previous occasions pending appeals to higher courts.

The conviction of the 28-year-old Baltimore man was upheld by the Maryland Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court declined to rule on the case.

Judges Order Rapist Executed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Judges Joseph L. Carter and Anselm Sodaro of the Supreme Bench have ordered the execution of Clifford Earl Hazel during the week of May 5.

Hazel was convicted in August of 1959 for the rape of a Baltimore housewife, but his execution date had been postponed on two previous occasions pending appeals to higher courts.

The conviction of the 28-year-old Baltimore man was upheld by the Maryland Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court declined to rule on the case.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 112 "The Harp of Erin flew on green flags over every major battlefield. Two Massachusetts regiments were pure Irish, as were three others in New England, four in New York, two each in Pennsylvania and Indiana. Irish brigades and regiments came from Ohio and Illinois. New York's Irish Brigade, one of the most famous, was virtually wiped out at the battle of Fredericksburg—much of the blood spilled by a corresponding brigade of Confederate Irishmen."

This summation is from a chapter in Burke Davis' round-up of curious facts for browsers, "Our Incredible Civil War" (pub. by Holt, Rinehart & Winston). The chapter also tells of groups of Germans, French, Spanish, Italians, Scotch, Hungarians, Swiss, Portuguese who were in the armies.

The New York Irish Brigade was organized and drilled a century ago this winter under the leadership of a popular hero, Thomas Francis Meagher. He was one of the Irish rebel leaders rescued from a penal colony in Tasmania in 1852 with the aid of Irish sympathizers in New York, where he settled and became a lawyer, newspaper editor and naturalized citizen.

When the brigade had been brought to a state of readiness, it was assigned to Sumner's Second Division, Army of the Potomac, with Meagher as brigadier general. The brigade unit that subsequently suffered most heavily at Fredericksburg was the 69th—one of three different New York regiments having that designation in the war—to the confusion of historians. (Two were part of the Irish Brigade at one time or another, to compound that confusion.) The one referred to in Mr. Davis' account lost 16 of 18 officers and 112 of 210 enlisted men at Fredericksburg.

County Gets State Funds For Schools

Allegany County has just received a check for $584,000 from State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein under the general public school construction program.

The state uses its credit to sell bonds, the proceeds of which are used by the various counties in their public school construction program. This money is repaid within 14 years. The interest rate is 2.875 per cent.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster explained that the $584,000 is Allegany County's borrowing limit from the fund and will be used toward the $5,000,000 building program. This includes additions to the Parkside and Gephart elementary schools, already under way, and land acquisition for two new junior high schools in Cumberland.

Mr. Goldstein mailed checks totaling $8,936,000 to seven Maryland counties. Others benefiting were Baltimore County, $4,715,000; Calvert, $182,000; Howard, $274,000; Montgomery, $3,000,000; Queen Anne's, $131,000, and Wicomico, $50,000.

As soon as the Board of Public Works receives signed copies of the contracts from Garrett and Prince George's conuties they will be sent $225,000 and $3,201,000 respectively.

Liquor Board Cites Laws For Bowling Alleys

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners at its meeting yesterday reiterated its position on several regulations pertaining to operation of establishments selling beer, wine and liquor.

Milton Gerson, board chairman, with the concurrence of Melvin Sloan and Mrs. Rose Hay, board members, stated that all bowling alley businesses which have beer, wine or liquor permits must have a partition installed setting the area where alcoholic beverages are sold apart from the bowling section.

Gerson said the board issued a statement last year when an application was made for permit to sell beer in a bowling alley in Cumberland concerning the requirement for a partitioned area.

No bowling alleys will obtain a renewal of their permits unless the requirement is met, Gerson said.

The liquor board also stated that all applications for renewal of club beer, wine or liquor permits must be signed by three top bona fide and elected officers of the club.

Applicants may pick up their papers to obtain the licenses for the year starting May 1 at the liquor board office after April 23. The office is located in the basement of the Court House. The necessary papers will be then taken to the clerk of Circuit Court where the permits will be issued.

Cumberland Signs May Be Placed At Bedford Interchange

Signs designating the destination and mileage to Cumberland may be erected at the Bedford interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

This information was contained in a letter to the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce from Park H. Martin, Pennsylvania secretary of Highways.

The Chamber's request was sent through John R. Funk, chairman-director of the Maryland State Roads Commission, and has been forwarded to O. J. Reichelderfer, district engineer.

Mr. Martin told the Chamber the signs will be erected if investigation proves they are warranted. He said the department could not consider signing of either the Somerset or Breezewood exchanges, since they do not offer direct routes to Cumberland.

Sanitary Plat Filed Here

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday filed the plat of the sanitary district for the Bowling Green, Potomac Park and Roberts Place areas with the clerk of Circuit Court.

Copies of the plat were also filed with the commissioners' office, the Sanitary Commission and Planning and Zoning Commission.

The district will encompass the section from the city limits of Cumberland in the Dingle Hill area, to the Potomac River and thence to the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company and to the crest of Haystack Mountain. The Amcelle plant is not included in the sanitary district.

Clark said that the assessed valuation of property within the district is about $3,000,000. The county commissioners have approved the application for a loan for engineering surveys from the Housing and Home Administration, a federal agency.

GOP Candidates To Tour Area

Republican candidates for state offices will tour Western Maryland next week.

The schedule calls for the entourage to be in Garrett County on Tuesday; Allegany County, Wednesday, and Washington County, Thursday.

The group will be headed by Frank Small Jr., candidate for governor; Edward Miller, for U.S. Senate and Newton I. Steers, congressman-at-large.

Other state and local candidates will join the tour in their respective areas.

Mr. Martin told the Chamber the signs will be erected if investigation proves they are warranted. He said the department could not consider signing of either the Somerset or Breezewood exchanges, since they do not offer direct routes to Cumberland.

Sanitary Plat Filed Here

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday filed the plat of the sanitary district for the Bowling Green, Potomac Park and Roberts Place areas with the clerk of Circuit Court.

Copies of the plat were also filed with the commissioners' office, the Sanitary Commission and Planning and Zoning Commission.

The district will encompass the section from the city limits of Cumberland in the Dingle Hill area, to the Potomac River and thence to the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company and to the crest of Haystack Mountain. The Amcelle plant is not included in the sanitary district.

Clark said that the assessed valuation of property within the district is about $3,000,000. The county commissioners have approved the application for a loan for engineering surveys from the Housing and Home Administration, a federal agency.

GOP Candidates To Tour Area

Republican candidates for state offices will tour Western Maryland next week.

The schedule calls for the entourage to be in Garrett County on Tuesday; Allegany County, Wednesday, and Washington County, Thursday.

The group will be headed by Frank Small Jr., candidate for governor; Edward Miller, for U.S. Senate and Newton I. Steers, congressman-at-large.

The High Cost Of Disarmament

Control and inspection — the two prerequisites to any United States agreement on disarmament or a nuclear test ban—will not come cheaply. The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy has placed the cost of installing control posts in the Soviet Union to detect underground nuclear explosions alone at between $1 billion and $5 billion.

And a panel of experts who reported recently to the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency estimated the American contribution to international inspection costs as part of any general disarmament at $3.2 billion a year during the first disarmament stages. Later, the U.S. share of costs might mount to an annual $7.1 billion for inspection, international police forces, deterrent forces, and juridical and administrative functions.

The AEC has described the problems involved in setting up a control post in Arctic regions. Installation and operation of the stations would be hampered by long dark winters, temperatures down to minus 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, nearly impossible transportation problems during the spring thaw and fall rains, permafrost soil conditions and general inaccessibility.

Disarmament planners, however, are counting on these relatively expensive outlays to help ease the economic impact of disarmament on national economies. Various farsighted defense firms already have begun exploratory work on research and development with respect to disarmament inspection requirements.

Disarmament, of course, is a goal that will remain illusory unless and until it becomes evident that the Kremlin really will tolerate it. Given that, it will be worth whatever it costs in terms of money.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Am I A Square?

Every day, when I pick up the newspapers, I see articles and photographs about the private lives of Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher and somebody called Burton. And I am strictly bored. Does that make me a square?

According to the publicity and the photographs, the aforementioned Liz and Burton are in a picture called "Cleopatra" which, 'tis said, costs $32,000,000, which is a whale of a lot of money and which will take some doing to get it back. The also aforesaid Eddie is not in the picture.

Yes, I am told that all around there are eight or nine children involved in this exhibitionism and that sooner or later they will read the press items and see the pictures and they will, if they are properly reared, be ashamed or maybe they will become juvenile delinquents out of hatred and spite, or maybe they will go and do likewise when they grow up on the principle that it happened to them, why not to me?

The adults in this business have become a bore. Every time this Liz Taylor gets out of one husband and procures another, the publicity becomes fierce. I recall the woman when she was much younger and prettier. I saw her walking down Park Avenue, holding hands, with someone she was about to marry, also young. It looked very romantic.

Then I saw her on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf with another husband and she looked more womanly and harder. I never saw her in the company of the late Mike Todd, which I am told was an experience for the onlooker.

Eddie Fisher I only saw once, in the Stork Club. He was about to marry Debbie Reynolds and her people were with them—nice, simple, American people. It all looked so sentimental. Burton, I never saw face to face and therefore cannot say anything about him.

As I get the story, Fisher has two children by Debbie Reynolds; he has adopted Mike Todd's child by Elizabeth Taylor and an Italian child; Taylor had two children by her second husband, Wilding, but none by her first husband, Nicky Hilton, son of the hotel keeper. There is no offspring from Fisher but Burton has two children by his current wife.

Since the time of Nell Gwyn, it has been notorious that some ladies of the stage are more interested in their post-theatrical lives than in thespian responsibilities. In our age, this is encouraged because it brings the curious to the theater to see what the person looks like. Often the bark is worse than the bite, manufactured by press agents because it has heretofore been good business to have a bad reputation. Undoubtedly a leading opponent of the vilification of Hollywood's reputation has been Walter Wanger, the producer of "Cleopatra." Time after time, he has protested against the breaking up of families by press agents.

It is therefore difficult to believe that Wanger would be a party to the publicizing of the love affairs of Elizabeth Taylor, now in its fifth edition. However, whoever put up $32,000,000 to make a picture of the utterly amoral Cleopatra, who was married to her brother and then cavorted with the Romans as they came into her country, may have an interest.

Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw wrote footnotes to Cleopatra's career and were it not for that, the maid would undoubtedly be forgotten by now, when we have Nasser, the Puritan, in control of her country. But the movies will rehabilitate her as the Queen-courtesan, and young ladies will thrill at the identification as they sit in a darkened temple, lustfully holding hands with the latest swain.

Must there be so much sincerity that one who plays a part, must also live the part? The great Sarah Bernhardt or even greater Rachel did feel their parts movingly and Anna Held, back in the days of the Rumanian Yiddish Theater, was a problem to Abraham Goldfaden, her first impresario—so much a problem that he found it convenient to send her to a cigar-maker countryman of his in London by the name of Ziegfeld, whose son in due course became such a glorified figure in the American theater.

But what of the children of these smashed homes? What becomes of them? It is a sociological problem in the formation of character.

President Runs State Department While Secretary Rusk Is Abroad

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Dean Rusk has now become Secretary of State again. While he was in Geneva attending the Disarmament Conference, the real Secretary of State was none other than John F. Kennedy.

There was almost no detail JFK did not handle. He personally checked on State Department staff work, conferred with State Department subordinates, made decisions on individual countries. He even got involved in State Department personnel problems.

Kennedy was also on the transatlantic telephone to President de Gaulle in Paris and Prime Minister Macmillan in London — which, however is not unusual. He phones the heads of states in NATO countries, including Chancellor Adenauer, more than any other American President. In this case, he conferred with de Gaulle about the Algerian crisis.

In addition, Kennedy was on the telephone to Rusk in Geneva on every important move and ordered him to wait in Geneva for the Berlin proposal being readied by Foreign Minister Gromyko. It turned out to be a rehash of past proposals.

The public didn't know it, but Kennedy also handled personally the demand of Chiang Kai-shek that he be allowed to invade the Chinese mainland. With Chinese unrest increased by the food shortage, Chiang claimed the time was ripe. Kennedy considered this carefully, finally decided the risk of precipitating World War III was too great. Instead he ordered a close watch on Chiang to make sure he doesn't attempt an invasion without U. S. help.

It was also the President who made the decision to call Ambassador Everett Drumright hastily home from Formosa before the State Department papers were published on past U. S.-Chinese relations. They are somewhat embarrassing.

Kennedy also studied economic and political reports on every Latin-American country and even got into the act as to whether President Goulart of Brazil should address a joint session of Congress. He also read the latest intelligence reports on the growing crisis in Iran and decided to bring the Shah to Washington for a hurry-up visit to bolster the Shah's sagging rule.

All in all it was a busy three weeks for JFK. Now that Secretary Rusk is back, Kennedy is turning a little of the detail back to him.

One Judge Salutes Another

The highest judge of the land, Chief Justice Earl Warren, flew 3,000 miles across the United States this week to pay tribute to another judge, in this case a retired California superior judge—Peter J. Shields.

Judge Shields is 100 years old today. He was born April 5, 1862, just one year after the Civil War started. He has lived through the Civil War, the Spanish American War, and two world wars. But he continues to be a man who hopes for peace.

He also continues to have his faculties, his sense of humor, and, most important of all, his liberal outlook on life. On every birthday, Judge Shields walks into the Del Prado Restaurant in Sacramento to lunch with George E. Johnson, another California liberal, to discuss politics and the state of the nation.

So Chief Justice Warren, a Republican, is flying across the continent to help pay tribute to Judge Shields, Democrat, as the University of California names a park in the judge's honor in commemoration of his founding of the agricultural college of the university.

Under The Dome

Dynamic John Dingell of Detroit is the only Congressman who has spoken out against the new Natural Gas Advisory Committee appointed by the Federal Power Commission. Dingell has been an alert consumer watchdog in the past . . . Congressman Dan Flood of Pennsylvania, author of the Depressed Areas Bill, has been quietly needling the administration for more action to help the depressed areas. Dan thinks things have gone fairly well, but not fast enough . . . . Congressman Wayne Hays of Ohio continues to be the No. 1 needler of the administration on foreign policy. He's friendly but at times also ferocious. He gets results . . . . Three live-wire Congressmen are running for the Senate this year: Dan Inouye, the Hawaiian hero who lost an arm in the famous "go-for-broke" charge of the 442nd Regimental Combat Team in Italy; Sid Yates of Chicago, one of the most determined battlers for small business (running for the Senate in Illinois); David King of Utah, son of a famous Utah Senator. He will run for the Senate against GOP Senator Bennett . . . .Wisconsin Congressman Robert Kastenmeier has put the controversial speech of Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell University in the Congressional record. Dr. Bethe, one of the top atomic scientists in the USA, lays it on the line regarding U. S.-Soviet atomic competition . . . . Dick Bolling, the Kansas City Congressman who was Sam Rayburn's private choice to be speaker, isn't nursing any wounds following John McCormack's election. Bolling is just as vigorous and effective as ever . . . . Congressman John Blatnik, slow-speaking Minnesotan, is one of the fastest movers in Congress when it comes to investigating highway scandals. Nothing gets by him . . . . Charles Vanik, Cleveland Congressman, is one of the few who have tangled with former Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. Most Senators shied away from Humphrey, a powerful industrial solon, but not Vanik.

The Ominous Silence Over Communist China

By Joseph Alsop

HONG KONG

In Communist societies, a silence is sometimes more ominous than a thunderclap, an absence is sometimes more disquieting than the grimmest presence. In Communist China, this is perhaps one of those times.

A year late, with the prospects darkening on every side, the National People's Congress is at last meeting in Peking. But this meeting, always in the past accompanied by fanfares of publicity, is now progressing in felted quiet.

Not one word of any speech has been printed since the Congress opened some days ago. The public silence rather clearly suggests that the Chinese Communist leaders are saying things about one another, or about the Soviets, or both, of the sort that are best said in private. Expert opinion strongly inclines to this view.

Meanwhile, lists of the high personages attending the Congress have been rather prominently published. Judging by these lists, the absences at the summit are both massive and remarkable.

Those missing include six of the nineteen full members and all six candidate members of the Politburo, the highest body of the Chinese Communist party. Besides the vice premiers of China who are also full or candidate members of the Politburo, additional absent grandees bring the total of missing vice premiers to eight out of sixteen.

If half of President Kennedy's Cabinet and a third of the other leading policymakers in Washington suddenly, inexplicably sank from sight, the effect would be about the same.

To be sure, there does not seem to be any particular pattern in the Peking absences. Along with men known to be in disfavor, like Marshal Peng Teh-huai and the veteran revolutionary, Chen Yun, supposed favorites of Mao Tse-tung like Chen-lin are also among the absentees.

Some of the absences are normally explicable, like that of the Defense Minister, Marshal Lin Piao, long a very ill man who only holds his present post as a front for the ex-Beria of China, the former secret police boss who now bosses the army, Gen. Lo Jui-ching. But all the absences are not normally explicable. So the question is being asked whether the Chinese revolution has begun eating its own young in 1962, as the Russian revolution so voraciously began in 1934.

The true reasons for the strange silence surrounding the National People's Congress and the even stranger list of absentees will of course emerge later on. They may or may not be lurid. In any case, it is instructive to note the reaction to the puzzle in Peking of the large body of extremely intelligent men who spend their lives here in Hong Kong watching and studying trends on the Communist mainland.

If you had said "possible purge" or even "bad trouble in China" to these men three years ago, most of them would have been either greatly shocked or much amused. But now the uglier solutions head their tentative lists of possible solutions of the Peking puzzle.

The truth of the matter is that the Chinese Communist leaders are now recognized as having even worse trouble at home than their trouble abroad with Nikita S. Khrushchev. They plunged their people into misery; they depressed the national standard of life to a level without known historical precedent, in order to pay for the forced industrialization of China. By Stalin's system, China was to become a military-industrial great power.

But unlike Stalin, the Chinese Communists have not got what the people's misery was intended to buy. After a good start, the campaign of forced industrialization ground to a halt a year and a half ago. Thus they now have the misery without the industry, and since they have quarreled with the Soviets, they have nowhere to turn for aid.

Mao Tse-tung's policy in these stringent circumstances was announced in a remarkable New Year's editorial in the official paper, The People's Daily. This year is to be a year of consolidation, a year of hoping and working for a good crop. But when this "more solid foundation" exists, there is to be another "leap forward." Further harsh sacrifices are to be required for forced industrialization, in other words.

But how can Mao drive on his dispirited and starving six hundred million-man army to another attack, after the heavy defeat already sustained? One answer is to make the troops fear their generals above all else, which is why the inauguration of a Stalin-style terror in China is no longer regarded as out of the question.

Terror or no terror, it is clear that the Chinese Communists have reached a grave turning point. And even if nature is kind, "the one good harvest" everyone has wrongly predicted for the last three years will not get Mao and his co-leaders fully round the corner.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SMART CRACKS—The Advertising Council held its meeting in Washington recently and attracted some top-drawer speakers. One was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, just back from a 'round-the-world trip.

Mindful of his and younger brother Ted's foreign travels, Robert began by telling his audience that his brother, the President, had greeted astronaut Col. John H. Glenn Jr. by saying, "I was very happy to have you make the trip even though you are not a member of the family."

Another speaker was Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who spoke from notes, without a prepared text. He began by apologizing to reporters, most of whose shorthand is conspicuous by its illegibility.

"I'm sorry not to be able to give you a piece of paper in advance which would bear some reasonable resemblance to what I am going to say," Rusk remarked. "But there are times when I think I ought to make my contribution to protect the working press against excessive automation."

The audience laughed gleefully, but the reporters just went on scribbling.

BUDDY-BUDDY — Sen. John Tower of Texas and James E. Davis, a TV news official in that state, were inseparable buddies during World War II, in which both served.

The other day, Tower received a picture from Davis, taken of the two men standing together on a Pacific island, with the inscription: "To John Tower, without whose help I could not have won the war in the Pacific."

Tower dug out a print of the same picture and sent it on to Davis with the inscription: "To that peerless navigator Jim Davis, without whose assistance I could not have prolonged the war another year."

WASHINGTON HUMOR — In the interests of creating another of those inverted axioms, a Washington group is urging President Kennedy to put a bunch of cows in orbit so they can be known as "the herd shot around the world."

A veteran foreign service officer defines a diplomat as "a man who thinks twice before saying nothing."

Fixed Look Of Despair

By John Crosby

"The governess is a class rapidly on the increase; it is the only recourse left to young girls in the highest ranks of society who are forced to earn their living. She may be known by her plain and quiet style of dress; a deep straw bonnet with green or brown veil and on her face a fixed look of despair.'

"This appeared in a Ladies Journal in 1840, three years before the G. B. I. (Governesses' Benevolent Institution) was founded. During that year 100 governesses advertised daily in The Times for a situation. By 1850, 21,000 gentlewomen were registered as belonging to the most despised profession in Victorian England. Today the G. B. I. has no working governesses or private teachers registered on its books, and since December 1961 its employment bureau, opened in 1845, has been closed."

The above from an ad in The Spectator. A short story? Or perhaps an essay on society? I suppose you might say it's a happy ending. But I'm not so sure about that. "The fixed look of despair" has not disappeared. It has just moved from the face of the vanished governess to the faces of the mothers. Take a look at any mother with a couple of small fry tagging along in the supermarkets and you'll see whence the "fixed look of despair."

Somewhat hesitantly, I confess to being one of that vanishing class who were reared by governesses. I don't remember any fixed look of despair either. But maybe they kept it concealed from me. We had German governesses in Milawkuee who were quite strict but quite loving girls and I remember being very fond of mine.

And what's the most dispised profession now? Just because the profession of governess has closed its ranks doesn't mean there are not any despicable professions open to you young girls of the highest ranks. I know many young girls of the highest ranks who are in the publicity profession. Believe me, that's just as despised as that of governess in Victorian England.

The fixed look of despair on any young governess trying to cram French into some high-born brat can be matched any day by a young publicity lady of the highest rank trying to plant an item in Dorothy Kilgallen's column. In spades. As degradation goes, I think the governesses had much the better of it.

As one despised profession closes, there are always new ones opening. That you might set down as one of Crosby's Laws. There were one million servants in London once, but gradually, remorselessly, London moves to our own Nirvana where everybody (well, almost everybody) does his own dishes and makes his own bed.

But as the serving class disappears, new opportunities for humiliation open up for high-born young girls. Victorian England had governesses. We have Playboy Bunnies to serve the drinks and get their bottoms pinched. Don't you suppose the bunnies have a fixed look of despair in their private moments?

And how about the fixed look of despair on car hops, those miserable creatures who bring the hamburgers, dressed in their skintight slacks, honked at and pinched. (Of course, I don't know that the high-born get into that dodge much.) Or bar girls. Or in all the box offices of the world. Or department store elevator operators.

There are still a goodly number of despised professions around. But never fear, girls, automation will get to all of them eventually. The time is approaching—and not so very distant either—when the machine will make us all obsolete and the fixed look of despair will be on all our faces wondering what do we do now.

Really Reducing Means A Change Of Life

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There are three rules to follow if you really want to lose weight. The first is to eat less. This may be old stuff to the chronic dieter but there is no alternative despite all the wonderful scientific discoveries and highly touted reducing plans.

The 10, 20 or 100 extra pounds will not fall off like hair or skin particles. They must be burned up as energy and eliminated from the body as carbon dioxide and water. This cannot be done unless the individual reduces the calorie intake and forces the body to use up its own tissues for energy requirements.

But eating less is as hard to do as quitting smoking. Many overweight persons can control themselves for a week or two but thereafter it becomes more and more difficult. In addition, those who lose weight often have trouble remaining slender. This may explain the popularity of drugs and other measures to curb appetite. These are temporary crutches. What the would-be reducer needs is motivation.

This is th crux of the second rule. Anyone who wants to slim down should give the matter considerable thought before undertaking the campaign. Think it over. Consider the pros and cons. It means sacrifice, will power, new clothes, going hungry, and perhaps feeling weak for a certain period of time. The compensations are mainly in health, appearance, a sense of well being, agility, and avoiding more serious ailments later in life.

Think it over. A complete change in eating habits will be needed to keep the figure, because losing weight is only half the battle.

The third rule is never go back to the old eating habits that brought on obesity in the first place. There is no sense in kidding yourself into thinking that dieting stops when the desired weight is reached. We don't call it a diet at this time. It is a new way of eating—getting into the habit of consuming smaller portions, avoiding desserts, and ceasing between meal snacks.

Think it over and don't consult your physician about a reducing regimen until you are absolutely certain you want to make this important change in your life.

GROWTH HORMONE

J. E. writes: I'm a young man of 18, 5'8" tall. Is it too late to take the new growth hormone?

REPLY

Why? You are of average height now and it is doubtful whether the hormone will work at your age if you are otherwise normal. Besides, the supply of the growth hormone is so limited it should be reserved for those who are abnormally small because of a disorder of the pituitary gland.

PERSON TO PERSON

M. S. writes: If a person took just one sip from the other side of another person's cocktail and, unknown to the person taking a sip, the person drinking the cocktail had cancer, could the person that took the sip got cancer from the glass?

REPLY

No. Cancer is not contagious and does not spread in this way.

SLEEP COMFY

A. G. writes: Is it better for older persons to sleep on the side or the stomach?

REPLY

Any way they are comfortable and sleep best. Most people, old and young, prefer to sleep on the side.

FLASH PHOTOS

R. M. writes: Does taking flashlight pictures affect a baby's eyes?

REPLY

No, but use a screen over the flash bulb to guard against flying glass in case the bulb explodes.

TOMORROW: Rehabilitation of alcoholics.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Shamus, shivering and dishevelled, visited his doctor one wintry night, wailing that he was on his very last legs. The doctor, who knew exactly what Shamus was after, reached for his whisky bottle. "Drink up this slug, Shamus," he nodded, "but remember what I'm telling you. It's another nail in your coffin."

Shamus downed the potion in one gulp, then extended the empty glass to the doctor. "While you're at it, me lad," he suggested warmly, "how about one more nail, so long as ye've got the hammer in your hand?"

One of the top brass at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington suddenly decided he needed a rest and wrote to an inn on Cape Cod on his official stationery requesting a reservation for a fortnight. Back came a polite but firm note from the inn's management reading, "We regret to say that it is against our policy to accept persons from institutions."

A machine that "smokes like a man" has been perfected—we read. The article didn't say whether it preferred plain or filtered.

Four planets are larger, four are smaller than the Earth—Factographs. As in other instances, this old world finds itself in the middle.

The city of Hong Kong's annual trade fair proved to be the hottest show in town. Just three days after its grand opening fire all but destroyed it.

Falconry dates back to ancient Egypt — Factographs. A long popular sport, thought strictly for the birds?

The British Isles, according to scientists, are slowly drifting westward. Does this mean, asks Milt, the sterling printer, that our British cousins will also soon be our next-door neighbors?

The cave man, new excavations show, according to the National Geographic Society, was religious, inventive, artistic and kind to his old folks. A real nice guy, it seems, even if he was badly in need of a shave and a haircut.

A date palm will bear fruit for 200 years — Factographs. How's that for a dandy long-term investment?

We should learn to slouch, declares a medico. Maybe so, Doc, but that attitude isn't the healthiest when the boss happens to be around.

The High Cost Of Disarmament

Control and inspection — the two prerequisites to any United States agreement on disarmament or a nuclear test ban—will not come cheaply. The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy has placed the cost of installing control posts in the Soviet Union to detect underground nuclear explosions alone at between $1 billion and $5 billion.

And a panel of experts who reported recently to the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency estimated the American contribution to international inspection costs as part of any general disarmament at $3.2 billion a year during the first disarmament stages. Later, the U.S. share of costs might mount to an annual $7.1 billion for inspection, international police forces, deterrent forces, and juridical and administrative functions.

The AEC has described the problems involved in setting up a control post in Arctic regions. Installation and operation of the stations would be hampered by long dark winters, temperatures down to minus 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, nearly impossible transportation problems during the spring thaw and fall rains, permafrost soil conditions and general inaccessibility.

Disarmament planners, however, are counting on these relatively expensive outlays to help ease the economic impact of disarmament on national economies. Various farsighted defense firms already have begun exploratory work on research and development with respect to disarmament inspection requirements.

Disarmament, of course, is a goal that will remain illusory unless and until it becomes evident that the Kremlin really will tolerate it. Given that, it will be worth whatever it costs in terms of money.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Am I A Square?

Every day, when I pick up the newspapers, I see articles and photographs about the private lives of Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher and somebody called Burton. And I am strictly bored. Does that make me a square?

According to the publicity and the photographs, the aforementioned Liz and Burton are in a picture called "Cleopatra" which, 'tis said, costs $32,000,000, which is a whale of a lot of money and which will take some doing to get it back. The also aforesaid Eddie is not in the picture.

Yes, I am told that all around there are eight or nine children involved in this exhibitionism and that sooner or later they will read the press items and see the pictures and they will, if they are properly reared, be ashamed or maybe they will become juvenile delinquents out of hatred and spite, or maybe they will go and do likewise when they grow up on the principle that it happened to them, why not to me?

The adults in this business have become a bore. Every time this Liz Taylor gets out of one husband and procures another, the publicity becomes fierce. I recall the woman when she was much younger and prettier. I saw her walking down Park Avenue, holding hands, with someone she was about to marry, also young. It looked very romantic.

Then I saw her on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf with another husband and she looked more womanly and harder. I never saw her in the company of the late Mike Todd, which I am told was an experience for the onlooker.

Eddie Fisher I only saw once, in the Stork Club. He was about to marry Debbie Reynolds and her people were with them—nice, simple, American people. It all looked so sentimental. Burton, I never saw face to face and therefore cannot say anything about him.

As I get the story, Fisher has two children by Debbie Reynolds; he has adopted Mike Todd's child by Elizabeth Taylor and an Italian child; Taylor had two children by her second husband, Wilding, but none by her first husband, Nicky Hilton, son of the hotel keeper. There is no offspring from Fisher but Burton has two children by his current wife.

Since the time of Nell Gwyn, it has been notorious that some ladies of the stage are more interested in their post-theatrical lives than in thespian responsibilities. In our age, this is encouraged because it brings the curious to the theater to see what the person looks like. Often the bark is worse than the bite, manufactured by press agents because it has heretofore been good business to have a bad reputation. Undoubtedly a leading opponent of the vilification of Hollywood's reputation has been Walter Wanger, the producer of "Cleopatra." Time after time, he has protested against the breaking up of families by press agents.

It is therefore difficult to believe that Wanger would be a party to the publicizing of the love affairs of Elizabeth Taylor, now in its fifth edition. However, whoever put up $32,000,000 to make a picture of the utterly amoral Cleopatra, who was married to her brother and then cavorted with the Romans as they came into her country, may have an interest.

Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw wrote footnotes to Cleopatra's career and were it not for that, the maid would undoubtedly be forgotten by now, when we have Nasser, the Puritan, in control of her country. But the movies will rehabilitate her as the Queen-courtesan, and young ladies will thrill at the identification as they sit in a darkened temple, lustfully holding hands with the latest swain.

Must there be so much sincerity that one who plays a part, must also live the part? The great Sarah Bernhardt or even greater Rachel did feel their parts movingly and Anna Held, back in the days of the Rumanian Yiddish Theater, was a problem to Abraham Goldfaden, her first impresario—so much a problem that he found it convenient to send her to a cigar-maker countryman of his in London by the name of Ziegfeld, whose son in due course became such a glorified figure in the American theater.

But what of the children of these smashed homes? What becomes of them? It is a sociological problem in the formation of character.

The Ominous Silence Over Communist China

By Joseph Alsop

HONG KONG

In Communist societies, a silence is sometimes more ominous than a thunderclap, an absence is sometimes more disquieting than the grimmest presence. In Communist China, this is perhaps one of those times.

A year late, with the prospects darkening on every side, the National People's Congress is at last meeting in Peking. But this meeting, always in the past accompanied by fanfares of publicity, is now progressing in felted quiet.

Not one word of any speech has been printed since the Congress opened some days ago. The public silence rather clearly suggests that the Chinese Communist leaders are saying things about one another, or about the Soviets, or both, of the sort that are best said in private. Expert opinion strongly inclines to this view.

Meanwhile, lists of the high personages attending the Congress have been rather prominently published. Judging by these lists, the absences at the summit are both massive and remarkable.

Those missing include six of the nineteen full members and all six candidate members of the Politburo, the highest body of the Chinese Communist party. Besides the vice premiers of China who are also full or candidate members of the Politburo, additional absent grandees bring the total of missing vice premiers to eight out of sixteen.

If half of President Kennedy's Cabinet and a third of the other leading policymakers in Washington suddenly, inexplicably sank from sight, the effect would be about the same.

To be sure, there does not seem to be any particular pattern in the Peking absences. Along with men known to be in disfavor, like Marshal Peng Teh-huai and the veteran revolutionary, Chen Yun, supposed favorites of Mao Tse-tung like Chen-lin are also among the absentees.

Some of the absences are normally explicable, like that of the Defense Minister, Marshal Lin Piao, long a very ill man who only holds his present post as a front for the ex-Beria of China, the former secret police boss who now bosses the army, Gen. Lo Jui-ching. But all the absences are not normally explicable. So the question is being asked whether the Chinese revolution has begun eating its own young in 1962, as the Russian revolution so voraciously began in 1934.

The true reasons for the strange silence surrounding the National People's Congress and the even stranger list of absentees will of course emerge later on. They may or may not be lurid. In any case, it is instructive to note the reaction to the puzzle in Peking of the large body of extremely intelligent men who spend their lives here in Hong Kong watching and studying trends on the Communist mainland.

If you had said "possible purge" or even "bad trouble in China" to these men three years ago, most of them would have been either greatly shocked or much amused. But now the uglier solutions head their tentative lists of possible solutions of the Peking puzzle.

The truth of the matter is that the Chinese Communist leaders are now recognized as having even worse trouble at home than their trouble abroad with Nikita S. Khrushchev. They plunged their people into misery; they depressed the national standard of life to a level without known historical precedent, in order to pay for the forced industrialization of China. By Stalin's system, China was to become a military-industrial great power.

But unlike Stalin, the Chinese Communists have not got what the people's misery was intended to buy. After a good start, the campaign of forced industrialization ground to a halt a year and a half ago. Thus they now have the misery without the industry, and since they have quarreled with the Soviets, they have nowhere to turn for aid.

Mao Tse-tung's policy in these stringent circumstances was announced in a remarkable New Year's editorial in the official paper, The People's Daily. This year is to be a year of consolidation, a year of hoping and working for a good crop. But when this "more solid foundation" exists, there is to be another "leap forward." Further harsh sacrifices are to be required for forced industrialization, in other words.

But how can Mao drive on his dispirited and starving six hundred million-man army to another attack, after the heavy defeat already sustained? One answer is to make the troops fear their generals above all else, which is why the inauguration of a Stalin-style terror in China is no longer regarded as out of the question.

Terror or no terror, it is clear that the Chinese Communists have reached a grave turning point. And even if nature is kind, "the one good harvest" everyone has wrongly predicted for the last three years will not get Mao and his co-leaders fully round the corner.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SMART CRACKS—The Advertising Council held its meeting in Washington recently and attracted some top-drawer speakers. One was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, just back from a 'round-the-world trip.

Mindful of his and younger brother Ted's foreign travels, Robert began by telling his audience that his brother, the President, had greeted astronaut Col. John H. Glenn Jr. by saying, "I was very happy to have you make the trip even though you are not a member of the family."

Another speaker was Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who spoke from notes, without a prepared text. He began by apologizing to reporters, most of whose shorthand is conspicuous by its illegibility.

"I'm sorry not to be able to give you a piece of paper in advance which would bear some reasonable resemblance to what I am going to say," Rusk remarked. "But there are times when I think I ought to make my contribution to protect the working press against excessive automation."

The audience laughed gleefully, but the reporters just went on scribbling.

BUDDY-BUDDY — Sen. John Tower of Texas and James E. Davis, a TV news official in that state, were inseparable buddies during World War II, in which both served.

The other day, Tower received a picture from Davis, taken of the two men standing together on a Pacific island, with the inscription: "To John Tower, without whose help I could not have won the war in the Pacific."

Tower dug out a print of the same picture and sent it on to Davis with the inscription: "To that peerless navigator Jim Davis, without whose assistance I could not have prolonged the war another year."

WASHINGTON HUMOR — In the interests of creating another of those inverted axioms, a Washington group is urging President Kennedy to put a bunch of cows in orbit so they can be known as "the herd shot around the world."

A veteran foreign service officer defines a diplomat as "a man who thinks twice before saying nothing."

President Runs State Department While Secretary Rusk Is Abroad

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Dean Rusk has now become Secretary of State again.' While he was in Geneva attending the Disarmament Conference, the real Secretary of State was none other than John F. Kennedy.

There was almost no detail JFK did not handle. He personally checked on State Department staff work, conferred with State Department subordinates, made decisions on individual countries. He even got involved in State Department personnel problems.

Kennedy was also on the transatlantic telephone to President de Gaulle in Paris and Prime Minister Macmillan in London — which, however is not unusual. He phones the heads of states in NATO countries, including Chancellor Adenauer, more than any other American President. In this case, he conferred with de Gaulle about the Algerian crisis.

In addition, Kennedy was on the telephone to Rusk in Geneva on every important move and ordered him to wait in Geneva for the Berlin proposal being readied by Foreign Minister Gromyko. It turned out to be a rehash of past proposals.

The public didn't know it, but Kennedy also handled personally the demand of Chiang Kai-shek that he be allowed to invade the Chinese mainland. With Chinese unrest increased by the food shortage, Chiang claimed the time was ripe. Kennedy considered this carefully, finally decided the risk of precipitating World War III was too great. Instead he ordered a close watch on Chiang to make sure he doesn't attempt an invasion without U. S. help.

It was also the President who made the decision to call Ambassador Everett Drumright hastily home from Formosa before the State Department papers were published on past U. S.-Chinese relations. They are somewhat embarrassing.

Kennedy also studied economic and political reports on every Latin-American country and even got into the act as to whether President Goulart of Brazil should address a joint session of Congress. He also read the latest intelligence reports on the growing crisis in Iran and decided to bring the Shah to Washington for a hurry-up visit to bolster the Shah's sagging rule.

All in all it was a busy three weeks for JFK. Now that Secretary Rusk is back, Kennedy is turning a little of the detail back to him.

One Judge Salutes Another

The highest judge of the land, Chief Justice Earl Warren, flew 3,000 miles across the United States this week to pay tribute to another judge, in this case a retired California superior judge—Peter J. Shields.

Judge Shields is 100 years old today. He was born April 5, 1862, just one year after the Civil War started. He has lived through the Civil War, the Spanish American War, and two world wars. But he continues to be a man who hopes for peace.

He also continues to have his faculties, his sense of humor, and, most important of all, his liberal outlook on life. On every birthday, Judge Shields walks into the Del Prado Restaurant in Sacramento to lunch with George E. Johnson, another California liberal, to discuss politics and the state of the nation.

So Chief Justice Warren, a Republican, is flying across the continent to help pay tribute to Judge Shields, Democrat, as the University of California names a park in the judge's honor in commemoration of his founding of the agricultural college of the university.

Dingell has been an alert consumer watchdog in the past . . . . Dan thinks things have gone fairly well, but not fast enough . . . . Congressman Wayne Hays of Ohio continues to be the No. 1 needler of the administration on foreign policy. He's friendly but at times also ferocious. He gets results . . . . He will run for the Senate against GOP Senator Bennett . . . .Wisconsin Congressman Robert Kastenmeier has put the controversial speech of Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell University in the Congressional record. Dr. Bethe, one of the top atomic scientists in the USA, lays it on the line regarding U. S.-Soviet atomic competition . . . . Dick Bolling, the Kansas City Congressman who was Sam Rayburn's private choice to be speaker, isn't nursing any wounds following John McCormack's election. Bolling is just as vigorous and effective as ever . . . . Congressman John Blatnik, slow-speaking Minnesotan, is one of the fastest movers in Congress when it comes to investigating highway scandals. Nothing gets by him . . . . Charles Vanik, Cleveland Congressman, is one of the few who have tangled with former Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. Most Senators shied away from Humphrey, a powerful industrial solon, but not Vanik.

Fixed Look Of Despair

By John Crosby

"The governess is a class rapidly on the increase; it is the only recourse left to young girls in the highest ranks of society who are forced to earn their living. She may be known by her plain and quiet style of dress; a deep straw bonnet with green or brown veil and on her face a fixed look of despair.'

"This appeared in a Ladies Journal in 1840, three years before the G. B. I. (Governesses' Benevolent Institution) was founded. During that year 100 governesses advertised daily in The Times for a situation. By 1850, 21,000 gentlewomen were registered as belonging to the most despised profession in Victorian England. Today the G. B. I. has no working governesses or private teachers registered on its books, and since December 1961 its employment bureau, opened in 1845, has been closed."

The above from an ad in The Spectator. A short story? Or perhaps an essay on society? I suppose you might say it's a happy ending. But I'm not so sure about that. "The fixed look of despair" has not disappeared. It has just moved from the face of the vanished governess to the faces of the mothers. Take a look at any mother with a couple of small fry tagging along in the supermarkets and you'll see whence the "fixed look of despair."

Somewhat hesitantly, I confess to being one of that vanishing class who were reared by governesses. I don't remember any fixed look of despair either. But maybe they kept it concealed from me. We had German governesses in Milawkuee who were quite strict but quite loving girls and I remember being very fond of mine.

And what's the most dispised profession now? Just because the profession of governess has closed its ranks doesn't mean there are not any despicable professions open to you young girls of the highest ranks. I know many young girls of the highest ranks who are in the publicity profession. Believe me, that's just as despised as that of governess in Victorian England.

The fixed look of despair on any young governess trying to cram French into some high-born brat can be matched any day by a young publicity lady of the highest rank trying to plant an item in Dorothy Kilgallen's column. In spades. As degradation goes, I think the governesses had much the better of it.

As one despised profession closes, there are always new ones opening. That you might set down as one of Crosby's Laws. There were one million servants in London once, but gradually, remorselessly, London moves to our own Nirvana where everybody (well, almost everybody) does his own dishes and makes his own bed.

But as the serving class disappears, new opportunities for humiliation open up for high-born young girls. Victorian England had governesses. We have Playboy Bunnies to serve the drinks and get their bottoms pinched. Don't you suppose the bunnies have a fixed look of despair in their private moments?

And how about the fixed look of despair on car hops, those miserable creatures who bring the hamburgers, dressed in their skintight slacks, honked at and pinched. (Of course, I don't know that the high-born get into that dodge much.) Or bar girls. Or in all the box offices of the world. Or department store elevator operators.

There are still a goodly number of despised professions around. But never fear, girls, automation will get to all of them eventually. The time is approaching—and not so very distant either—when the machine will make us all obsolete and the fixed look of despair will be on all our faces wondering what do we do now.

Really Reducing Means A Change Of Life

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There are three rules to follow if you really want to lose weight. The first is to eat less. This may be old stuff to the chronic dieter but there is no alternative despite all the wonderful scientific discoveries and highly touted reducing plans.

The 10, 20 or 100 extra pounds will not fall off like hair or skin particles. They must be burned up as energy and eliminated from the body as carbon dioxide and water. This cannot be done unless the individual reduces the calorie intake and forces the body to use up its own tissues for energy requirements.

But eating less is as hard to do as quitting smoking. Many overweight persons can control themselves for a week or two but thereafter it becomes more and more difficult. In addition, those who lose weight often have trouble remaining slender. This may explain the popularity of drugs and other measures to curb appetite. These are temporary crutches. What the would-be reducer needs is motivation.

This is th crux of the second rule. Anyone who wants to slim down should give the matter considerable thought before undertaking the campaign. Think it over. Consider the pros and cons. It means sacrifice, will power, new clothes, going hungry, and perhaps feeling weak for a certain period of time. The compensations are mainly in health, appearance, a sense of well being, agility, and avoiding more serious ailments later in life.

Think it over. A complete change in eating habits will be needed to keep the figure, because losing weight is only half the battle.

The third rule is never go back to the old eating habits that brought on obesity in the first place. There is no sense in kidding yourself into thinking that dieting stops when the desired weight is reached. We don't call it a diet at this time. It is a new way of eating—getting into the habit of consuming smaller portions, avoiding desserts, and ceasing between meal snacks.

Think it over and don't consult your physician about a reducing regimen until you are absolutely certain you want to make this important change in your life.

GROWTH HORMONE

J. E. writes: I'm a young man of 18, 5'8" tall. Is it too late to take the new growth hormone?

REPLY

Why? You are of average height now and it is doubtful whether the hormone will work at your age if you are otherwise normal. Besides, the supply of the growth hormone is so limited it should be reserved for those who are abnormally small because of a disorder of the pituitary gland.

PERSON TO PERSON

M. S. writes: If a person took just one sip from the other side of another person's cocktail and, unknown to the person taking a sip, the person drinking the cocktail had cancer, could the person that took the sip got cancer from the glass?

REPLY

No. Cancer is not contagious and does not spread in this way.

SLEEP COMFY

A. G. writes: Is it better for older persons to sleep on the side or the stomach?

REPLY

Any way they are comfortable and sleep best. Most people, old and young, prefer to sleep on the side.

FLASH PHOTOS

R. M. writes: Does taking flashlight pictures affect a baby's eyes?

REPLY

No, but use a screen over the flash bulb to guard against flying glass in case the bulb explodes.

TOMORROW: Rehabilitation of alcoholics.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Shamus, shivering and dishevelled, visited his doctor one wintry night, wailing that he was on his very last legs. The doctor, who knew exactly what Shamus was after, reached for his whisky bottle. "Drink up this slug, Shamus," he nodded, "but remember what I'm telling you. It's another nail in your coffin."

Shamus downed the potion in one gulp, then extended the empty glass to the doctor. "While you're at it, me lad," he suggested warmly, "how about one more nail, so long as ye've got the hammer in your hand?"

One of the top brass at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington suddenly decided he needed a rest and wrote to an inn on Cape Cod on his official stationery requesting a reservation for a fortnight. Back came a polite but firm note from the inn's management reading, "We regret to say that it is against our policy to accept persons from institutions."

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

To avoid any question as to my reason for writing this letter, I wish to state I have voted in Cumberland since 1904, and have been a taxpayer since 1913. My only concern is the welfare of Cumberland and Allegany County. I find it is necessary to disagree on some matters with the city government, but there is nothing personal intended as all city officials have been courteous to me when I talked to them. Cumberland is the heart of Allegany County, and through the water system and sewerage disposal plant it has the power to control the welfare of the whole county. We have a sewage disposal plant rated far above the needs of the city.

To avoid controversy over the use of this plant by people outside the city, I believe it would be fair to all concerned to add the same percentage to their water bill as is paid in the city. As water consumers outside the city pay a much higher rate than city consumers, the city would be receiving considerable help in paying for the plant.

Cumberland has a water system which delivers water which is unexcelled for purity in the eastern part of our country. As superintendent of this plant, we have a man of exceptional ability in Albert R. Nixon, who is devoted to his work.

About a year back, a Council member, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, became concerned about the future water supply of the city. She was however, unable to convince the mayor and other members of the Council of the need of taking some immediate action to increase our water supply. At that time, the water delivered to the two water lines was getting close to the two dams capacity to deliver. Since that time, leaks totaling about two million gallons daily were repaired in the water lines to the city. Leaks amounting to about one million gallons a day have been repaired in the city. With the stopping of this waste there is no immediate danger of a water shortage.

At the time the water question was being discussed, it was very unfortunate that a statement came from the water department proposing that no more water customers would be accepted outside the city. Coming at a time when business and real estate men were planning to build about a thousand units of housing outside the city, it dealt a serious blow to our economy. This policy was later modified, but as things stand at present, there is an air of uncertainty as to a future water supply outside the city. To encourage building, I believe the city should furnish water to any group of citizens who will install their own pipelines.

The competition to secure new factories is very keen and Cumberland must offer every inducement in order to secure new factories. I feel that it was a bad mistake to double the price of water to some industries. While this rate has been reduced, I believe it should be restored to the old favorable rate. This would encourage the present factories to expand, and would be an inducement for new plants to locate here. The water department is in good financial condition, and I believe it will remain so without the increased water rates. I believe it is highly desirable to deliver city water to the Ballistics plant, so that it will be encouraged to expand without the expense of drilling new wells.

The County Commissioners by their action in having a survey made of a possible water supply from the Savage River, have made it clear they are concerned about the water supply in the county. I believe it would be a good investment to extend the city water line several miles toward Rawlings, as it would create a building boom in that section. There are many high salaried employes at the Ballistics plant who want high-class homes. A branch of this water line could be built to the Ballistics plant. I believe it would be advisable for the city and county officials to confer on this matter, and if they consider it practical, consult our Representatives in Congress to see if the federal government would aid in building the pipelines. Considering this a depressed community, and the importance of Allegany Ballistics in the rocket program, I believe we could get a large part of the cost of these lines paid for by the federal government.

I am well aware that carrying water to the Ballistics plant would cost more than the city and county could afford at this time. The question naturally comes up, can Evitts Creek supply the water for an expanded water system? The answer is, yes. If I remember correctly the city estimates there is about 22 million gallons a day available, and this is a very conservative estimate. If those interested will go out to the city dams at this time they can see for themselves the immense volume of water flowing over the spillways. It is only a matter of impounding some of this water in a dam or two dams if practical.

The United States Geological Survey has a water gauge near the head of the backwater of the Koon dam. In the years from 1932 to 1959, the average daily flow was 30.2 cubic feet a second. This gives an average flow exceeding 19½ million gallons daily from the 30.2 square miles upstream. There is 64 square miles in the watershed above Lake Gordon dam. The flow of water at the water gauge exceeds seven billion gallons a year. The total flow of water above Lake Gordon dam is about 14½ billion gallons yearly. The storage capacity of Lake Gordon was estimated at 1.3 billion gallons and of the Koon dam at 2.3 billion gallons. Allowing for silt and considerable seepage, the combined capacity is about 3.3 billion gallons. A dam about opposite Rowzee's store would impound from 1.5 to 2 billion gallons. This makes a total storage of about 5 billion gallons. This water will yield over 13½ million gallons a day for a year. With a constant flow of water into these dams, we would have a safe supply of water for many years to come.

The business men of Allegany County are spending large sums of money yearly, trying to get new factories to locate in Cumberland. Due to the uncertainty of the water supply in Cumberland, they have no chance of getting any large factory to locate here.

I believe the Mayor and City Council should take immediate steps to hire a competent firm of engineers to make a survey for the location of another impounding dam, and make plans for the same. The necessary property needed for the area to be inundated should be purchased as soon as the water height is located. It is only a matter of time when Cumberland will be compelled to get more water, and I believe it is wise to act now, while the business of the county is increasing. If the city issues revenue bonds the water department will in time be able to pay off most of the bonds issued to pay for the increased water supply. If we must pay more taxes to help pay for this improvement, I think it is better than seeing our children and grandchildren leave town seeking work.

No one can guarantee new factories will locate here, but I believe that with an ample water supply, with good transportation facilities, tax exemption, and an abundant supply of skilled labor, we have a fair chance of persuading some industrial companies to move in.

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

To avoid any question as to my reason for writing this letter, I wish to state I have voted in Cumberland since 1904, and have been a taxpayer since 1913. My only concern is the welfare of Cumberland and Allegany County. I find it is necessary to disagree on some matters with the city government, but there is nothing personal intended as all city officials have been courteous to me when I talked to them. Cumberland is the heart of Allegany County, and through the water system and sewerage disposal plant it has the power to control the welfare of the whole county. We have a sewage disposal plant rated far above the needs of the city.

To avoid controversy over the use of this plant by people outside the city, I believe it would be fair to all concerned to add the same percentage to their water bill as is paid in the city. As water consumers outside the city pay a much higher rate than city consumers, the city would be receiving considerable help in paying for the plant.

Cumberland has a water system which delivers water which is unexcelled for purity in the eastern part of our country. As superintendent of this plant, we have a man of exceptional ability in Albert R. Nixon, who is devoted to his work.

About a year back, a Council member, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, became concerned about the future water supply of the city. She was however, unable to convince the mayor and other members of the Council of the need of taking some immediate action to increase our water supply. At that time, the water delivered to the two water lines was getting close to the two dams capacity to deliver. Since that time, leaks totaling about two million gallons daily were repaired in the water lines to the city. Leaks amounting to about one million gallons a day have been repaired in the city. With the stopping of this waste there is no immediate danger of a water shortage.

At the time the water question was being discussed, it was very unfortunate that a statement came from the water department proposing that no more water customers would be accepted outside the city. Coming at a time when business and real estate men were planning to build about a thousand units of housing outside the city, it dealt a serious blow to our economy. This policy was later modified, but as things stand at present, there is an air of uncertainty as to a future water supply outside the city. To encourage building, I believe the city should furnish water to any group of citizens who will install their own pipelines.

The competition to secure new factories is very keen and Cumberland must offer every inducement in order to secure new factories. I feel that it was a bad mistake to double the price of water to some industries. While this rate has been reduced, I believe it should be restored to the old favorable rate. This would encourage the present factories to expand, and would be an inducement for new plants to locate here. The water department is in good financial condition, and I believe it will remain so without the increased water rates. I believe it is highly desirable to deliver city water to the Ballistics plant, so that it will be encouraged to expand without the expense of drilling new wells.

The County Commissioners by their action in having a survey made of a possible water supply from the Savage River, have made it clear they are concerned about the water supply in the county. I believe it would be a good investment to extend the city water line several miles toward Rawlings, as it would create a building boom in that section. There are many high salaried employes at the Ballistics plant who want high-class homes. A branch of this water line could be built to the Ballistics plant. I believe it would be advisable for the city and county officials to confer on this matter, and if they consider it practical, consult our Representatives in Congress to see if the federal government would aid in building the pipelines. Considering this a depressed community, and the importance of Allegany Ballistics in the rocket program, I believe we could get a large part of the cost of these lines paid for by the federal government.

I am well aware that carrying water to the Ballistics plant would cost more than the city and county could afford at this time. The question naturally comes up, can Evitts Creek supply the water for an expanded water system? The answer is, yes. If I remember correctly the city estimates there is about 22 million gallons a day available, and this is a very conservative estimate. If those interested will go out to the city dams at this time they can see for themselves the immense volume of water flowing over the spillways. It is only a matter of impounding some of this water in a dam or two dams if practical.

The United States Geological Survey has a water gauge near the head of the backwater of the Koon dam. In the years from 1932 to 1959, the average daily flow was 30.2 cubic feet a second. This gives an average flow exceeding 19½ million gallons daily from the 30.2 square miles upstream. There is 64 square miles in the watershed above Lake Gordon dam. The flow of water at the water gauge exceeds seven billion gallons a year. The total flow of water above Lake Gordon dam is about 14½ billion gallons yearly. The storage capacity of Lake Gordon was estimated at 1.3 billion gallons and of the Koon dam at 2.3 billion gallons. Allowing for silt and considerable seepage, the combined capacity is about 3.3 billion gallons. A dam about opposite Rowzee's store would impound from 1.5 to 2 billion gallons. This makes a total storage of about 5 billion gallons. This water will yield over 13½ million gallons a day for a year. With a constant flow of water into these dams, we would have a safe supply of water for many years to come.

The business men of Allegany County are spending large sums of money yearly, trying to get new factories to locate in Cumberland. Due to the uncertainty of the water supply in Cumberland, they have no chance of getting any large factory to locate here.

I believe the Mayor and City Council should take immediate steps to hire a competent firm of engineers to make a survey for the location of another impounding dam, and make plans for the same. The necessary property needed for the area to be inundated should be purchased as soon as the water height is located. It is only a matter of time when Cumberland will be compelled to get more water, and I believe it is wise to act now, while the business of the county is increasing. If the city issues revenue bonds the water department will in time be able to pay off most of the bonds issued to pay for the increased water supply. If we must pay more taxes to help pay for this improvement. I think it is better than seeing our children and grandchildren leave town seeking work.

No one can guarantee new factories will locate here, but I believe that with an ample water supply, with good transportation facilities, tax exemption, and an abundant supply of skilled labor, we have a fair chance of persuading some industrial companies to move in.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Just heard a fantastic story which I must print as a rumor. I am reliably informed that Hugh French's hurried visit to the Roman scene of "Cleopatra" is to arrange for the siren of the Nile to star with Mark Antony in another picture, or do a play with him for old Vic.

Elizabeth Taylor, even while storm clouds have been gathering, and rumors have been as thick as pea soup, has said that Richard Burton is the best actor with whom she has ever worked. And needless to say, she likes him better than any other actor.

Richard, who may not be adverse to a little publicity, knows that another picture with Liz will clean up at the boxoffice. Besides, Liz, in spite of all the torrid publicity, is a good actress and would decorate his independent movie. But naturally, nothing will be done until "Cleopatra" is wrapped up —and when that will be, nobody knows.

There will be no need for George Hamilton to fly to Mexico to see his fiancee, Susan Kohner, because Suan will be back tomorrow. One of the backers of her movie, "Wounds of Hunger," died, and no money has been forthcoming to go on with the movie.

Susan called a press conference before she left Mexico City to say that if they get money she will return; that she loves her mother's country, and is grateful for the kindness shown her. Susan's mother is Lupita Tovar, one of the greatest of the Mexican stars, and the red carpet was put down for her. Lupita is returning here with Suan, and George will be with Paul Kohner when their plane arrives.

Only the one and original Bob Hope could swing a deal involving a whole nation backing a movie. Robin and moguls of India plan to bring to the screen a film to help India to "get in the movie business" with the government putting up $2,000,000.

The idea is to get away from the grim "image" of India with its beggars and illiteracy, and to present a more charming lighter side of the ancient land—right up Robin's street. Mr. Hope knows a few rope tricks they never heard of.

A happy June bridegroom-to-be —that's Arthur O'Connell. The sequel to the engagement story I printed a few weeks ago, that Arthur is marrying Mrs. W. Laird Dunlop III, is the setting of the official date, June 15. Mrs. Dunlop, attractive widow, is very popular in Washington, D.C., where she makes her home.

The ceremony will be a church affair in New York City which will be solemnized by Arthur's cousin, Rev. Thomas McNeil, a priest from the Syracuse diocese who has been granted permission to join his kinsman in wedlock.

Production Rises

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paperboard production totaled 365,679 tons in the week ended March 31 compared with 354,443 tons in the previous week and 320,592 tons in the same week last year, the National Paperboard Association reported today.

Storage Areas Grow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Underground gas storage areas exceeded a capacity of 3 trillion cubic feet for the first time, the American Gas Association reports.

CUF CHECK PRESENTED—Winfield Adam, left, executive director of County United Fund, presents a check to Robert Little Ebert, chairman of the board of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, in recognition of the organization's March campaign. The check represents the local chapter's qutoa to National Red Cross for 1962-63. Because of its participation in the CUF the chapter conducted a "Thank You" campaign instead of a fund drive. The check will be used as a portion of $1,300,000 the national organization has spent for disaster relief in the recent floods along the east coast area.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

Does the Supreme Court realize now how far-reaching and potentially dangerous was its recent decision that a Federal district court has the right to try a redistricting case involving the Tennessee state legislature? Until last week, the Court had always ruled that state reapportionment was a political question best left for solution to the people of that state. But last week the majority (by 6-2) reversed the precedents of a hundred years to state that where "invidious discrimination" exists a Federal court may intercede.

What does this mean? The majority declined to make any predictions, emphasizing that all that has been determined was that the Federal court did have jurisdiction in an area which had previously been reserved for the states. But the two dissenters, men of considerable vision and experience, were not so short-sighted. Wrote Justice Frankfurter: "There is not under our Constitution a judicial remedy for every political mistake. In a democratic society like ours relief must come through an aroused public conscience that sears the conscience of the people's representatives." Write Justice Harlan: "What the Court is doing reflects more an adventure in judicial experimentation than a solid piece of constitutional adjudication." Is it the place of the Supreme Court to indulge itself, and therefore the law of the land, in "adventures?"

Doubts were also expressed by normally "liberal" journals like the Washington Post and pundits like Walter Lippmann, who wrote: "There is no doubt that the two dissenting justices are fully justified in warning the country that if the door is opened wide, the courts may become dangerously involved in state politics all over the union."

However, it remained for the distinguished columnist, William S. White, to capsule the far-flung implications of the Court's decision when he stated that "something" is falling — "the Constitution of the United States as we know it. It is being altered not by Congress and people—the only constitutional way for its alteration — but rather by a monetary majority of a court which seems fatally determined to change the whole social and political fabric of this country — on its own writ and mandate."

This is not to say that malapportionment does not exist in many states. The "rural domination" of numerous state legislatures is well-known. But it does not lie within province of the Federal courts to right this wrong. Rather it behooves the people to eliminate any "invidious" discrimination that prevails in a state assembly so that the pandora's box of Federal control and domination is never opened.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I have something to say and I want to say it to the widest audience possible. So I'm writing to Ann Landers.

Why are people so thoughtless? I'm a perfectly normal human being who happens to be about 4 inches shorter than the average American woman. Like any accident of birth I am stuck with my size and can do nothing about it.

Yet every time I enter a dress shop the sales person approaches me with, "You're going to be difficult to fit. You're very short, you know." I know I'm short. How could I not know? A sales person with an ounce of brains would never say to a heavy woman, "You're FAT, you know." Yet they think nothing of reminding short people that they are undersized.

All my life I've been called "Half-Pint," "Pee-Wee" and "Shrimp." I've tried to laugh it off but it still hurts. And it isn't only the insensitive dolts who make these remarks. I've had them from intelligent people.

Please print my letter for the benefit of all mankind. Like a pebble tossed into a brook one never knows how far the ripples may reach.—WEE BUT MIGHTY

DEAR MIGHTY: Thank you for striking a blow for freedom. I am 5' 2" and it's downright boring when people repeatedly say "I expected you to be taller."

When I ask them why they usually come up with non sequitur, such as "Oh, from the picture of your face I expected a tall woman."

On the other hand, I don't object to that tired but friendly cliche — about good things coming in small packages.

DEAR ANN: I used to think this was a family problem but now I see it is something more. I need an outsider's opinion.

We have two teen-age sons. Robert is an excellent student. He has distinguished himself academically all through his school years. His younger brother barely gets passing grades.

We have threatened, punished and even tried to shame the younger boy into doing as well as Robert. Nothing works. In fact, he is showing signs of bitter resentment toward his older brother. Things are going from bad to worse. What can you suggest? — DEEPLY CONCERNED

DEAR D. C.: Stop holding up Robert as the shining example. In seeking to persuade the younger boy to compete you are throttling his initiative and making enemies of these brothers.

One reason the younger boy does so poorly is because he never felt he could do as well as his brother, so he withdrew completely. He figured that one who does not even try can scarcely be considered a contestant.

You parents need help from a professional so that you may learn to deal with your children more intelligently. I hope it isn't too late.

DEAR ANN: An acquaintance who works in this office has become an irritant. It's an accumulation of small things over the years — such as "May I borrow your car during lunch hour if you're not using it?" Or "Would you mind dropping this off at the post office on your way home?"

I resent his gall and I could kick myself for allowing him to impose on me. Yet I hate to say no because when I refuse him something I feel guilty. What is the solution? — DUCK SOUP

DEAR DUCKY: People who voice this complaint often fail to remember that THEY make "small requests," too.

If you wish to enjoy a clear conscience about saying no, make certain that you never ask this man to do you a favor. And I mean never.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The contract was awarded to the Herluff Larsen Company of Harrisburg, Pa., which submitted the lowest of six bids at $4,447.50. This figure, Keyser town officials noted, was less than the engineer's estimate cost of $6,360.

Charles Kiser, contracting officer for Keyser, said the dam will serve as flood control protection and also supply water to the town.

Aids Tire Structure

NEW YORK (UPI)—U. S. Tire Co., a subsidiary of U.S. Rubber Co. has announced development of a new chemical bonding agent for tires, which it claims greatly reduces ply and tread separations. KEYSER — The City of Keyser signed a contract for core drilling work on Dam Site 14, located near Laurel Dale, Tuesday.

The contract was awarded to the Herliuff Larsen Company of Harrisburg, Pa., which submitted the lowest of six bids at $4,447.50. This figure, Keyser town officials noted, was less than the engineer's estimate cost of $6,360.

Charles Kiser, contracting officer for Keyser, said the dam will serve as flood control protection and also supply water to the town.

Aids Tire Structure

NEW YORK (UPI)—U. S. Tire Co., a subsidiary of U.S. Rubber Co. has announced development of a new chemical bonding agent for tires, which it claims greatly reduces ply and tread separations. The compound, called CVC, stops separations caused by centrifugal forces at high driving speeds over sustained periods of time.

Plans New Wells

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. has announced plans to spend $1.5 million on oil and gas exploration and development in Michigan, where the company owns leases on 700,000 acres in 37 counties. The drilling program calls for 46 new wells.

Viennese Salmon Steak

Use a salmon steak about ¾ of a pound; season it with salt and pepper, roll it in flour, and fry in clarified butter to a nice color on both sides. Drain off the fat and add 1 pint of Rose' Wine. Cover and let cook slowly for about 10 minutes. When done, dress fish on a hot platter. Remove middle bone and skin, pour the sauce over the steak and sprinkle the top with chopped parsley.

Canadian-Style Bacon

Canadian-style bacon is cut from the smoked boneless loin of pork and is almost entirely lean meat. It may be roasted or baked in one piece or sliced and broiled, panbroiled or panfried.

Popular on the breakfast menu, Canadian-style bacon is also a good choice as the main dish at luncheon or dinner. It is easily prepared and, being boneless, is particularly easy to carve.

Fully cooked Canadian - style bacon is available in some markets and may be served cold or just heated through for serving hot.

To panbroil Canadian - style bacon, place bacon in fryingpan which has been lightly brushed with fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Cook over low heat, turning occasionally. Cook until lightly browned on both sides.

To roast or bake, place Canadian-style bacon on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast in a slow oven (300° F. to 350° F.) allowing approximately 1½ hours for a 2-pound piece and 2⅓ hours for a 4-pound piece.

To broil, place Canadian-style bacon on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so that the bacon is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil on one side until nicely browned, then turn and broil second side. The total time for broiling Canadian-style bacon is from 6 to 8 minutes for slices ¼ inch thick and 8 to 10 minutes if they are ½ inch thick.

Canadian-style bacon can be served in combination with other foods to enhance their flavor. Corn, asparagus, green or baked bean casseroles are a few that are good partners for Canadian-style bacon.

For luncheon, a casserole combination of Canadian-style bacon and potato salad is a satisfying dish. Use your favorite hot potato salad recipe. Cut ½ inch thick bacon slices in half. Spoon hot potato salad into casserole dish and place bacon slices on the salad. Place in a slow oven (325° F.) and bake for 20 minutes or until bacon is lightly browned.

WIFE PRESERVERS

The grocery list is common in every kitchen. Not so common, but just as time-saving, is a list kept for needed clothing, gifts, household items, etc.

Pared fruit will stay bright looking if you pour a little lemon juice on it.

Give Fresh Mushrooms New Twist

Cheese Stuffed Green Peppers

3 large or 6 small green peppers
2 cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper, to taste
½ pound sharp American cheese

Cut large peppers in half lengthwise and remove seeds and white membrane. Cut tops from small peppers, remove seeds and membrane. Cook in boiling, salted water for 5 minutes, then drain thoroughly. Meantime, melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and blend. Add milk stirring constantly and cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add rice and salt and pepper, to taste. Cut cheese into thirds and shred one portion. Cut remaining cheese into small dice and fold through rice mixture. Pile into pepper cups and top with shredded cheese. Arrange in a shallow baking pan, add ½ cup of water. Bake 350 degree oven about 30 minutes, or until rice mixture is heated and cheese on top lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Remember this for spring rains: soaking-wet shoes will not dry stiff if you apply saddle soap in their wet state, letting shoes dry with it left on them.

BLUE CHEESE BAKED MUSHROOMS
(Six Servings)

2 pounds large, fresh mushrooms
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
Dash minced chives
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
¼ cup sherry
½ cup heavy cream

Wash mushrooms and remove stems. Place a small piece of blue cheese in each cavity. Cook bread crumbs and chives in butter just long enough to coat crumbs nicely. Toss crumbs with remaining crumbled blue cheese. Place a layer of crumbs in a buttered casserole. Lay mushrooms, cavity side up, on crumbs. Drizzle wine on top. Sprinkle with remaining cheesed crumbs. Pour cream carefully on mixture. Cover casserole and bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes.

Fish Fancy With Wine

Wine is the secret ingredient. Wine is the very thing to make an ordinary Lenten fish dinner into an exciting meal that's truly "guest-worthy." Make salmon with Rose' Wine, and have a fish you'll be proud to serve to your family and friends.

Viennese Salmon Steak

Use a salmon steak about ¾ of a pound; season it with salt and pepper, roll it in flour, and fry in clarified butter to a nice color on both sides. Drain off the fat and add 1 pint of Rose' Wine. Cover and let cook slowly for about 10 minutes. When done, dress fish on a hot platter. Remove middle bone and skin, pour the sauce over the steak and sprinkle the top with chopped parsley.

Canadian-Style Bacon

Canadian-style bacon is cut from the smoked boneless loin of pork and is almost entirely lean meat. It may be roasted or baked in one piece or sliced and broiled, panbroiled or panfried.

Popular on the breakfast menu, Canadian-style bacon is also a good choice as the main dish at luncheon or dinner. It is easily prepared and, being boneless, is particularly easy to carve.

Fully cooked Canadian - style bacon is available in some markets and may be served cold or just heated through for serving hot.

To panbroil Canadian - style bacon, place bacon in fryingpan which has been lightly brushed with fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Cook over low heat, turning occasionally. Cook until lightly browned on both sides.

To roast or bake, place Canadian-style bacon on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast in a slow oven (300° F. to 350° F.) allowing approximately 1½ hours for a 2-pound piece and 2⅓ hours for a 4-pound piece.

To broil, place Canadian-style bacon on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so that the bacon is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil on one side until nicely browned, then turn and broil second side. The total time for broiling Canadian-style bacon is from 6 to 8 minutes for slices ¼ inch thick and 8 to 10 minutes if they are ½ inch thick.

Canadian-style bacon can be served in combination with other foods to enhance their flavor. Corn, asparagus, green or baked bean casseroles are a few that are good partners for Canadian-style bacon.

For luncheon, a casserole combination of Canadian-style bacon and potato salad is a satisfying dish. Use your favorite hot potato salad recipe. Cut ½ inch thick bacon slices in half. Spoon hot potato salad into casserole dish and place bacon slices on the salad. Place in a slow oven (325° F.) and bake for 20 minutes or until bacon is lightly browned.

WIFE PRESERVERS

The grocery list is common in every kitchen. Not so common, but just as time-saving, is a list kept for needed clothing, gifts, household items, etc.

Pared fruit will stay bright looking if you pour a little lemon juice on it.

Give Fresh Mushrooms New Twist

Cheese Stuffed Green Peppers

- 3 large or 6 small green peppers
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- ½ pound sharp American cheese

Cut large peppers in half lengthwise and remove seeds and white membrane. Cut tops from small peppers, remove seeds and membrane. Cook in boiling, salted water for 5 minutes, then drain thoroughly. Meantime, melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and blend. Add milk stirring constantly and cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add rice and salt and pepper, to taste. Cut cheese into thirds and shred one portion. Cut remaining cheese into small dice and fold through rice mixture. Pile into pepper cups and top with shredded cheese. Arrange in a shallow baking pan, add ½ cup of water. Bake 350 degree oven about 30 minutes, or until rice mixture is heated and cheese on top lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Remember this for spring rains: soaking-wet shoes will not dry stiff if you apply saddle soap in their wet state, letting shoes dry with it left on them.

BLUE CHEESE BAKED MUSHROOMS
(Six Servings)

- 2 pounds large, fresh mushrooms
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- Dash minced chives
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
- ¼ cup sherry
- ½ cup heavy cream

Wash mushrooms and remove stems. Place a small piece of blue cheese in each cavity. Cook bread crumbs and chives in butter just long enough to coat crumbs nicely. Toss crumbs with remaining crumbled blue cheese. Place a layer of crumbs in a buttered casserole. Lay mushrooms, cavity side up, on crumbs. Drizzle wine on top. Sprinkle with remaining cheesed crumbs. Pour cream carefully on mixture. Cover casserole and bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes.

Fish Fancy With Wine

Wine is the secret ingredient. Wine is the very thing to make an ordinary Lenten fish dinner into an exciting meal that's truly "guest-worthy." Make salmon with Rose' Wine, and have a fish you'll be proud to serve to your family and friends.

Kitchen Chameleon—A Cup Of Catsup

Catsup is one of those bottled gifts of the modern market that makes the chef's job a miracle of little effort. This rich tasting, ripe-colored tomato sauce is the secret ingredient in many delectable marvels.

For versatility in cooking, a cup of catsup or chili sauce will make a masterful contribution in soups and salads, entrees, appetizers, and a whole world of toppings. In convenience and availability, these bottled helpers store in the refrigerator, always ready to be of service with a "twist-off" cap to keep th remaining contents fresh for next time.

Some handy, dandy recipes to change conventional dishes to luxurious, new taste appeal and show the catsup bottle off in its true chameleon attire, are listed here. The simple hamburger and fried fish take on a new look and palette punch while shrimp and barbecued ribs delight in their peppy coverings. Whether combined with lemon juice and seasonings, mayonnaise or salad dressing, or Worcestershire and cheese, the tomato freshness of catsup gives the mixture a festive appearance and a happy flavor.

Creamy Catsup-Pickle Fish Topper

½ cup chil sauce or catsup
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tablespoon well-drained pickle-relish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons drained capers

Combine ingredients; mix well. Serve over or with broiled, baked or fried fish.

Yield: About ¾ cup sauce, enough for 4 to 6 servings.

Shrimp And Seafood Skimmer

½ cup catsup
¼ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons prepared horseradish
½ teaspoon grated onion (optional)
2 to 3 drops hot sauce

Combine ingredients; mix well. Chill. Serve sauce with or on shrimp cocktails.

Catsup-Cheese Sauce

1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Combine ingredients; mix well. Spoon onto hot hamburgers on hot toasted buns. (If desired, hamburgers may be placed under broiler 2 to 3 minutes to melt cheese before serving.)

Yield: 1¼ cups, enough for 8 to 10 hamburgers.

Jam Tarts Delicious After School Treat

Jam tarts are the kind of wintertime sweet that can be baked in a twinkling for the hungry after-school gang the day you do your pie baking.

Scraps of leftover pie pastry and spoonfuls of jam are the ingredients needed. Whipped cream is optional.

To make these delicious bite-size pastries, roll dough out thin and cut into rounds. Sprinkle the rounds with granulated sugar and fit them into muffin tins. Bake at 375 degrees about 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

Remove pastry shells from tins and fill centers with any flavor jam. Apple butter and raspberry preserves make good fillings, too. Serve each tart with a chic dab of whipped cream.

by Rep. Charles Mathias

The proposed amendments to our federal tax laws were approved by the House of Representatives on March 29. I voted against this bill because I believe it discriminated against every taxpayer in the United States in an attempt to close tax loopholes and increase revenues. The greatest example of discrimination against individual taxpayers was the requirement to withhold 20% of all payments made or credited to an individual in the form of dividends or interest payments. According to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, this withholding will be required on the 350 million savings and shareholder accounts of $10 or more. Under this provision, if you have a savings account of $100, instead of getting (at 4%) $4.00 interest credited to your account, you will receive only $3.20. The paying institution will send the "missing" 80c to the Treasury; the institution is not required, however, to tell the Treasury whose account the 80c was taken from. If you do not owe the 80c taxes, you will be required to go through the red tape, trouble and expense of filing an exemption certificate each year or filing for a refund. This provision will produce massive overwithholding and will be an administrative nightmare not only for you, the banks, savings and loan associations, cooperatives, corporations and insurance companies who may pay you interest or dividends, but also for the Internal Revenue Service.

This provision which is justified as a revenue raising measure will not even provide one-half the revenue needed to offset one of the give-away programs in this bill. I refer to the 7% Investment Credit provision which provides big business with a direct government subsidy that it has not asked for and does not want. I did not receive one request from a Maryland business to support this provision and only one request from a foreign corporation which only does a small percentage of its business in Maryland. Leon Keyserling, Chairman of the Council Economic Advisors under President Truman, calls it a "tax bonanza."

How does it work? In simple terms it says that the Government will pay 7% of the cost of any new depreciable property (excluding real estate) put into use by the taxpayer. This includes any new equipment put into use since the first of this year. It includes equipment that may be on order or that the taxpayer would buy whether or not Congress approves this subsidy. One company alone will receive a subsidy of over $80 million a year for expenditures which must be made regardless of the credit. It even includes equipment for gambling casinos, bars and race horses. If the taxpayer acquires $100,000 of new equipment, the Government pays him $7,000 (7%) by permitting him to reduce his tax payment by this amount. Even though the taxpayer paid only $93,000 of his own money for the equipment, he can put it in his books at $100,000 and he will get this amount back through depreciation.

This windfall, on the basis of the most favorable estimates of the Treasury, will cost the taxpayers about $1.2 billion in 1963—with an additional $360 million carried over from 1963 to later years — or a total of more than $1.5 billion. Thereafter, the cost will increase each year. I support realistic tax incentives for all businessmen which will stimulate the economy and increase employment, but could not support a so-called "incentive" which in reality was a give-away for big business.

Kitchen Chameleon—A Cup Of Catsup

Catsup is one of those bottled gifts of the modern market that makes the chef's job a miracle of little effort. This rich tasting, ripe-colored tomato sauce is the secret ingredient in many delectable marvels.

For versatility in cooking, a cup of catsup or chili sauce will make a masterful contribution in soups and salads, entrees, appetizers, and a whole world of toppings. In convenience and availability, these bottled helpers store in the refrigerator, always ready to be of service with a "twist-off" cap to keep th remaining contents fresh for next time.

Some handy, dandy recipes to change conventional dishes to luxurious, new taste appeal and show the catsup bottle off in its true chameleon attire, are listed here. The simple hamburger and fried fish take on a new look and palette punch while shrimp and barbecued ribs delight in their peppy coverings. Whether combined with lemon juice and seasonings, mayonnaise or salad dressing, or Worcestershire and cheese, the tomato freshness of catsup gives the mixture a festive appearance and a happy flavor.

Creamy Catsup-Pickle Fish Topper

½ cup chil sauce or catsup
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tablespoon well-drained pickle-relish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons drained capers

Combine ingredients; mix well. Serve over or with broiled, baked or fried fish.

Shrimp And Seafood Skimmer

½ cup catsup
¼ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons prepared horseradish
½ teaspoon grated onion (optional)
2 to 3 drops hot sauce

Combine ingredients; mix well. Chill. Serve sauce with or on shrimp cocktails.

Catsup-Cheese Sauce

¾ cup catsup
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Combine ingredients; mix well. Spoon onto hot hamburgers on hot toasted buns. (If desired, hamburgers may be placed under broiler 2 to 3 minutes to melt cheese before serving.)

Yield: 1¼ cups, enough for 8 to 10 hamburgers.

Jam Tarts Delicious After School Treat

Jam tarts are the kind of wintertime sweet that can be baked in a twinkling for the hungry after-school gang the day you do your pie baking.

Scraps of leftover pie pastry and spoonfuls of jam are the ingredients needed. Whipped cream is optional.

To make these delicious bite-size pastries, roll dough out thin and cut into rounds. Sprinkle the rounds with granulated sugar and fit them into muffin tins. Bake at 375 degrees about 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

Remove pastry shells from tins and fill centers with any flavor jam. Apple butter and raspberry preserves make good fillings, too. Serve each tart with a chic dab of whipped cream.

New Health Plans Urged In W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Wednesday that local health agencies should offer new and improved methods of care if they expect to get federal grants to support programs for the aged and chronically ill.

Dyer said 12 projects being considered but some of them merely present a proposed extension of existing programs, rather than new and better methods.

Suits Against UMW Transferred

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—Damage suits totaling $3.7 million dollars filed against the United Mine Workers union for alleged damage stemming from organizing attempts four years ago have been transferred to U. S. District Court here.

The 12 suits were originally filed last June 28 in the Eastern District of Kentucky at London. Several coal companies in north-central West Virginia filed the suits in an effort to recover damages allegedly sustained during UMW attempts to organize coal employes in 1958.

The National Labor Relations board in October, 1960, held the UMW guilty of unfair practices in its organizing attempts. The board directed the union to "cease and desist" from restraining and coercing employes of non-union coal companies into joining the UMW.

The NLRB referred specifically to five companies. They were Blue Ridge Coal Corp., M&T Coal Co., Marra Brothers Coal Co., Thompson Coal & Construction Co. and Sinsel oal Co., all in the Grafton-Philippi area.

The group will tour the Sterling Enterprise underground poultry facility at Manheim, Preston County April 18 and the WVU agriculture Center April 19.

April 16 Deadline On W. Va. Tags

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—April 16 has been set by State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols as the deadline for motorists to renew their special license plate tags.

Nuckols said after April 16 the special tags will be reserved on a first-come-first served basis. The special plates have particular numbers or letters requested by motorists. They cost an additional $5.

They are Arthur Lee Vance, 15, and Roger Belcher, 16, both of Scarbro. The jury has been asked to return murder indictments against the youths in connection with the deaths of Dr. Archer Wingrove, 84, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Georgia Broyles, 76.

Declarer employed rare delicacy in the play of his slam contract today. His caution was well rewarded, for the slightest slip would have turned a substantial profit into a loss.

South had something to spare for his demand bid of two hearts. When his partner made a positive response by offering a single raise, he made several attempts to reach a grand slam. North continued to sign off, however, since he had given his all, and South finally settled somewhat reluctantly for a six heart contract. Fortunately, he did not slip into a state of complacency during the play of the hand.

West led the jack of diamonds from his complete sequence and declarer took the trick with the ace. The combined holdings appeared to present a laydown unless diamonds broke badly. If West had a singleton in the suit there was nothing declarer could do to protect himself, but if East were short in diamonds South could conserve his high cards by forcing his opponent to play first.

Declarer led the six of hearts to the seven in dummy and returned a small diamond. If East ruffed in, it would establish the diamond suit for South. Trumps could be drawn with one more pull, and then dummy's small spade would be discarded on the good diamonds enabling declarer to ruff out his losing spade.

East decided to throw off a spade on the second round of diamonds, and South won the trick with the king. The eight of hearts was now led over to the nine, and another diamond came back. East was confronted by the same Hobson's choice as before, and once again he elected to take a discard. Declarer played the queen of diamonds and then led the six to ruff away West's ten with the queen of hearts. In the end, he surrendered a spade trick for his only loser.

Had he ever led a high diamond from his hand, he would have been unable to avoid the loss of both a diamond and a spade.

Declarer employed rare delicacy in the play of his slam contract today. His caution was well rewarded, for the slightest slip would have turned a substantial profit into a loss.

South had something to spare for his demand bid of two hearts. When his partner made a positive response by offering a single raise, he made several attempts to reach a grand slam. North continued to sign off, however, since he had given his all, and South finally settled somewhat reluctantly for a six heart contract. Fortunately, he did not slip into a state of complacency during the play of the hand.

West led the jack of diamonds from his complete sequence and declarer took the trick with the ace. The combined holdings appeared to present a laydown unless diamonds broke badly. If West had a singleton in the suit there was nothing declarer could do to protect himself, but if East were short in diamonds South could conserve his high cards by forcing his opponent to play first.

Declarer led the six of hearts to the seven in dummy and returned a small diamond. If East ruffed in, it would establish the diamond suit for South. Trumps could be drawn with one more pull, and then dummy's small spade would be discarded on the good diamonds enabling declarer to ruff out his losing spade.

East decided to throw off a spade on the second round of diamonds, and South won the trick with the king. The eight of hearts was now led over to the nine, and another diamond came back. East was confronted by the same Hobson's choice as before, and once again he elected to take a discard. Declarer played the queen of diamonds and then led the six to ruff away West's ten with the queen of hearts. In the end, he surrendered a spade trick for his only loser.

Had he ever led a high diamond from his hand, he would have been unable to avoid the loss of both a diamond and a spade.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If highly polished furniture develops a grayish bloom, it can usually be removed by wiping with a cloth just dampened with warm water containing a little vinegar. Rub dry.

For centuries a portion of the east coast of the Federation of Malaya was called the Beach of the Fire Ants, the National Geographic Magazine says. An enterprising Malay developed it into an amusement center and changed the name to Beach of Passionate Love.

New Health Plans Urged In W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Wednesday that local health agencies should offer new and improved methods of care if they expect to get federal grants to support programs for the aged and chronically ill.

Dyer said about $3 million is available to the agencies for studies, experiments and demonstrations to improve out-patient services for the aged and chronically ill.

Dyer said 12 projects being considered but some of them merely present a proposed extension of existing programs, rather than new and better methods.

Suits Against UMW Transferred

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—Damage suits totaling $3.7 million dollars filed against the United Mine Workers union for alleged damage stemming from organizing attempts four years ago have been transferred to U. S. District Court here.

The 12 suits were originally filed last June 28 in the Eastern District of Kentucky at London. Several coal companies in north-central West Virginia filed the suits in an effort to recover damages allegedly sustained during UMW attempts to organize coal employes in 1958.

The National Labor Relations board in October, 1960, held the UMW guilty of unfair practices in its organizing attempts. The board directed the union to "cease and desist" from restraining and coercing employes of non-union coal companies into joining the UMW.

The NLRB referred specifically to five companies. They were Blue Ridge Coal Corp., M&T Coal Co., Marra Brothers Coal Co., Thompson Coal & Construction Co. and Sinsel oal Co., all in the Grafton-Philippi area.

Poultry Farming Underground?

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A group of Virginia officials will take a look at underground poultry farming in West Virginia later this month.

The State Agriculture Department said the party, including educators from Virginia Tech, power companies and Virginia industrial and state officials will be in West Virginia April 17-19.

The group will tour Eggs Inc., an operation in an abandoned Chesapeake & Ohio Railway tunnel near Lewisburg April 17. About 10,000 hens are being used in that operation. The group will tour the Sterling Enterprise underground poultry facility at Manheim, Preston County April 18 and the WVU agriculture Center April 19.

April 16 Deadline On W. Va. Tags

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—April 16 has been set by State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols as the deadline for motorists to renew their special license plate tags.

Nuckols said after April 16 the special tags will be reserved on a first-come-first served basis. The special plates have particular numbers or letters requested by motorists. They cost an additional $5.

Grand Jury Weighs Murder Presentment

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. (UPI)—A Fayette County grand jury is expected to make its report Thursday on two teenagers charged with double murder.

They are Arthur Lee Vance, 15, and Roger Belcher, 16, both of Scarbro. The jury has been asked to return murder indictments against the youths in connection with the deaths of Dr. Archer Wingrove, 84, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Georgia Broyles, 76.

How the nation's retailers helped Americans build $121 billion in buying power

The store owners in your community are in a pretty good position to understand your needs and wants—and the importance of your saving for them.

At the start of World War II, they had a vital opportunity to stimulate saving—and at the same time help meet a dire need of their Nation—through the promotion of U.S. Savings Bonds.

Super Bond Salesmen

Few groups in America were as well qualified to promote Savings Bonds as the retailers. They sold over the counter, staged street rallies and parades, sponsored movie premieres, and used all their selling talents to get every citizen on the Bondwagon and help speed the Victory.

The job they did has paid big bonuses. Since 1941 Americans have invested $121 billion in Savings Bonds, spent $78 billion for the things they wanted as the Bonds matured, and are still holding a large $43 billion reserve as buying power for the future.

Bonds and your personal buying power

U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by Uncle Sam to grow as much as 93%. This means that the $75 you put into a Series E Bond becomes $100 in 7¾ years. Hold it 10 more years, and it becomes $145.

You can buy Savings Bonds at any bank, or on the "installment plan" where you work. And every Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America.

says Alfred C. Thompson, President National Retail Merchants Association

"As citizens, we retailers are proud of the part we have had in the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program. As merchants, we are grateful for the rich reservoir of buying power the Program has provided for the business community—and the security it has provided for the Nation. We earnestly recommend that Americans keep buying and holding U.S. Savings Bonds."

W. Va. School Head Endorses Federal Aid Bill

Cites State's Need For Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House education subcommittee was told Wednesday West Virginia is making a better than average effort to provide adequate schools — but the effort is not enough.

Rex. M. Smith, West Virginia superintendent of schools, testified his state ranks low in school spending because of the state's low income and a relatively large number to educate.

Smith endorsed a house bill to authorize a 3-year program of federal aid for education. The bill would increase state funds in most states by 2 per cent and those in the poor states by 7 per cent.

Per pupil spending in West Virginia is only 68 per cent of the national average and the state's average teacher salary is only 78 per cent, Smith said.

"We are attempting to do more, but it is our conviction that we cannot advance our relative position without such assistance as is proposed in the measure before us today," he said.

Smith said that although the state's population decreased by 7.4 per cent between 1950 and 1960, the secondary school enrollment in the state increased by 23,000 students, a gain of 16 per cent.

"West Virginia seems to have more than a fair share of problems," he said. "Among these problems are loss of population, increased unemployment, low per capita income, loss of qualified teachers and difficulty in constructing buildings and financing public schools."

Smith said West Virginia's 10 state supported teacher training institutions graduate about 1,000 qualified teachers each year. But because of low salaries and inadequate facilities, he said, the state is losing one third of these to other states and another third to business and industry.

W. Va. School Head Endorses Federal Aid Bill

Cites State's Need For Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House education subcommittee was told Wednesday West Virginia is making a better than average effort to provide adequate schools — but the effort is not enough.

Rex. M. Smith, West Virginia superintendent of schools, testified his state ranks low in school spending because of the state's low income and a relatively large number to educate.

Smith endorsed a house bill to authorize a 3-year program of federal aid for education. The bill would increase state funds in most states by 2 per cent and those in the poor states by 7 per cent.

Per pupil spending in West Virginia is only 68 per cent of the national average and the state's average teacher salary is only 78 per cent, Smith said.

"We are attempting to do more, but it is our conviction that we cannot advance our relative position without such assistance as is proposed in the measure before us today," he said.

Smith said that although the state's population decreased by 7.4 per cent between 1950 and 1960, the secondary school enrollment in the state increased by 23,000 students, a gain of 16 per cent.

"West Virginia seems to have more than a fair share of problems," he said. "Among these problems are loss of population, increased unemployment, low per capita income, loss of qualified teachers and difficulty in constructing buildings and financing public schools."

Smith said West Virginia's 10 state supported teacher training institutions graduate about 1,000 qualified teachers each year. But because of low salaries and inadequate facilities, he said, the state is losing one third of these to other states and another third to business and industry.

Gov. Barron Backs JFK's Trade Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Virginia Gov. W. W. Barron added his support Wednesday to President Kennedy's request to Congress for additional authority in setting tariffs.

A letter from Barron favoring the President's proposal was presented to the House Ways and Means Committee which is holding hearings on the plan.

Barron said the trade proposals would benefit West Virginia exports. "The trade adjustment provisions offering adjustment allowances, retraining and relocation fees for workers, product diversification incentives and other provisions are all desirable and a needed part of this legislation, if further economic dislocation is not to result in West Virginia," the letter said.

"I am particularly pleased the Kennedy legislation contains for the first time, substantial provisions for the relief of industries hard - hit by the impact of foreign imports. The trade adjustment assistance provisions must and should be an integral part of the final version of this bill.

"It is my hope the President will implement in full the basic provisions with respect to carpeting and certain types of glass at the end of the 60-day moratorium he recently declared.

"The domestic glass industry in West Virginia has suffered a great deal of damage due to low restrictions on imports in recent years, and deserves a measure of relief if employment is not to decline.

"The administration proposals for the '50 per cent authority' to bring American tariffs in line with those of other nations is hardly new, nor is a proposal to expand the 'most favored nation' theory with regard to the European Economic Community.

"With more than 70 firms in West Virginia exporting an annual volume in excess of $25,000 each, and with a large portion of these products going into nations aligned with the European Common Market, the necessity for such flexibility is brought home sharply to every citizen in the state.

"I hesitate to consider the condition of our economy if we were to suddenly lose the more than 60,000 jobs which exist solely as a result of the $156.1 million in exports West Virginia sends abroad every year.

"Our exports fall into several broad categories. Coal is still a major factor in our economic life, but the state also ships exports in four of the six major categories of U. S. exports—chemicals and allied products, electrical machinery, primary metals and non-electrical machinery.

"Coal exports from West Virginia totaled $100.3 million in 1960 and represent 17 per cent of total production in 1960," the letter said.

Hume Says Candidates Controlled By Slots

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—David Hume, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Wednesday slot machine interests are controlling some candidates of both parties in Maryland.

Hume visited several shopping centers.

The three major candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination are Gov. Tawes, George P. Mahoney, a Baltimore County contractor, and Hume, an attorney whose home is in Charles County.

Potomac State Tossers Edge Mt. Union; Beall Cops PVC Opener

Shaw's Long Fly Decides Game, 7 To 6

Rexrode Gains 2d Victory In Relief, Tomsey Is Loser

A long sacrifice fly hit to right field by Bob Shaw enabled Jim Chidester to scamper home from third base with the winning run in the eighth inning as Potomac State's Catamounts edged Mt. Union, Ohio, College, 7-6, yesterday at Keyser.

The triumph was the second in three games for Coach John Fox's Cats who split a doubleheader Monday with Montgomery Junior College.

Rich Rexrode gained his second victory of the season in relief, allowing only one hit in the last 3⅓ innings after stopping a Mt. Union rally in the sixth inning which gave the visitors a brief 6-4 lead.

Three Safe Bunts

Three successive safe bunts by Chidester, Stan Kolodziejski and Rexrode filled the bases for Potomac State in the eighth with the score tied at 6-6.

Shaw then smacked a solid drive into right field which was caught with Chidester tagging up and coming home with the winning run.

Potomac State had tied the score in the seventh when Hank Cleary singled, stole second and continued to third on an error, scoring on Larry Marteny's sacrifice fly.

Mt. Union, down 4-2 early in the game, rallied for four runs in the sixth to kayo Potomac State's first relief pitcher, Grant Mullen who had taken over for starter Dick Rawlings in the fourth.

Triple Clears Sacks

An error and two walks filled the bases for the Ohioans and they were promptly cleared on a ringing three-bagger by Heilman, Mt. Union's catcher.

Heilman was thrown out at the plate on Tomsey's grounder to short, but the Mt. Union pitcher, who went the distance, came all the way around on a hit and another pair of walks before Rexrode slammed the door.

Kolodziejski paced the Catamount swatsmiths with two hits including a triple while five Mt. Union players had one hit apiece, the biggest being Heilman's bases-clearing three-bagger. The lineups:

Committee Named To Probe Boxing

NEW YORK (AP) — Several thousand persons filed past the body of former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret, 25-year-old Cuban who died after a savage ring beating, at a Bronx funeral parlor Wednesday.

At the same time, seven New York state legislators, one a former fighter, were appointed to a special committee that will investigate boxing to decide if it should be banned in the state. Hearings will open in New York Friday.

There were new moves to end the sport in Canada and Sweden, and Rep. Abraham J. Multer, D-N.Y., called for Congress to ban radio and television broadcasting of fights. Multer said this would make them unprofitable. He called the sport "public slaughter."

The Havana press reacted furiously to the death, accusing American "commercial interests" of causing it.

Paret died early Tuesday. He never regained consciousness after he was carried from the Madison Square Garden ring March 24, after he collapsed in the 12th round from a beating at the hands of Emile Griffith.

More than 20 policemen were on duty outside the funeral home to prevent any disorder. One man was arrested Tuesday night when the crowd got out of hand.

National Loop Well Balanced

Best Sign Stealer May Win Pennant

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League is so well balanced this year that the pennant may go to the club with the best sign stealer in the scoreboard.

In the absence of accurate spring training reports on the agility and electronic know-how of the telescope spies, selections must be made on a provisional B. S. (before spying) basis.

The pick here is an outsider—the St. Louis Cardinals—a 6-1 shot that finished fifth, 13 games back, last season.

San Francisco, Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Milwaukee all are solid ball clubs that could win. Given a sound Vern Law, Pittsburgh also deserves to be included. Even the Chicago Cubs, who haven't finished better than fifth since 1946, rate respect.

Only the new clubs, the New York Mets and Houston Colts, and the Philadelphia Phillies appear to be in over their heads.

All of which means that a solid ball club must be picked as low as seventh in the expanded 10-club National League.

1. St. Louis
2. San Francisco
3. Los Angeles
4. Cincinnati
5. Milwaukee
6. Pittsburgh
7. Chicago
8. New York
9. Philadelphia
10. Houston

Peskin's Deadlocks Men's Loop Playoff

Peskin's Shoemen, fighting with their backs to the wall in the Men's Rec Basketball League final playoffs, came up with a thrilling 58-55 overtime triumph over the Police Boys Club last night at Fort Hill to deadlock the best-of-three series at a game apiece last night.

The setback snapped a 19-game win streak for the previously unbeaten PBC who won the pennant with a 16-0 record and captured three straight decisions in the playoffs.

Peskin's, outscored 22-20 from the field, gained the verdict at the foul line where they had an 18-11 edge of the Police Boys.

The Shoemen hopped off to a 15-5 first-quarter lead and hung on to stave off a last period rally by the PBC which knotted the count at 53-53 in regulation time. Peskin's outscored the losers 5 to 2 in the three-minute overtime to capture the decision and send the series into the "rubber" game on Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Allegany High's gymnasium.

Junie Perry topped the Peskin's attack with 18 points while Mervin Pope was best for the losers with 15. The lineups:

Shoemaker New Heir Apparent To Arcaro Title

Willie Close Friend To Retired Jockey

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Shoemaker is heir apparent to the saddle throne occupied with considerable authority by the little guy from Cincinnati for more than 20 years.

It wasn't hard to figure, but when Eddie Arcaro retired officially Tuesday after 30 years as a jockey, thoughts of most horse people immediately shifted to Shoemaker. Arcaro, 46, and Shoemaker, 30, are the closest of friends. They play golf together, and are members of their own mutual admiration society.

Shoemaker immediately latched onto two of the big horses in racing, the Bohemia Stable's Kelso and George D. Widener's Jaipur. They both were Arcaro's private property until the greatest money rider of all time decided suddenly to retire and take a business opportunity. In fact, Arcaro gave Willie a big assist in gaining the mounts.

"I don't think there is anybody to take his place," Shoemaker said modestly in the Aqueduct jockey's room Wednesday. He had just won the first race with Greentree Stable's Cyrano, the stable Arcaro rode for 20 years ago.

"He was the king. There'll never be another one like him. I don't believe," Shoemaker said.

Shoemaker was oblivious of admiring glances from around the room, but smiled when Jockey Con Errico paused, and said softly:

Hi-Y Takes Rec League Title, 49-44

Sweep Playoffs With Wise Chips

Fort Hill's Hi-Y tossers swept past Wise Chips, 49-44, last night at the Fort Hill High gym to capture the High School Rec Basketball League playoffs crown in two straight games.

The Hi-Y cagers upset Cresaptown's pennant winners in the semi-finals and defeated Wise Chips for the title after finishing third during the regular campaign.

Fort Hill trailed at the end of the first three periods, but rallied in the final eight minutes to earn the decision, outscoring the losers 15-7 in the last quarter.

Pender Closes Training For Downes Fight

Sparring Partner Sees Win For Paul

BOSTON (AP) — Former middleweight champion Paul Pender wound up his sparring sessions Wednesday for Saturday night's title bout with Terry Downes, and nobody's happier about it than Indian Willie Greene.

Greene, once a promising middleweight himself, has sparred 110 rounds with Pender over the past month. As of Wednesday he was an ex-fighter.

Greene, only 24, will go to work for his father, who owns a construction firm in Providence, R.I.

Since he once fought Downes before the tough, little Britisher won the disputed title from Pender in London last July, Greene was asked to compare the two.

"I can't see how Pender can lose," he said. "He hits a little harder than Downes and he's a better all-around boxer. I just can't see Downes beating him."

Greene battled Downes in a tune-up fight in London last May. Downes was credited with a three-round TKO, but Greene said Terry never knocked him down or cut him.

Green's appraisal of Pender being the harder hitter was surprising, since the tall sharpshooter is best known for his ability to hook, jab and move away.

Paul, an 8-5 choice to win back the title, avers that Downes' boring-in style is "made to order for me."

Frostburg State Hosts Altoona Campus Today

Bobcats Play Home Opener; Romney To Entertain Keyser

Frostburg State Teachers College will play its first home game of the season today, weather permitting.

Altoona Campus of Penn State will provide the opposition and the game will be staged at Frostburg Community Park at 2 p.m.

Bobcats Hold 3-1 Edge

The Altoona-Frostburg series was inaugurated in 1960 and the Bobcats enjoy a 3-1 edge in victories. In 1960, Frostburg won the home-and-home series, 11-3 and 8-4, but last year the teams split even, the score of each game being 6-4.

Coach Harold Cordts' team won its opening game of the season last Friday, beating Hagerstown Junior College in the Hub City by the score of 12-2.

Today's game will be the last for the Bobcats until April 16 when they take a four-day road trip that includes games with District of Columbia Teachers, Lynchburg, Shenandoah and Montgomery Junior College.

Keyser Visits Romney

Keyser High School goes after its second win of the P.V.C. season today when it plays Romney High School's Pioneers at Romney.

The Golden Tornado opened with a 13-0 victory over Fort Ashby. Romney dropped a 9-1 decision to Paw Paw on Tuesday.

Paret's Widow To Get $35,000 From Final Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—The widow of boxer Benny (Kid) Paret will receive approximately $35,000 from the bout which took his life, an announcement by the New York State Athletic Commission indicated Wednesday.

Tiny Lucy Paret, garbed in black and tear-streaked but calm, attended a meeting at the commission office Wednesday at which attorneys explained to her how Paret's purse from his fatal bout with Emile Griffith on March 24 will be distributed.

After the meeting, Mrs. Paret returned to the funeral home in the Bronx where her husband's body is lying. Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday night and the body was to be shipped to Miami, Fla., Thursday for burial.

48 Players See Action In 6-4 Tilt

Ft. Ashby Bows For Second Time, Werner Is Victor

Beall High's Mountaineers opened their Potomac Valley Conference baseball season yesterday with a 6-4 triumph over Fort Ashby High's Eagles in a contest which saw 48 players in action at Fort Ashby.

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone used 29 Beall tossers including six pitchers with Werner gaining the verdict with 1⅔ innings of hitless ball. Fort Ashby had 19 players in the lineup.

Beall broke a 3-3 deadlock in the third inning with a pair of runs when Gray opened the frame with a triple and came home on Richard's sacrifice fly to center. Ashby then doubled and continued to third on a wild pitch. Cole's single brought him home with the Mountaineers' fifth run.

Beall's six hurlers held Fort Ashby to three hits, all singles while Ashby and Cole each obtained two bingles for the winners. Gray and Cole each had three-baggers and Ashby collected a double in his two hits.

The loss was the second straight for the Eagles who bowed to Keyser, 13-0, on Tuesday. The lineups:

Rexrode Gains 2d Victory In Relief, Tomsey Is Loser

A long sacrifice fly hit to right field by Bob Shaw enabled Jim Chidester to scamper home from third base with the winning run in the eighth inning as Potomac State's Catamounts edged Mt. Union, Ohio, College, 7-6, yesterday at Keyser.

Rich Rexrode gained his second victory of the season in relief, allowing only one hit in the last 3⅓ innings after stopping a Mt. Union rally in the sixth inning which gave the visitors a brief 6-4 lead.

Three Safe Bunts

Shaw then smacked a solid drive into right field which was caught with Chidester tagging up and coming home with the winning run.

Potomac State had tied the score in the seventh when Hank Cleary singled, stole second and continued to third on an error, scoring on Larry Marteny's sacrifice fly.

Mt. Union, down 4-2 early in the game, rallied for four runs in the sixth to kayo Potomac State's first relief pitcher, Grant Mullen who had taken over for starter Dick Rawlings in the fourth.

Triple Clears Sacks

An error and two walks filled the bases for the Ohioans and they were promptly cleared on a ringing three-bagger by Heilman, Mt. Union's catcher.

Heilman was thrown out at the plate on Tomsey's grounder to short, but the Mt. Union pitcher, who went the distance, came all the way around on a hit and another pair of walks before Rexrode slammed the door.

Kolodziejski paced the Catamount swatsmiths with two hits including a triple while five Mt. Union players had one hit apiece, the biggest being Heilman's bases-clearing three-bagger. The lineups:

Hi-Y Takes Rec League Title, 49-44

Sweep Playoffs With Wise Chips

Fort Hill's Hi-Y tossers swept past Wise Chips, 49-44, last night at the Fort Hill High gym to capture the High School Rec Basketball League playoffs crown in two straight games.

Fort Hill trailed at the end of the first three periods, but rallied in the final eight minutes to earn the decision, outscoring the losers 15-7 in the last quarter.

Pender Closes Training For Downes Fight

Sparring Partner Sees Win For Paul

BOSTON (AP) — Former middleweight champion Paul Pender wound up his sparring sessions Wednesday for Saturday night's title bout with Terry Downes, and nobody's happier about it than Indian Willie Greene.

Greene, once a promising middleweight himself, has sparred 110 rounds with Pender over the past month. As of Wednesday he was an ex-fighter.

Greene, only 24, will go to work for his father, who owns a construction firm in Providence, R.I.

Since he once fought Downes before the tough, little Britisher won the disputed title from Pender in London last July, Greene was asked to compare the two.

"I can't see how Pender can lose," he said. "He hits a little harder than Downes and he's a better all-around boxer. I just can't see Downes beating him."

Greene battled Downes in a tune-up fight in London last May. Downes was credited with a three-round TKO, but Greene said Terry never knocked him down or cut him.

Green's appraisal of Pender being the harder hitter was surprising, since the tall sharpshooter is best known for his ability to hook, jab and move away.

Frostburg State Hosts Altoona Campus Today

Bobcats Play Home Opener; Romney To Entertain Keyser

Frostburg State Teachers College will play its first home game of the season today, weather permitting.

Altoona Campus of Penn State will provide the opposition and the game will be staged at Frostburg Community Park at 2 p.m.

Bobcats Hold 3-1 Edge

The Altoona-Frostburg series was inaugurated in 1960 and the Bobcats enjoy a 3-1 edge in victories. In 1960, Frostburg won the home-and-home series, 11-3 and 8-4, but last year the teams split even, the score of each game being 6-4.

Coach Harold Cordts' team won its opening game of the season last Friday, beating Hagerstown Junior College in the Hub City by the score of 12-2.

Today's game will be the last for the Bobcats until April 16 when they take a four-day road trip that includes games with District of Columbia Teachers, Lynchburg, Shenandoah and Montgomery Junior College.

Keyser High School goes after its second win of the P.V.C. season today when it plays Romney High School's Pioneers at Romney.

Paret's Widow To Get $35,000 From Final Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—The widow of boxer Benny (Kid) Paret will receive approximately $35,000 from the bout which took his life, an announcement by the New York State Athletic Commission indicated Wednesday.

Tiny Lucy Paret, garbed in black and tear-streaked but calm, attended a meeting at the commission office Wednesday at which attorneys explained to her how Paret's purse from his fatal bout with Emile Griffith on March 24 will be distributed.

After the meeting, Mrs. Paret returned to the funeral home in the Bronx where her husband's body is lying. Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday night and the body was to be shipped to Miami, Fla., Thursday for burial.

48 Players See Action In 6-4 Tilt

Ft. Ashby Bows For Second Time, Werner Is Victor

Beall High's Mountaineers opened their Potomac Valley Conference baseball season yesterday with a 6-4 triumph over Fort Ashby High's Eagles in a contest which saw 48 players in action at Fort Ashby.

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone used 29 Beall tossers including six pitchers with Werner gaining the verdict with 1⅔ innings of hitless ball. Fort Ashby had 19 players in the lineup.

Beall broke a 3-3 deadlock in the third inning with a pair of runs when Gray opened the frame with a triple and came home on Richard's sacrifice fly to center. Ashby then doubled and continued to third on a wild pitch. Cole's single brought him home with the Mountaineers' fifth run.

Beall's six hurlers held Fort Ashby to three hits, all singles while Ashby and Cole each obtained two bingles for the winners. Gray and Cole each had three-baggers and Ashby collected a double in his two hits.

The loss was the second straight for the Eagles who bowed to Keyser, 13-0, on Tuesday. The lineups:

Tawes To Sign Racing Tax Bill

Mile Tracks Sought Veto Of Measure

Governor Sees No Evidence To Change Mind On Tax Boost

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Wednesday he plans to sign into law Friday a controversial bill which would boost the betting take at thoroughbred race tracks by one per cent and earmark the extra money for purses.

Tawes said he will sign the bill unless new evidence is presented before then to change his mind.

The bill was strongly opposed by the three mile tracks—Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie—at a public hearing last Friday and since then owners of Pimlico have stated they will sell the track if the bill is signed.

Tawes said no compelling reasons were presented to him why the bill should be vetoed, particularly in view of the overwhelming majorities by which it passed both houses of the legislature.

Backed By Horsemen

The bill was backed by horsemen and half-mile tracks at the hearing. Opponents said the chief opposition to it came from Pimlico, whose owners also control a half-mile track at Charles Town, W.Va. and would have to boost purses there to compete with Maryland half-milers.

The bill would require that two-thirds of the increase go to higher daily purses at Maryland tracks and that the other third be set aside for special purses for Maryland-bred horses.

The tracks would not be allowed to keep any extra revenue, an the mile track operators complained that it would also take away their traditional right to negotiate with horsemen on purses.

Limits Race Days

Also expected to be signed by the governor is a bill which would boost the take at harness tracks by 1 per cent, let the operators keep the money, and remove the limit of 24 racing days which the state racing commission can allocate to a harness track.

No substantial opposition has been registered with the governor to this bill, according to members of his staff.

Other major measures he is expected to sign include the state's $22.3 million capital improvements program, a self-insurance system for savings and loan associations, reorganization of the State Department of Correction under a single commissioner of prisons and regulation of the home improvement industry.

Houston Stadium Project Delayed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The $15 million domed County Stadium, future home of the new Houston Colts baseball team, will not be ready for use before the spring of 1964—one year later than expected—County Judge Bill Elliott said Wednesday.

Elliott said the project is waiting word from the Defense Department as to whether the county will receive $2 million in federal aid.

Bengals Lose 7th In Row On Homers

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Yankees made only three hits Wednesday but two of them were home runs by Tom Tresh and Elston Howard and they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, before a record Henley Field crowd of 4,022.

Regan pitched well in defeat. He worked the first eight innings —the longest stint of any Detroit pitcher this spring — and allowed only one other hit besides the homers. That was a single by Bobby Richardson.

The Tigers got their only run in the ninth on doubles by Rocky Colavito and Steve Boros.

Celts Seek NBA Eastern Title In Playoff Tonight

Face Warriors In Finale At Boston Garden

BOSTON (UPI) —The Boston Celtics' six-season domination of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division will be at stake Thursday night when they meet the Philadelphia Warriors in the climactic seventh game of their current playoff series.

The Celtics, hunting an unprecedented fourth straight NBA crown, are facing a Wilt Chamberlain-led Warrior team that has beaten Boston three times in playoff games at Philadelphia, but has dropped all three games at Boston.

The Celtics, who won the odd-game advantage with a record 60 victories during regular season, face something of an uphill climb even providing they eliminate the Warriors Thursday night.

The latest NBA playoff schedule calls for the championship series with the Los Angeles Lakers to begin on national television Saturday afternoon and to continue with a second game at Boston on Sunday afternoon. If the Warriors take the Eastern crown with a win Thursday night, they also face the prospect of opening up with the Lakers on Saturday afternoon.

Los Angeles, victor over Detroit Tuesday night, will be rested and ready by the time the Eastern title is settled.

The Celtics announced Wednesday that 13-season NBA veteran Carl Braun, a reserve backcourtman, had suffered a left foot injury severe enough to keep him out of the Warrior windup.

Boston coach Red Auerbach was reported mapping new defensive maneuvers designed to cut the decisive scoring of Warrior forwards Tom Meschery, a rookie, and 34-year-old Paul Arizin. Their play on their home Convention Hall court, not the curtailed accomplishments of scoring king Chamberlain, has been generally credited with extending the series the full seven game distance.

Mets Edge Chisox To Sweep Series, 6-4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Mets edged the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, Wednesday to sweep the three-game series with their American League rivals.

Ray Daviault and Herb Moford, two veteran minor league pitchers, combined to pitch the victory. Daviault worked the first six and allowed four runs, two of them unearned. In 21 innings this spring Daviault has allowed only three earned runs.

Moford hurled the final three innings and stretched his spring scoreless streak to 13 innings in five games.

Pittsburgh Wins 4th In Last Five

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI) —The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their Florida exhibition season with a 2-0 victory over the Washington Senators Wednesday.

Three first-year pitchers, Bob Veale, Jack Lamabe and Diomedes Olivo, gave the Senators only two hits as the Pirates were winning their fourth in the last five games.

Bennie Daniels, a one-time Pirate who will open the season for Washington, was the loser. He gave up a run in the second on Bill Mazeroski's third spring home run.

Podoloff Considers NBA Retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Association since 1946, said Wednesday retirement is "within the bounds of possibility" but "I've made no decision."

Podoloff was asked about reports he was considering retirement with the presidency ticketed for Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors who is rumored considering selling the club to a San Francisco group.

Harness Officials Get Approval

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—A list of officials who will supervise the operation of Wheeling Downs Harness Raceway during the upcoming night meeting has been approved by the West Virginia Racing Commission.

The list includes Ted Leondard as general manager and racing secretary, and Edward Casey, steward and presiding judge. The track will open a 26-night meeting Friday.

Baltimore Assigns Seven To Minors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles assigned seven players to Rochester Wednesday, reducing their squad to 36.

Sent to the International League club were rookie hurlers John Miller, Tom Baker, Bob Leopold, Pat Gillick and Dave Vineyard, and infielders Bob Svaerine and Ron Kabbes.

Miller, a right-hander, won seven and lost eight last season in Class B and AA competition, lefthander Baker won three and lost four for Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League, southpaw Leopold was 4-10 for Rochester and Hawaii, Gillick was 10-7 for Little Rock of the Southern Association.

Cimino Appointed Gael's Cage Coach

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI) — St. Mary's College pulled a surprise Thursday when it named little-known Mike Cimino its head basketball coach, bypassing two other men who were considered in a head-and-head battle for the job.

Cimino, 31, has never coached college basketball. He comes to the Gaels from Cathedral High School of Los Angeles where he posted an overall record of 105 wins and 57 defeats.

A former guard with the St. Mary's varsity 10 years ago, Cimino replaces Jim Weaver who announced in the middle of the recent season that he would resign when it was over.

Evidence Found Of Plane Crash

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)— The Navy found evidence Wednesday indicating four crewmen were killed in the crash of an S2F anti-submarine tracker plane Monday in the Atlantic.

Search units reported that two helmets and a damaged self-inflating liferaft from the missing plane were found about 150 miles east of here.

The Navy said the helmets belonged to the pilot and co-pilot of the plane and indicated "very little possibility of survivors."

IN A WAY, you won't be able to tell the managers in the majors this year without a scorecard. Two new teams, of course, have added two new managers, but there were changes made in others last year and after the season and all told there are nine new bench bosses taking over teams for their first full season this year.

And this, of course, doesn't include the Chicago Cubs' 10-man board of strategy, although Elvin Tappe, one of the 10, will start the season as the head man of that club.

Six of the nine new mentors are former players, including Casey Stengel, the old boy who had a long and glamorous career as an outfielder before he became the colorful leader of the Braves and Yankees.

• • •

HERE'S A BIT of a rundown on the new managers, if you will:

METS—Casey Stengel. The colorful former manager of the Yanks, who sat out last year, is 71, started as a player at Kankakee in 1910, quit in 1931 and has managed since 1925. He won 10 pennants for the Yanks and seven world titles.

ORIOLES—Billy Hitchcock. Former infielder, 45 years old, was a star at Auburn where his brother Jimmy was All-American gridder. Managed at Vancouver last year. A former coach, he quit as player in 1953. Came out of the service as a major. Runs a hardware store at Opelika, Ala., in off season. Very soft-spoken, smokes pipe and chews tobacco.

ATHLETICS—Hank Bauer. Ex-Marine who starred with Yanks for years, took over managing A's last June 19. Became a major leaguer in 1948, lives in Prairie Village, a K. C. suburb. Rough and tough, easy to talk to, likes to hunt.

TWINS—Sabath (Sam) Mele. Signed to a baseball contract by the Red Sox out of New York U. Played with five major league clubs, became manager of Twins last June 23 when elevated from coach. Sam is 39, lives at Quincy, Mass., where he writes a weekly baseball column in off season. Pleasant to talk to.

COLTS—Harry Craft. Native of Mississippi, began major career with Cincinnati where he was star outfielder. Retired as player in 1948, began managing, is former manager of Kansas City Athletics. Was coach with Cubs last year. Lives in Inverness, Fla., will be 47 in April. Quiet-spoken, a real nice guy.

BRAVES—Birdie Tebbetts. He was former catcher, long with Detroit, has been in game 28 years. Graduated from Providence college, has been managing since 1953, formerly boss at Cincinnati. Was executive vice president of Braves, took over club as manager late last year. Birdie is very popular, good story-teller and has become a bit plump over the winter.

INDIANS—Mel McGaha. Handsome, serious, native of Bastrop, La., McGaha was coach of the Indians after managing at Mobile and Toronto. Graduate of the University of Arkansas, where he won nine letters, played pro basketball with the Knicks, played in the minors in the Card chain. Quiet-spoken, very conservative, no story-telling type.

CARDS—Johnny Keane. Long in the Card organization, took over last July as manager of the club. He's 49, very hospitable, once studied for the priesthood, was a minor league player and has been a manager since 1938 in the minors. Was coach of Cards when named boss.

CUBS—Elvin Tappe. Handsome, former Cub catcher, he's one of 10 coaches but will start season as manager. He's only 32, blond, talks like a college man. Broke into baseball with Henderson, Tex., in 1947, played in 51 games with Cubs in 1960.

Tawes To Sign Racing Tax Bill

Mile Tracks Sought Veto Of Measure

Governor Sees No Evidence To Change Mind On Tax Boost

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Wednesday he plans to sign into law Friday a controversial bill which would boost the betting take at thoroughbred race tracks by one per cent and earmark the extra money for purses.

Tawes said he will sign the bill unless new evidence is presented before then to change his mind.

The bill was strongly opposed by the three mile tracks—Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie—at a public hearing last Friday and since then owners of Pimlico have stated they will sell the track if the bill is signed.

Tawes said no compelling reasons were presented to him why the bill should be vetoed, particularly in view of the overwhelming majorities by which it passed both houses of the legislature.

Backed By Horsemen

The bill was backed by horsemen and half-mile tracks at the hearing. Opponents said the chief opposition to it came from Pimlico, whose owners also control a half-mile track at Charles Town, W.Va. and would have to boost purses there to compete with Maryland half-milers.

The bill would require that two-thirds of the increase go to higher daily purses at Maryland tracks and that the other third be set aside for special purses for Maryland-bred horses.

The tracks would not be allowed to keep any extra revenue, an the mile track operators complained that it would also take away their traditional right to negotiate with horsemen on purses.

Limits Race Days

Also expected to be signed by the governor is a bill which would boost the take at harness tracks by 1 per cent, let the operators keep the money, and remove the limit of 24 racing days which the state racing commission can allocate to a harness track.

No substantial opposition has been registered with the governor to this bill, according to members of his staff.

Other major measures he is expected to sign include the state's $22.3 million capital improvements program, a self-insurance system for savings and loan associations, reorganization of the State Department of Correction under a single commissioner of prisons and regulation of the home improvement industry.

Houston Stadium Project Delayed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The $15 million domed County Stadium, future home of the new Houston Colts baseball team, will not be ready for use before the spring of 1964—one year later than expected—County Judge Bill Elliott said Wednesday.

Elliott said the project is waiting word from the Defense Department as to whether the county will receive $2 million in federal aid.

Yanks Edge Tigers, 2-1

Bengals Lose 7th In Row On Homers

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Yankees made only three hits Wednesday but two of them were home runs by Tom Tresh and Elston Howard and they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, before a record Henley Field crowd of 4,022.

Tresh and Howard connected off Phil Regan to hand the Tigers their seventh straight loss and the 12th setback in their last 14 games.

Regan pitched well in defeat. He worked the first eight innings —the longest stint of any Detroit pitcher this spring — and allowed only one other hit besides the homers. That was a single by Bobby Richardson.

The Tigers got their only run in the ninth on doubles by Rocky Colavito and Steve Boros.

Jim Coates, the winner, blanked the Tigers on six hits for the first seven innings. Roland Sheldon finished up.

IN A WAY, you won't be able to tell the managers in the majors this year without a scorecard. Two new teams, of course, have added two new managers, but there were changes made in others last year and after the season and all told there are nine new bench bosses taking over teams for their first full season this year.

And this, of course, doesn't include the Chicago Cubs' 10-man board of strategy, although Elvin Tappe, one of the 10, will start the season as the head man of that club.

Six ot the nine new mentors are former players, including Casey Stengel, the old boy who had a long and glamorous career as an outfielder before he became the colorful leader of the Braves and Yankees.

• • •

METS—Casey Stengel. The colorful former manager of the Yanks, who sat out last year, is 71, started as a player at Kankakee in 1910, quit in 1931 and has managed since 1925. He won 10 pennants for the Yanks and seven world titles.

ORIOLES—Billy Hitchcock. Former infielder, 45 years old, was a star at Auburn where his brother Jimmy was All-American gridder. Managed at Vancouver last year. A former coach, he quit as player in 1953. Came out of the service as a major. Runs a hardware store at Opelika, Ala., in off season. Very soft-spoken, smokes pipe and chews tobacco.

ATHLETICS—Hank Bauer. Ex-Marine who starred with Yanks for years, took over managing A's last June 19. Became a major leaguer in 1948, lives in Prairie Village, a K. C. suburb. Rough and tough, easy to talk to, likes to hunt.

TWINS—Sabath (Sam) Mele. Signed to a baseball contract by the Red Sox out of New York U. Played with five major league clubs, became manager of Twins last June 23 when elevated from coach. Sam is 39, lives at Quincy, Mass., where he writes a weekly baseball column in off season. Pleasant to talk to.

COLTS—Harry Craft. Native of Mississippi, began major career with Cincinnati where he was star outfielder. Retired as player in 1948, began managing, is former manager of Kansas City Athletics. Was coach with Cubs last year. Lives in Inverness, Fla., will be 47 in April. Quiet-spoken, a real nice guy.

BRAVES—Birdie Tebbetts. He was former catcher, long with Detroit, has been in game 28 years. Graduated from Providence college, has been managing since 1953, formerly boss at Cincinnati. Was executive vice president of Braves, took over club as manager late last year. Birdie is very popular, good story-teller and has become a bit plump over the winter.

INDIANS—Mel McGaha. Handsome, serious, native of Bastrop, La., McGaha was coach of the Indians after managing at Mobile and Toronto. Graduate of the University of Arkansas, where he won nine letters, played pro basketball with the Knicks, played in the minors in the Card chain. Quiet-spoken, very conservative, no story-telling type.

CARDS—Johnny Keane. Long in the Card organization, took over last July as manager of the club. He's '49, very hospitable, once studied for the priesthood, was a minor league player and has been a manager since 1938 in the minors. Was coach of Cards when named boss.

CUBS—Elvin Tappe. Handsome, former Cub catcher, he's one of 10 coaches but will start season as manager. He's only 32, blond, talks like a college man. Broke into baseball with Henderson, Tex., in 1947, played in 51 games with Cubs in 1960.

Celts Seek NBA Eastern Title In Playoff Tonight

Face Warriors In Finale At Boston Garden

BOSTON (UPI) —The Boston Celtics' six-season domination of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division will be at stake Thursday night when they meet the Philadelphia Warriors in the climactic seventh game of their current playoff series.

The Celtics, hunting an unprecedented fourth straight NBA crown, are facing a Wilt Chamberlain-led Warrior team that has beaten Boston three times in playoff games at Philadelphia, but has dropped all three games at Boston.

The Celtics, who won the odd-game advantage with a record 60 victories during regular season, face something of an uphill climb even providing they eliminate the Warriors Thursday night.

The latest NBA playoff schedule calls for the championship series with the Los Angeles Lakers to begin on national television Saturday afternoon and to continue with a second game at Boston on Sunday afternoon. If the Warriors take the Eastern crown with a win Thursday night, they also face the prospect of opening up with the Lakers on Saturday afternoon.

Los Angeles, victor over Detroit Tuesday night, will be rested and ready by the time the Eastern title is settled.

The Celtics announced Wednesday that 13-season NBA veteran Carl Braun, a reserve backcourtman, had suffered a left foot injury severe enough to keep him out of the Warrior windup.

Boston coach Red Auerbach was reported mapping new defensive maneuvers designed to cut the decisive scoring of Warrior forwards Tom Meschery, a rookie, and 34-year-old Paul Arizin. Their play on their home Convention Hall court, not the curtailed accomplishments of scoring king Chamberlain, has been generally credited with extending the series the full seven game distance.

Mets Edge Chisox To Sweep Series, 6-4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Mets edged the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, Wednesday to sweep the three-game series with their American League rivals.

Ray Daviault and Herb Moford, two veteran minor league pitchers, combined to pitch the victory. Daviault worked the first six and allowed four runs, two of them unearned. In 21 innings this spring Daviault has allowed only three earned runs.

Moford hurled the final three innings and stretched his spring scoreless streak to 13 innings in five games.

Pittsburgh Wins 4th In Last Five

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI) —The Pittsburgh Pirates closed their Florida exhibition season with a 2-0 victory over the Washington Senators Wednesday.

Three first-year pitchers, Bob Veale, Jack Lamabe and Diomedes Olivo, gave the Senators only two hits as the Pirates were winning their fourth in the last five games.

Bennie Daniels, a one-time Pirate who will open the season for Washington, was the loser. He gave up a run in the second on Bill Mazeroski's third spring home run.

Podoloff Considers NBA Retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Association since 1946, said Wednesday retirement is "within the bounds of possibility" but "I've made no decision."

Podoloff was asked about reports he was considering retirement with the presidency ticketed for Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors who is rumored considering selling the club to a San Francisco group.

Cimino Appointed Gael's Cage Coach

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI) — St. Mary's College pulled a surprise Thursday when it named little-known Mike Cimino its head basketball coach, bypassing two other men who were considered in a head-and-head battle for the job.

Cimino, 31, has never coached college basketball. He comes to the Gaels from Cathedral High School of Los Angeles where he posted an overall record of 105 wins and 57 defeats.

A former guard with the St. Mary's varsity 10 years ago, Cimino replaces Jim Weaver who announced in the middle of the recent season that he would resign when it was over.

Evidence Found Of Plane Crash

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)— The Navy found evidence Wednesday indicating four crewmen were killed in the crash of an S2F anti-submarine tracker plane Monday in the Atlantic.

Search units reported that two helmets and a damaged self-inflating liferaft from the missing plane were found about 150 miles east of here.

Arnold Palmer Favorite To Take 26th Masters Golf Tournament

Field Of 110 Largest To Play Augusta

Threesomes Open First Two Rounds On Course Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, bold as a pirate and strong enough to choke a tiger with his bare hands, is a 3-1 favorite to whip a record field in the 26th Masters Golf Tournament, starting Thursday.

The relaxed confident professional from Latrobe, Pa., heads a list of 110 of the world's premier amateur and pro shotmakers who tee off, starting at 9:15 a.m. EST, on the first round of a four-day, 72-hole battle with the Augusta National course.

The field is so large, surpassing by eight the previous record of 102 in 1957, that the organizers found it necessary to break with tradition and send the competitors off on the first two days in threesomes, instead of the customary twosomes.

Starts At 12:58

Palmer, who has won two of the last four championships and missed the other two by the combined margin of three strokes, goes off at 12:58 p.m. with Bill Hyndman III, the stylish Walker Cup amateur star from Philadelphia, and Mike Souchak, the former Duke football player.

It's a good pairing for the favorite. Hyndman is one of the game's finest craftsmen. Souchak, like Palmer, loves to pulverize the ball off the tee and he'll give Palmer a target to shoot at in distance.

While wagering is illegal and frowned upon by the Masters sponsors, an Augusta bookmaker put out a line which showed Palmer at 3-1 one of the shortest priced favorites in the tournament's history. Ben Hogan, in his heyday, was seldom better than 6-1.

The defending champion, Gary Player of South Africa, was listed as a 4-1 second choice with Bill Casper Jr., whose phenomenal putting touch has projected him to the top of the year's money-winner list, and Doug Sanders, the man with the hurry-up swing.

Rated Strong Threat

Jack Nicklaus, 21-year-old slugger from Columbus, Ohio, who turned pro shortly after winning the National Amateur title last fall, is rated a strong threat a a 5-1. Observers know he has the game but wonder if he has matured enough to stand the severe pressures of a test of this caliber.

An amateur has never won this prized championship, but two of them—Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.—are rated at 6-1 with U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Dow Finsterwald, Ken Venturi and Phil Rodgers.

THE MASTER?—Master of the Masters may be Arnold Palmer, the 32-year-old two-time champ of the famed golfing event at Augusta, Ga., who almost won a third last year. Palmer will be the favorite in the event, which starts April 5.

McCann Resigns Redskins Post

McPeak To Assume Manager's Duties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill McPeak, head coach of the Washington Redskins, took on the added duties of general manager of the National Football League club Wednesday following the resignation of Dick McCann. McCann quit to become director of professional football's Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio.

Dave Slattery, publcity director of the Redskins, was named assistant general manager. McCann, a former newspaper man, joined the Redskins as publicity director in 1946 and the following year was named general manager.

Earl Schreiber, president of the Hall of Fame which is expected to be in operation by late next year, said the trustees voted unanimously Tuesday to make the 51-year-old McCann the hall's first director.

No salary was announced but reports were it would be in the neighborhood of $20,000 a year.

Arnold Palmer Favorite To Take 26th Masters Golf Tournament

Field Of 110 Largest To Play Augusta

Threesomes Open First Two Rounds On Course Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, bold as a pirate and strong enough to choke a tiger with his bare hands, is a 3-1 favorite to whip a record field in the 26th Masters Golf Tournament, starting Thursday.

The relaxed confident professional from Latrobe, Pa., heads a list of 110 of the world's premier amateur and pro shotmakers who tee off, starting at 9:15 a.m. EST, on the first round of a four-day, 72-hole battle with the Augusta National course.

The field is so large, surpassing by eight the previous record of 102 in 1957, that the organizers found it necessary to break with tradition and send the competitors off on the first two days in threesomes, instead of the customary twosomes.

Starts At 12:58

Palmer, who has won two of the last four championships and missed the other two by the combined margin of three strokes, goes off at 12:58 p.m. with Bill Hyndman III, the stylish Walker Cup amateur star from Philadelphia, and Mike Souchak, the former Duke football player.

It's a good pairing for the favorite. Hyndman is one of the game's finest craftsmen. Souchak, like Palmer, loves to pulverize the ball off the tee and he'll give Palmer a target to shoot at in distance.

While wagering is illegal and frowned upon by the Masters sponsors, an Augusta bookmaker put out a line which showed Palmer at 3-1 one of the shortest priced favorites in the tournament's history. Ben Hogan, in his heyday, was seldom better than 6-1.

The defending champion, Gary Player of South Africa, was listed as a 4-1 second choice with Bill Casper Jr., whose phenomenal putting touch has projected him to the top of the year's money-winner list, and Doug Sanders, the man with the hurry-up swing.

Rated Strong Threat

Jack Nicklaus, 21-year-old slugger from Columbus, Ohio, who turned pro shortly after winning the National Amateur title last fall, is rated a strong threat a a 5-1. Observers know he has the game but wonder if he has matured enough to stand the severe pressures of a test of this caliber.

An amateur has never won this prized championship, but two of them—Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.—are rated at 6-1 with U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Dow Finsterwald, Ken Venturi and Phil Rodgers.

THE MASTER?—Master of the Masters may be Arnold Palmer, the 32-year-old two-time champ of the famed golfing event at Augusta, Ga., who almost won a third last year. Palmer will be the favorite in the event, which starts April 5.

Cubs' Rally Tops Los Angels, 6-5

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs rallied for four runs in the ninth inning Wednesday to nose out the Dodgers 6-5. It was the fourth consecutive last-inning defeat for Los Angeles which now is 15-11 for the spring.

Joe Moller opened the ninth by walking the Cub leadoff man Lou Brock. Then he was forced to retire in favor of lefty Nick Willhite because his arm had tightened up. Willhite was rapped for four hits, then walked one intentionally and another one unintentionally to force the winning run across.

Stock Quotations Show Slow But Steady Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The almost-unbroken decline in the stock market for the past two weeks continued Wednesday as the Dow Jones industrial average slipped beneath the 700 level and neared the 1962 lows.

The Dow industrials fell 3.72 to 696.88, a fairly moderate drop.

Motors, chemicals and selected issues advanced in the morning and the averages at noon were slightly higher.

The rise petered out, however, and traders unloaded when they saw that, once again, the list didn't have any real upward drive.

Motors wiped out their gains and closed generally lower. The chemicals were mixed at best, with Union Carbide off 2 and Du Pont up ¼. The top three steelmakers lost fractions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .90 to 254.40 with industrials off 1.50, rails off .70 to a new low for the year and utilities off .10.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined, one advanced and three were unchanged.

Prices also fell on the American Stock Exchange.

Stock Quotations Show Slow But Steady Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The almost-unbroken decline in the stock market for the past two weeks continued Wednesday as the Dow Jones industrial average slipped beneath the 700 level and neared the 1962 lows.

A rally has always developed so far this year from the vicinity of the Dow 690 and that's what Wall Street is hoping for.

The Dow industrials fell 3.72 to 696.88, a fairly moderate drop.

Motors, chemicals and selected issues advanced in the morning and the averages at noon were slightly higher.

The rise petered out, however, and traders unloaded when they saw that, once again, the list didn't have any real upward drive.

Motors wiped out their gains and closed generally lower. The chemicals were mixed at best, with Union Carbide off 2 and Du Pont up ¼. The top three steelmakers lost fractions.

Of 1,297 issues traded, 669 fell and 352 rose. New highs for the year totaled 27 and new lows 154.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .90 to 254.40 with industrials off 1.50, rails off .70 to a new low for the year and utilities off .10.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined, one advanced and three were unchanged.

Prices also fell on the American Stock Exchange.

WANTED to buy ads are just as effective as for sale ads. A small investment in an ad will probably find you just the article or property you need at a reasonable price. Someone always has what the other fellow needs if they can just get together

YOU MIGHT not see an ad for a current model automobile or a slightly used television set in a newspaper a couple of centuries old, but one thing sure you'll find want ads. This proves that want ads have always brought results and are definitely here to stay.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To store leftover egg yolks, put them in the refrigerator in a cup and add just enough cold water to cover them. Leftover whites should be refrigerated in a tightly covered container.

The TV-cushion idea is applicable to extra sleeping accommodations as well as sitting. Cover foam rubber bed pads in harmonizing colors and stack them to make a divan. Separated, they'll do very well for a flock of overnight guests.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To store leftover egg yolks, put them in the refrigerator in a cup and add just enough cold water to cover them. Leftover whites should be refrigerated in a tightly covered container.

The TV-cushion idea is applicable to extra sleeping accommodations as well as sitting. Cover foam rubber bed pads in harmonizing colors and stack them to make a divan. Separated, they'll do very well for a flock of overnight guests.

Jury Completes Deliberations; Report Filed

Recommendations Cited In Findings

An explanation of the general condition of Allegany County's public school system and sample inspection of various school buildings are suggested by the grand jury of the April term of Circuit Court which filed its report yesterday after three days of deliberation.

In view of the sums of money being spent for educational requirements in the county the grand jurors suggest that hereafter the county superintendent of schools be called upon to explain general conditions of the school system and make any recommendations that he wishes.

They also suggested that sample inspection of various school buildings be included in the inspection made by the grand jury. The jurors now cover the County Infirmary, County Home, Sylvan Retreat, Court House, County Jail and the County Building on Union Street.

One Indictment

During the three days it deliberated the grand jury examined 24 witnesses and returned one indictment. It is "of the opinion that organized criminal activity is not present in Allegany County and that conditions in connection with law enforcement are not unusual."

In its five-page report the investigating body requests that law enforcement units of the county continue the vigil for obscene or indecent books, magazines, drawings or photographs and to take prompt action in referring violations to the state's attorney's office for prosecution.

The report indicates the jurors are in agreement the County Infirmary "is very well managed and the patients seem to get excellent care both medical and otherwise." The physical condition of the County Home is "very good and unusually clean," the jurors said.

Retreat Filled

Plans for the enlargement of Sylvan Retreat should be prepared, according to the jurors, who said the building is filled to capacity but the physical condition of the property is satisfactory with "a clean, well kept and orderly appearance." Plans for the installation of an elevator previously recommended are being carried out.

The grand jury recommends consideration of a common kitchen for preparation of food for the three institutions.

Referring the Court House, the jurors feel the present elevator should be replaced with a self-operating type which would improve service and eliminate the job of the operator "for further economy." They suggest among other things that the wiring in the building be renewed and the lighting modernized.

Paint Needed

The whole building should be painted inside and the windows caulked. Other interior repairs should be made and a study of the outside area should be made to improve parking for employes and visitors, they said.

A study of the inside of the county jail for general repairs including heating, windows, cell blocks, and plumbing and toilet seats should be made. They also suggest that the fire escape recommended by the previous grand jury be installed. Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein and his staff "are to be commended for the excellent condition of the building under the circumstances," the jurors reported.

They found the County Building to be clean and in good condition although the basement should be cleared of fire hazards with old records and materials being discarded. Hand rails should be provided to the outside entrance steps and cupboard space should be provided for the new floor cleaner. The men's room needs general overhaul.

More Space?

After inspecting the books of the county treasurer, the jurors noted that the equipment is automatic and highly efficient. Records were found to be in good order and the work was being performed in a proficient manner. The report said it appears that more space for this department will be necessary. The office staff was commended.

The grand jury concurs with the previous grand jury in endorsing the effort of J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington Memorial Committee, and Senator J. Glenn Beall, author of Senate Bill 299, for their continued effort authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to erect a monument at Fort Cumberland in honor of George Washington, and suggest that a replica of Fort Cumberland be built in the upper extremity of the old Canal Parkway.

The jurors also recommended that in the future the reading of the recommendations of the previous grand jury be made immediately following the consideration of the criminal presentments in order to allow the jury time to consider if the recommendations were properly acted upon.

The jurors commended County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and State's Attorney James S. Getty for their thorough presentation of evidence and the assistance they rendered.

Walter N. Hedrick was foreman of the grand jury.

Fire Truck Tests Are Set Today

Cumberland's new fire truck will be tested today at 9:30 a. m. at the Constitution Park pool, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

He said the pumper will be tested by John Himes, engineer for the Maryland State Underwriters Rating Bureau.

Chief Parker said the test will include the pump and all equipment and will take from three to five hours.

Members of East Side Fire Company, which will get the new American LaFrance 1,000-gallon triple combination pumper, will be on hand for the tests and will receive instruction in its use from Mr. Himes.

The new equipment is expected to prove satisfactory, as similar tests were made before it was shipped from the factory at Elmira, N. Y., last week, firemen said.

Chief Parker said the pumper will probably be accepted by the city early next week.

State To Limit Teacher Study Scholarships

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state will offer only 149 teacher education scholarships for the 1962-63 scholastic year because of a heavy drain on funds appropriated for the program.

The Board of Public Works directed the Department of Education Wednesday not to offer the scholarships to any other person in the event any of the 149 candidates chosen for a scholarship does not accept.

The board also said the education department should not fill any scholarship vacancy which becomes available before June 30, 1963.

The action was taken by the board after it approved a $46,000 emergency appropriation in order to supplement teacher education scholarships for next school year.

The shortage in the fund resulted from the appointing of four-year scholarships to fill vacancies caused by persons dropping out of the program after a year or two.

As a result this stacking up of four-year scholarships, the state was committed to 700 $500-a-year scholarships when the General Assembly had appropriated only enough for 608 scholarships.

The state gives teacher education scholarships to the top ranking candidates in each of the 23 counties and Baltimore City. The number of candidates from each subdivision is equal to the combine membership from each county and district in Baltimore in the two houses of the General Assembly.

Frank Small Is Endorsed By McKeldin

Gleason Opens Headquarters

BALTIMORE (AP) — Theodore R. McKeldin, the sought after Republican candidate for governor who did not choose to run, Wednesday endorsed one of his political appointees, Frank Small.

"He is a good administrator," said McKeldin of Small. "I know that. After all, I appointed him to top jobs during my administration as governor."

While McKeldin was governor 1950-58, he named Small commissioner of motor vehicles and chairman of the racing commission. Small also served as U.S. Representative from the 5th District 1953-54.

Will Support

McKeldin announced that in addition to Small he will support in the Republican primary May 15 other candidates endorsed by the state executive committee.

These include Edward T. Miller of Easton for U.S. Senate, Newton I. Steers for Congressman-at-large, M. A. Ferris 3d for attorney general and David C. Champion for comptroller.

Ferris and Champion will win the nomination without opposition. Small has two opponents, Joseph L. Pavlock and Mrs. Karla M. E. Balentine.

Opens Office

While McKeldin was endorsing Small, Gleason was opening a headquarters in Baltimore and declaring his campaign was moving into high gear.

He also will open a headquarters in Salisbury. Gleason's first office was in Bethesda.

Gleason spoke to the Hopkins Women's Republican Club in Baltimore Wednesday afternoon. His schedule calls for him to address the Takoma Park Women's Republican Club Thursday and hold a meeting with his Baltimore workers Friday.

All of the candidates who were contacted personally or by telephone indicated they will attend, Mr. Bowen said. Each will be introduced and will be given an opportunity to make a three-minute talk.

Democratic precinct workers, officials and all party members will be welcome, Mr. Bowen stated.

Mahoney Telecast Canceled

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore television station (WBAL) said Wednesday night that it made a last-minute cancellation of a taped political telecast because it felt the show might be libelous.

Brent O. Guntz, vice president and general manager ofthe station said the program—a political telecast by Democratic gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney— " . . . might have contained libelous or slanderous statements by non-candidates."

The station subtituted another taped broadcast by Mahoney which had been shown earlier in place of the one originally scheduled.

Gunts said that no censorship can be made of a candidate's statement so long as the candidate speaks for himself. But, he said, a radio or television station " . . . may be held liable for libelous statements made by non-candidates."

Contractors Resume Work On Route 40

Weather Delays Start In Garrett

The 1962 highway construction program in Allegany County started off with a bang this week as contractors resumed work on three contracts toward the modernization of U. S. Route 40 east of here.

And a local firm has been notified by the Maryland State Roads Commission that it is the low bidder on a fourth Route 40 project scheduled to begin this spring.

John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer, said the Route 40 contracts which have started up include:

—Relocation, grading, draining and paving of Route 40 from Willowbrook Road to the Naves Crossroads, Cumberland Contracting Company.

—Relocation, grading and draining of U. S. Route 40 between Sideling Hill Mountain and Town Hill Mountain, George F. Hazelwood Company.

—Modernization of U. S. 40 from the top of Polish Mountain eastward toward 15-Mile Creek, S. J. Groves and Sons.

The SRC has notified the S. T. Brotemarkle Company of Cumberland that its bid last week of $688,371.50 was low on a contract for grading and draining relocated U. S. 40 from Watson Road 4.335 miles westward to Mountain Road.

No award has been made on the project which is scheduled to get under way this spring.

Delayed by weather was a start on the modernization of a 1.1-mile section of Route 42 in Garrett County. The Baughman Construction Company is expected to resume work as soon as the weather permits.

Yellow Traffic Lane Plan Is Adopted Here

Traffic lanes in Cumberland will be painted yellow this spring, according to Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The painting program is one of the subjects which will be discussed at a Police Department staff meeting today.

Mr. Fleming said the use of yellow paint for all traffic lanes is being adopted throughout the United States.

He said yellow lines are easier to see at night and are endorsed by the National Safety Committee.

White will be used, however, for pedestrian crosswalks as in the past.

Mr. Fleming said part of the painting program will have to be delayed until a number of streets are resurfaced.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Jury Completes Deliberations; Report Filed

Recommendations Cited In Findings

An explanation of the general condition of Allegany County's public school system and sample inspection of various school buildings are suggested by the grand jury of the April term of Circuit Court which filed its report yesterday after three days of deliberation.

In view of the sums of money being spent for educational requirements in the county the grand jurors suggest that hereafter the county superintendent of schools be called upon to explain general conditions of the school system and make any recommendations that he wishes.

They also suggested that sample inspection of various school buildings be included in the inspection made by the grand jury. The jurors now cover the County Infirmary, County Home, Sylvan Retreat, Court House, County Jail and the County Building on Union Street.

One Indictment

During the three days it deliberated the grand jury examined 24 witnesses and returned one indictment. It is "of the opinion that organized criminal activity is not present in Allegany County and that conditions in connection with law enforcement are not unusual."

In its five-page report the investigating body requests that law enforcement units of the county continue the vigil for obscene or indecent books, magazines, drawings or photographs and to take prompt action in referring violations to the state's attorney's office for prosecution.

The report indicates the jurors are in agreement the County Infirmary "is very well managed and the patients seem to get excellent care both medical and otherwise." The physical condition of the County Home is "very good and unusually clean," the jurors said.

Retreat Filled

Plans for the enlargement of Sylvan Retreat should be prepared, according to the jurors, who said the building is filled to capacity but the physical condition of the property is satisfactory with "a clean, well kept and orderly appearance." Plans for the installation of an elevator previously recommended are being carried out.

The grand jury recommends consideration of a common kitchen for preparation of food for the three institutions.

Referring the Court House, the jurors feel the present elevator should be replaced with a self-operating type which would improve service and eliminate the job of the operator "for further economy." They suggest among other things that the wiring in the building be renewed and the lighting modernized.

Paint Needed

The whole building should be painted inside and the windows caulked. Other interior repairs should be made and a study of the outside area should be made to improve parking for employes and visitors, they said.

A study of the inside of the county jail for general repairs including heating, windows, cell blocks, and plumbing and toilet seats should be made. They also suggest that the fire escape recommended by the previous grand jury be installed. Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein and his staff "are to be commended for the excellent condition of the building under the circumstances," the jurors reported.

They found the County Building to be clean and in good condition although the basement should be cleared of fire hazards with old records and materials being discarded. Hand rails should be provided to the outside entrance steps and cupboard space should be provided for the new floor cleaner. The men's room needs general overhaul.

More Space?

After inspecting the books of the county treasurer, the jurors noted that the equipment is automatic and highly efficient. Records were found to be in good order and the work was being performed in a proficient manner. The report said it appears that more space for this department will be necessary. The office staff was commended.

The grand jury concurs with the previous grand jury in endorsing the effort of J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington Memorial Committee, and Senator J. Glenn Beall, author of Senate Bill 299, for their continued effort authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to erect a monument at Fort Cumberland in honor of George Washington, and suggest that a replica of Fort Cumberland be built in the upper extremity of the old Canal Parkway.

The jurors also recommended that in the future the reading of the recommendations of the previous grand jury be made immediately following the consideration of the criminal presentments in order to allow the jury time to consider if the recommendations were properly acted upon.

The jurors commended County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and State's Attorney James S. Getty for their thorough presentation of evidence and the assistance they rendered.

State To Limit Teacher Study Scholarships

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state will offer only 149 teacher education scholarships for the 1962-63 scholastic year because of a heavy drain on funds appropriated for the program.

The Board of Public Works directed the Department of Education Wednesday not to offer the scholarships to any other person in the event any of the 149 candidates chosen for a scholarship does not accept.

The board also said the education department should not fill any scholarship vacancy which becomes available before June 30, 1963.

The action was taken by the board after it approved a $46,000 emergency appropriation in order to supplement teacher education scholarhips for next school year.

The shortage in the fund resulted from the appointing of four-year scholarships to fill vacancies caused by persons dropping out of the program after a year or two.

As a result this stacking up of four-year scholarships, the state was committed to 700 $500-a-year scholarships when the General Assembly had appropriated only enough for 608 scholarships.

The state gives teacher education scholarships to the top ranking candidates in each of the 23 counties and Baltimore City. The number of candidates from each subdivision is equal to the combine membership from each county and district in Baltimore in the two houses of the General Assembly.

Mahoney Telecast Canceled

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore television station (WBAL) said Wednesday night that it made a last-minute cancellation of a taped political telecast because it felt the show might be libelous.

Brent O. Guntz, vice president and general manager ofthe station said the program—a political telecast by Democratic gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney— " . . . might have contained libelous or slanderous statements by non-candidates."

Gunts said that no censorship can be made of a candidate's statement so long as the candidate speaks for himself. But, he said, a radio or television station " . . . may be held liable for libelous statements made by non-candidates."

The canceled telecast, which also was on tape, was another blast leveled against Gov. Tawes in connection with Maryland's and loan scandal.

The film paraded a retired man, mothers and their children on the screen to tell how they blamed Tawes for losing deposits in Maryland savings and loan associations.
